AMERICAN SHIP SINKS SUBMARINE WITH FIRST SHOT

SHELL SMASHES PERISCOPE

CAPT. LAUDS MARKSMEN

"First Gun of War" Fired Off the British Coast on Anniversary of Lexington.

LONDON, April 25.—Captain Rice of the American steamship Mongolia, which has arrived at a British port, told The Associated Press today that the Mongolia had fired the first gun of the war for the United States and sunk a German submarine.

The submarine, Captain Rice said, was about to attack the great steamship in British waters on April 19. He declared there was absolutely no doubt that the U-boat was hit, and that there was every reason to believe it was destroyed.

The periscope was sighted dead ahead on the last afternoon of the voyage. The Captain gave the order for full speed ahead with the intention of ramming the submarine. The periscope disappeared, and a few minutes later reappeared on the ship's broadside. The gunners fired, hitting the periscope squarely and throwing up a mountain of water.

Clean Hit at 1,000 Yards.

The naval gunners on board made a clean hit at 1,000 yards. The periscope was seen to be shattered.

The most pertinent fact as regards the ultimate fate of the submarine was that the shell disappeared immediately after the hit was made. The Captain said that a shell always ricochetted in the waters and could be seen again unless it found the mark. Oil also was seen on the water after the submarine disappeared.

The Mongolia was going at full speed and was a long distance away when the spray and foam subsided, but from the bridge the officers observed the spot through their glasses, and they are confident the submarine was sunk.

Captain Rice outlined the incident with modesty, but could not quite conceal the pride he felt in the achievement of his ship. He paid a high tribute to the gunners, and especially to the manner in which they were handled by the officer who directed the firing of the telling shot.

Captain Describes Sinking.

"For five days and nights," said Captain Rice, "I hadn't had my clothes off, and we kept a big force of lookouts on duty all the time. It was 5:20 o'clock in the afternoon of the 19th that we sighted the submarine. The officer commanding the gunners was with me on the bridge where, in fact, we had been the most of the time throughout the voyage.

"There was a haze over the sea at the time. We had just taken a sounding, for we were getting near shallow water, and we were looking at the lead when the First Mate cried, 'There's a submarine off the port bow.'

"The submarine was close to us, too close, in fact, for her purposes, and she was submerging again in order to manoeuvre in a better position for torpedoing us when we sighted her. We saw the periscope go down and the swirl of the water. I quickly ordered a man at the wheel to put it to starboard, and we swung the nose of the ship toward the spot where the submarine had been seen.

"We were going at full speed ahead, and two minutes after we first sighted the U-boat it emerged again about 1,000 yards off. Its intention probably had been to catch us broadside on, but when it appeared we had the stern gun trained full on it.

"The Lieutenant gave the command and the big gun boomed. We saw the periscope shattered and the shell and the submarine disappeared.

"Fine Exhibition of Efficiency."

"I can't speak too highly of the cool mannner in which the Lieutenant handled his crew of gunners. It was a fine exhibition of the efficiency of American naval men. The Lieutenant knew before the shell struck the submarine that its aim was accurate. There is no guesswork about it, but a case of pure mathematics.

"Taking the speed at which the Mongolia was traveling at the time and the speed which the submarine undoubtedly would make, and computing these figures with the distances we were from the submarine when it was first sighted and when it appeared the second time, it can be shown that the Lieutenant had his gun sighted to the inch. And it must be remembered that the whole affair took only two minutes.

"I assure you we didn't stop to reconnoitre after the incident, but steamed away at full speed, for it was not improbable that there was another submarine about. The one I got undoubtedly had been lying on the bottom at this spot waiting for the ship and came up when it heard our propellers. I im-

Germans Again Raid Dunkirk; Sink a French Destroyer

PARIS, April 25.—Dunkirk was bombarded by German destroyers early this morning. British and French patrol ships engaged the Germans, one of the French torpedo boats being sunk, according to an official announcement tonight. The statement reads:

"A German destroyer flotilla bombarded Dunkirk between 2:15 and 2:25 this morning. The coast batteries replied and British and French patrol ships engaged the enemy, who retreated in the direction of Ostend at great speed. One of our torpedo boats was sunk in the brief action. The enemy's losses are not known."

$200,000,000 LOAN ON BRITISH NOTE

CASHED BY BANK HERE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, this morning handed to Lord Cunliffe, Governor of the Bank of England, a Treasury warrant for $200,000,000. In return Lord Cunliffe gave to Secretary McAdoo a note on behalf of the British Government, thus completing the formalities attending the first loan made to any Entente Government under the new $7,000,000,000 war finance measure.

It had been announced that America would cut red tape in meeting the pressing necessities of the Allies. There was no red tape about the simple transaction this morning in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury. The transfer was made in the presence of Federal Reserve Board, Treasury, and British Embassy officials.

Lord Cunliffe at once took the Treasury warrant to the British Embassy, where it was delivered to Sir Cecil Spring-Rice. With Lord Cunliffe were Sir Richard Crawford and Sir Samuel Hardman Lever, Under Secretary of the British Exchequer.

Sir Cecil indorsed the warrant over to the United States Treasury with a request that the amount be deposited in the Federal Reserve system to the credit of his Government.

The fund, it is understood, is to be employed to meet payments for war supplies already delivered or soon to be delivered by manufacturers in this country under contract to the British Government. There are now due on such contracts fully $100,000,000.

Britain Gives Her Note.

The evidence of the debt on part of Great Britain is in the form of a single note for the full amount made payable June 30 and bearing a like rate of interest with the United States Treasury certificates, 3 per cent. This rate is a distinct saving in interest for the British Government, whose war paper is ordinarily taken at 4½ to 5 per cent.

The warrant for the loan is the largest check ever drawn on the Treasurer of the United States in the history of the financial operations of the United States Government.

Probably it is the largest ever drawn in this country on any occasion.

In completing the transaction the Federal Reserve Bank in New York City late today paid a check for $200,000,000 drawn on it by the representative of the British Government to a representative of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co.

The loan made today to Great Britain will take the place of a private loan which Great Britain had contemplated obtaining from J. P. Morgan & Co. on securities of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Arrangements looking to the issue by Morgan & Co. had been under way for some time when Secretary McAdoo requested that they be deferred, and indicated that the Government would meet Great Britain's immediate needs.

Belgium May Be Aided.

It has not yet been decided by Treasury officials whether Great Britain, Italy, France, Russia or Belgium—for Belgium is to have money if she wants it—is to get the next loan. All except Belgium have presented their applications for relief to the American Government. Secretary McAdoo expects to spend the next ten days or so in studying the situation in each country, as represented by the visiting officials here, with a view to co-ordinating their requests, formulating a definite program, and ascertaining just what sum will be needed in the first offering of bonds soon to be placed before the public. It was said tonight that France might get the next loan.

Secretary McAdoo is constantly receiving subscriptions for the Treasury certificates. He received a dispatch today from a private banking house asking if any but members of the Federal Reserve banking system could participate in the loan, and stating that, if permitted, the concern would be glad to take $5,000,000 of the certificates. The inquiry was promptly answered with the information that not only national banks but all private banking institutions, trust companies, and private individuals could buy the certificates to any amount. The volume of subscriptions for these certificates now exceeds $300,000,000.

GERMANS MASS FOR BIGGER BATTLE BEFORE NEW LINE

British, Too, Suffer Heavily, but They Are Pressing Slowly Forward.

8 ATTACKS ON GAVRELLE

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, April 25.—The battle which is still in progress east of Arras is developing rather like the early days of the Somme battles, when the British fought stubbornly to gain or regain a few hundred yards of trenches in which the enemy resisted under cover of great gunfire and to which he sent up strong bodies of supporting troops to drive the British out by counterattacks.

In the ground east of Monchy, between the Scarpe and the Sensée Rivers, the situation is exactly like that, and, as I said yesterday, the line of battle ebbed to and fro in an astonishing way, British and German troops fighting backward and forward over the same ground with alternating success. The attack made by the Scottish troops yesterday afternoon and English troops at 3:30 this morning re-established the line on this side of the two woods called Bois Vert and Bois du Sart, and on the further side of Guémappe.

Parties of British troops who had been cut off, and were believed to be in the hands of the enemy, were recovered yesterday, having held out in the most gallant way in isolated positions. Among them were some of the Argylls and men of the Middlesex regiment. The British barrage preceding an infantry attack actually swept over them, and they gave themselves up for lost, but escaped from the British shells and German shells which burst all around them and seemed in competition for their lives. A similar case happened with a party of Worcester men, recovered last night. They were cut off in a small copse, and lay quiet there for several days, surrounded by the enemy. They had rations with them, and lived on them until they were gone. They were then starving and suffering great agony for lack of water, but still would not surrender, and last night they were rewarded for their endurance by seeing the enemy retire before the advancing waves of English troops, the enemy suffering big losses, but replacing them each time by fresh battalions.

The fourth division of Prussian Guards has now been brought up against the British, among several other new divisions. They continue to show determination to hold the British back from a nearer approach to the Hindenburg line, in spite of the frightful casualties already suffered.

Ground Covered With Dead.

It is impossible to estimate the German losses during the last three days, but successive counterattacks were smashed by shell fire, machine-gun fire, and rifle fire, so that the ground was heaped with their dead. There have been no fewer that eight counterattacks already upon the village of Gavrelle, and not one of them reached the British front line; but they have been broken and dispersed.

In the first counterattack upon the British line opposite Monchy between 2,000 and 3,000 Germans left Bois Vert, but after many hundreds had fallen they retired to reorganize. The second attack was in greater numbers and rolled back the British line for a time, but has now been foced to retire to its old position in the woods, which the British kept continually under an intense fire, so that the slaughter there must be great. The guns never cease their laboring night and day, shelling the enemy's infantry positions, batteries, lines of communication, railheads, and crossroads, so that no troops may move except under the menace of death or mutilation.

Nevertheless, faced by the great peril to his main defensive lines, the enemy is massing troops rapidly for a battle on even a bigger scale. The British troops are passing through fiery ordeals with that courage which is now known to the whole world, so that I need not labor to describe it—a patient courage in great hardships, great self-sacrifice in the midst of great perils, sane and unbroken in spite of horrors upon which the imagination dare not dwell.

From a Colonel of an English South Country battalion I heard today a narrative which would surely make angels weep, but although just out of the infernal ordeal he told it calmly, and his hand only trembled as he pointed on his trench map to the positions which his men had taken and where they had most suffered. His story deals with only a small section of the battle front. His losses were greater than those of most battalions, and all the fighting which he directed had for its object certain trenches which would mean nothing if I gave their names.

His battalion headquarters were in a dugout actually in the front trench line from which his men attacked, and it is

All China but President Is Overwhelmingly for War

PEKING, April 25.—At a conference of Provincial and Military Governors, at which the Premier presided, it was voted unanimously that China should enter the war against Germany.

WARSHIPS LOCKED IN FIGHT

LONDON, April 25.—A story of the engagement between British and German destroyers in the English Channel off Dover on the night of April 20, compiled by the British Admiralty from accounts of officers and men who participated, was issued tonight. It is an exciting and graphic story of a boarding encounter with cutlasses and bayonets, recalling the days when wooden warships came together and the men fought on the decks.

The British destroyers Swift and Broke, on patrol duty, were steaming on a westerly course. It was intensely dark, but calm. The Swift sighted the enemy at 600 yards, and the Germans instantly opened fire. There were six German destroyers, according to German prisoners. The Swift replied and tried to ram the leading enemy destroyer. She missed ramming, but shot through the German line unscathed, and, in turning, neatly torpedoed another boat in the enemy line. Again the Swift dashed at the leader, which again eluded her and fled, with the Swift in pursuit.

In the meantime the Broke had launched a torpedo at the second boat in the line, which hit the mark, and then opened fire with every possible gun. The remaining German boats were stoking furiously for full speed.

The Broke's commander swung round to port and rammed the third boat fair and square abreast the after funnel. Locked together thus, the two boats fought a desperate hand to hand conflict. The Broke swept the enemy's decks at point blank range with every gun from main armament to pompom, maxim, rifle, and pistol.

Fights Off Boarding Party.

Two other German destroyers attacked and poured a devastating fire on the Broke, whose foremost gun crews were reduced from eighteen to six men. Midshipman Donald Gyles, although wounded in the eye, kept all the foremost guns in action, he himself assisting the depleted crews to load. While he was thus employed a number of frenzied Germans swarmed up over the Broke's forecastle out of the rammed destroyer and, finding themselves amid the blinding flashes of the forecastle guns, swept aft in a shouting mob.

The midshipman, amid the dead and wounded of his own gun crews, and half blinded himself by blood, met the onset single-handed with an automatic revolver. He was grappled by a German, who tried to wrest the revolver away. Cutlasses and bayonets, being among the British equipment in anticipation of such an event, the German was promptly bayoneted by Seaman Ingleson. The remainder of the invaders, except two who feigned death, were driven over the side, the two being taken prisoner.

Two minutes after ramming, the Broke wrenched herself free from her sinking adversary and turned to ram the last of the three remaining German boats. She failed in this object, but in swinging around, succeeded in hitting the boat's consort on the stem with a torpedo. Hotly engaged with these two fleeing destroyers, the Broke attempted to follow the Swift in the direction she was last seen, but a shell struck the Broke's boiler room, disabling her main engines.

The enemy then disappeared in the darkness. The Broke, altering her course, headed in the direction of a destroyer, which a few minutes later was seen to be heavily afire, and whose crew, on sighting the British destroyer, sent up shouts for mercy. The Broke steered slowly toward the German, regardless of the danger from a possible explosion of the magazines, and the German seamen redoubled their shouts of "Save! Save!" and then unexpectedly opened fire.

The Broke, being out of control, was unable to manoeuvre or extricate herself, but silenced the treachery with four rounds; then to insure her own safety, torpedoed the German amidships.

Rescue Sailors from Sinking Craft.

Meanwhile, the Swift continued her pursuit, but slight injuries which she received earlier in the action prevented her from maintaining full speed, so she abandoned the chase and sought fresh quarry. Sighting the outline of a stationary destroyer, from which shouts were heard, the Swift approached warily with her guns trained, to find that it was the destroyer which had already been rammed by the Broke. The Germans were bellowing: "We surrender."

Fearing treachery, the Swift waited, and presently the destroyer keeled over and sank stern first, the crew jumping into the water.

As no other enemy was visible, and the action, which had lasted approximately five minutes, appeared to be over, the Swift switched on her searchlights and lowered boats to rescue the swimmers. Those who remained of the crews of the Swift and the Broke, after exchanging details of the action, cheered each other until they were hoarse.

GERMANY URGED TO STATE FRANKLY HER AIMS IN WAR

AUSTRIA READY TO QUIT?

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 25, 5:10 P. M., Released by German Censor 7:50 P. M., (via London.)—The Delphic remarks of the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung on German war aims have raised protests in the organs of all parties, from the Vorwärts to the Kreuzzeitung. Nobody is satisfied, while everybody finds some consolation in what remains unsaid in this semi-official statement.

The Tageblatt describes the situation created in political circles by the Zeitung's article as follows:

"We, too, consider these utterances anything but a masterpiece. It is deplorable that all declarations of the German Government regarding the question of war aims are unintelligible, artificial, indistinct, and of many meanings. We have remarked this nearly every time the Chancellor has spoken on this subject. In all these cases we have protested that such language was more harmful than beneficial to the cause of the German people; that it confirmed or permitted to continue unchecked annexationist aspirations which must afterward be disappointed; that in foreign countries it could not win us the goodwill of the pacifists, but would be used against us by our war-mad enemies.

"It was also a mistake, as it since has been proved, that President Wilson's direct question concerning our war aims was evasively answered by the statement that they would be communicated the moment we should be seated at the green table with the representatives of the Entente.

"No doubt all this hesitation on the part of the Government was caused by apprehension that those party organs and annexationist agitators who were filled with the spirit of Pan-Germanism might raise too great a row. But these circles and papers cannot possibly make any more noise than they have thus far, and these matters are so serious that one should not stop at such a consideration.

"We for our part have always held that Scheidemann's status quo peace would prove most unsympathetic not only to the German masses, but to all the nations concerned, and therefore would have little chance of becoming a fact. That after such a war everything should remain as it was before seems most repugnant to the imagination of all peoples.

"The only peace possible must be based on a business compromise. Only such a peace seems calculated to reassure the whole world. Instead of manipulating with confusion phrases and platitudes of many meanings the German Government ought to set down its program and say frankly how its peace looks."

AUSTRIA MAY QUIT CENTRAL ALLIES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 25.—From specially well-informed sources THE NEW YORK TIMES representative learns that there is some ground for believeing that the days of the Quadruple Alliance are numbered. No statement of the kind can of course be predicted definitely, but it is believed to be certain that Austria is looking around for ways and means of shaking off the German fetters which bind her to a continuation of the war, from which she can expect no solid gain.

A clear distinction is drawn between the secret move by Austria in the direction of freedom from German shackles and the illusory "peace moves" which Berlin is generally ready to foster with the object of opening up divergences between the Allies. There is no danger, for instance, of Italy accepting proposals from Austria without the fullest consultation and agreement with the other signatories of the London agreement. The terms and spirit of that document will be most loyally adhered to. The London agreement, however, while precluding any Entente Power from making separate peace does not prevent the Entente Powers together making peace with separate members of the Central Alliance.

It is unnecessary to go into details of the reasons which may be presumed to be actuating Austria, for the changes which the revolution in Russia and the entrance of America into the war have brought about in respect of territorial

55 British Merchantmen Sunk By U-Boats Last Week; 27 Unsuccessfully Attacked; 9 Fishing Vessels Lost

LONDON, April 25.—The weekly statement of vessels sunk, as made public this evening, shows that forty vessels of over 1,600 tons each were sent to the bottom by mines or submarines. The statement reads:

"Weekly shipping returns: Arrivals, 2,586; sailings, 2,621.

"Sinkings, by mine or submarine, over 1,600 tons, 40, including 2 sunk in the week ending April 15; under 1,600 tons, 15, including 1 sunk in the week ending April 1.

"Vessels unsuccessfully attacked, 27, including 1 attacked the week ending April 8.

"Fishing vessels sunk, 9, including 1 sunk the week ending April 15."

This shows the greatest number of vessels reported sunk since the British Government has issued its weekly statement of shipping losses. The previous reports were:

	1,600 Tons.
	Over	Under

	Over	Under
April 18	19	9
Totals	170	73

The report also shows that more vessels were successful in evading attack, the figure being 27, as against 19, the previous high figure.

London Papers Issue Grave Warning on Increase in Sinkings by U-Boats

"Tell British People the Whole Truth," Is the Cry—Efforts at Shipbuilding Could Be Greatly Increased, One Writer Asserts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, April 26.—The naval correspondent of The London Times says a study of the figures given in the official return of the ships sunk last week does not conduce to optimism. They do not give the tonnage of the losses, and without these only an approximate idea of what has been destroyed can be obtained. The fact that the arrivals and sailings have been more numerous does not diminish the gravity of the situation. In these vessels all nationalities are included. The Times, in an editorial, says:

"If fuller details were furnished, the case would be found still worse. We see no good, but on the contrary much harm, in trying to shirk or minimize the facts. It does not deceive the enemy, who sees in it a sign rather of weakness than of strength, and it tends to produce a sense of false security among our own people. We do not suggest for the moment that the returns as given are intended to produce this effect, but we know they do produce it. If the people do not realize the magnitude of the loss because they only see that about 2,500 ships or more arrived and sailed, and that some fifty-odd were lost and the proportion looks comfortably small. People think to themselves: 'Yes, the Germans get a certain number, but they will have to go on for a very long time before they make a serious hole in the total.'

"It is vain for Sir Edward Carson, who himself always has been very frank about the submarine menace, or for other members of the Government, to tell the public that the situation is increasingly serious, when reassuring figures are issued week by week and accompanied by complacent comments. It would be far better, as Runciman said, to tell the whole truth and to let the country realize what is before us. Everything in this country depends on the intelligent comprehension by the public of the real situation."

The Daily Mail says:

"This week's return is very grave. Even so it does not show the full extent of the damage done by the German submarines. Its figures, of course, are truthful as far as they go, but they refer only to the British ships, and the result is they give a false impression.

"They do not include, French, Italian, American, and neutral vessels, all these being sunk, as well as British ships. We have reached a point of the war where we rely to some extent upon neutral tonnage to bring us our supplies; thus the loss of Norwegian and of Spanish ships trading to this country affects us, although it makes no appearance in our returns.

"The second point which must be remembered is that these losses are cumulative. They are felt more and more severely as they continue, just as the turns of a thumbscrew are little felt at first, but when they increase they grow increasingly painful."

The Daily Telegraph in an editorial says:

"The gravity of our position has not yet, we fear, been realized in spite of the speeches of First Lord Sir John Jellicoe and others. Sir Edward Carson has admitted the menace. He said: "It is grave, it is serious, and it has not yet been solved." Jellicoe, speaking in the early days of this year, declared it was then 'far greater' than at any period of the war. The condition is worse to day that it was when the First Sea Lord spoke, as the latest Admiralty returns of ships sunk at sea prove. The Germans are striking at our most vulnerable point, and they are reaping full advantage of ruthlessness unparalleled in modern warfare. They armed themselves with weapons of great scientific perfection and, let it be confessed, they have caught us at a disadvantage. The Germans must be denied a 'quite speedy victorious ending of the war,' which they profess to believe the submarine will bring them. They realize that Britain isolated, with her sea communications cut, would be Britain starving and therefore defeated. Every man, woman, and child in the United Kingdom is dependent upon ships for existence, and a country suffering from economic weakness cannot fight.

"It is not easy at the moment, when cheerful news is coming from the other side of the English Channel and other theatres of war, to form a correct appreciation of the position at sea and its economic effects. No success on land can offer compensation for failure by sea. The Germans realize that condition, and for that reason they are devoting vast resources of skilled labor, material, and man power to their submarine operations. They are suffering losses, but so far those have not been so considerable as to deflect them from their purpose. Let us dismiss from our minds the belief that the price is too high for Germany to pay, and that the submarine campaign will be abandoned. The only sound policy in war is to hope for the best and to prepare for the worst.

"What must be done the Prime Minister has told us: 'The road to victory, the guarantee of victory, the absolute assurance of victory, is to be found in one word, ships, in a second word, ships, and in a third word, ships.' The other day the Parliamentary Secretary for the Ministry of Shipping stated that the output in March had been at the rate of 1,000,000 tons a year, but every one who is familiar with the shipbuilding districts is aware that the efforts which are being made are quite inadequate in view of the situation which is daily becoming worse. There is a shortage of labor. Thousands more skilled or semi-skilled workers could be employed. A shortage of material also exists, in some measure, at least, owing to the colossal production of munitions—useless without ships—and we fear to a partial failure on the part of the Admiralty to realize the significance of the First Sea Lord's declaration that without a mercantile marine the navy, or indeed the nation, cannot exist.'

"The position brooks no delay. Not only this country but the whole empire and the allied cause are imperiled so long as the losses at sea are in excess of the production of new ships. It is useless to lean on America, anticipating that she will solve the problem for us. That country is short of labor and short of material, as is officially admitted, and she is now confronted with new demands on both owing to the decision to raise an army for service in Europe. America will assist, but nothing she can do can save us from the consequences of want of effort on our own part."

ADMITS THE GRAVITY OF U-BOAT WARFARE

British Food Controller Warns That Shipping Losses May Force Rationing.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 25.—A definite statement that official rationing of at least two food staples is contemplated by the Government, and that plans to that end are in preparation, at least, was made today by Lord Devonport in the House of Lords. Reports that rationing was on the cards have been current for some time, but have been received by the general public with much skepticism, chiefly because of the idea, which unfortunately has been allowed to obtain wide prevalence throughout the country, that the food situation was being painted in unnecessarily dark colors. Conflicting statements made occasionally by various officials of the Food Control Department have added to the confusion in the public mind.

Lord Devonport's dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES on America's entry into the war, put in brief form one of the main ideas at the back of his mind in regard to the problem with which he has to deal. England has not yet realized how narrow is the margin that in the near future is likely to lie between a sufficiency of certain foods and great scarcity, not to say famine. While voluntary rationing has done something to widen that margin, it has not yet been sufficient to make it a margin of safety. Hence, unless within the next few weeks voluntarism reduces consumption in much greater measure, Joffre Impressed by Salute from Mayflower as She Passes Washington's Tomb.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—France was made to understand today that America's traditional affection for her had not waned—the France personified by men who placed foot this afternoon on American soil as the representatives of that partnership of democratic nations just joined by the United States. Viviani, the statesman, and Joffre, the soldier, heads of the French war mission to this Government, realized before they went to bed tonight that their cause was America's cause.

It was a great day even for Washington, surfeited as this ceremonial city is with spectacles and inclined to be indifferent, a day whose incidents made a deep impression on veterans of public life used to patriotic or partisan thrills. From the moment that M. Viviani, Vice Premier and Minister of Justice, and Marshal Joffre, the man who commanded the forces that stopped the German advance at the Marne and turned the tide against autocratic government of the world, stepped ashore on the territory of their new ally from the official yacht of the President of the United States, at one of the great naval workshops of the Government, where men in jeans were busily engaged in turning out huge guns that may yet throw their thunderbolts into Germany's forts or fleet, they found themselves among friends anxious to pound home the stirring truth that America is in the struggle for democracy with the intention of seeing it through.

In appreciation of the French Government's action in sending to the United States as members of its mission such distinguished citizens, Secretary Lansing today issued this statement:

"It is very gratifying to this Government and to the people that we should have as our guests such distinguished representatives of the French republic as arrived this noon. In sending men who so fully represent the French Government and people we have the very best evidence of the spirit and feeling of France toward the United States. We can assure the French people that we reciprocate this spirit which induced them to send these Commissioners, and rejoice that the two great nations are battling side by side for the liberty of mankind."

Tomorrow morning M. Viviani, Marshal Joffre, Admiral Chocheprat, and the Marquis de Chambrun, acompanied by the staff officers, will call upon Secretary Lansing. Later M. Viviani, Marshal Joffre, and Admiral Chocheprat will cross with the Secretary from the State Department to the White House, where they will be received by President Wilson. Then Marshal Joffre will call upon Secretary Baker, and Admiral Chocheprat upon Secretary Daniels. Mr. Viviani will go to the Capitol to call upon Vice-President Marshal.

In the afternoon the entire party will be taken for a motor trip in the parks in and about the city. They will be guests of honor at a dinner at the White House in the evening. The military, naval, and financial experts expect to hold several preliminary conferences with American officials during the day. They hope to get down to the serious business of their mission by Friday.

No plans for the members of the commission to visit other cities of the United States have yet been made. It is regarded as probable, however, that several trips may be made before the party returns to France.

Whole-Hearted Greetings.

The welcome that the members of the French mission received was not a whit less enthusiastic—perhaps more so—than that given to Arthur J. Balfour and the representatives of the British Government who arrived here last Sunday. The British representatives were more fortunate, if that is the correct word, in the inspiring sunshine of a glorious Spring day. But when the French representatives rode through the wide and shaded streets of the national capital, the overcast skies were forgotten in the warmth of their greeting. And Washington never looked more beautiful. Clouds that obscured the sun and threatened rain, a chill that suggested late Autumn and made overcoats desirable, did not stand half a chance by comparison with the riot of growing green trees and plants in parks and gardens on each side of the broad avenues reminiscent to the French visitors of their own Paris.

Washington's Spring dress seemed even more becoming than ever, for blended with the customary green were the bright colors of the two nations whose destinies have been joined by their battle in behalf of humanity. Viviani and Joffre rode for miles through a lane formed of tens of thousands of cheering Americans. The demonstration in their behalf was all the more remarkable because those cheering people had received scant notice of the coming of the distinguished Frenchmen, and the town had no holiday from its ordinary occupations.

Passed Tomb of Washington.

It has been a day of emotions for the French visitors. They had come up Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac River on the Mayflower from Hampton Roads, where they arrived yesterday from their own country; had passed the tomb of Washington this morning under circumstances that were deeply impressive, and had received greetings from the river city of Alexandria and industrial plants near by that might have warned them of what was to come. But the Washington welcome was so sincere, so demonstrative of a real affection, and so wonderful in the number of those who participated that nothing that had gone before could bear comparison with it.

The Mayflower, bearing the French Commissioners and the members of the official reception party sent to greet them by this Government, arrived at the Washington Navy Yard soon after noon. As the graceful yacht manoeuvred for a landing, those gathered ashore easily picked out the commanding figure of Marshal Joffre from the group of men in conventional black or bright military garb who were gathered around him and M. Viviani. On the broad landing stage were assembled a company of marines and two troops of the Second Cavalry, with the Marine Band at hand to play appropriate music, all these military contingents in blue dress uniforms, with service facings. The members of the French Embassy staff were there also. Spectators were comparatively few, for admission to the yard in these war times had been restricted. It was a silent crowd, evidently deeply impressed with the real meaning of the occasion, and its only demonstration was a round of handclapping when the yacht drew near enough to enable it to recognize by their features the distinguished statesman and the great military strategist who headed the mission.

Band Plays "The Marseillaise."

The Mayflower's landing completed and the lines made fast to the pier, Secretary Lansing, accompanied by Frank L. Polk, the Counselor of the State Department; William Phillips, the Assistant Secretary of State, and Colonel W. W. Harts, U. S. A., the President's aid, walked up the gangplank to extend a welcome to the French Commissioners in the nation's name. As Mr. Lansing reached the deck of the ship trumpeters gave him four flourishes and the Mayflower's band played a few bars of a ceremonial march. The greeting of the Secretary of State was first extended to M. Viviani, and then to Marshal Joffre, and was of an extremely cordial character. Only a few minutes were spent in exchanging felicitations, however, and then the whole party, French and American, came ashore, while the Marine Band played "The Marseillaise," the marines and troopers saluted, and the spectators applauded.

Those who had gone from Washington to greet the members of the French mission, included M. Jusserand, the French Ambassador; Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of State Long, Major Gen. Scott, Chief of Staff of the army, and Rear Admiral Huse, representing the navy. General Scott and Admiral Huse wore the uniform of their service and rank, while the French Ambassador and the American officials were attired in conventional civilian dress.

The group gathered on the quarterdeck of the Mayflower and walked toward the gangplank as the Mayflower's band began playing "The Marseillaise" as a tribute to the tricolor that floated from a masthead of the vessel. The French officers halted suddenly, their heels clicked together, their hands came to the visors of their caps. The civilians halted also and doffed their top hats. It was a salute to the flag of France.

Viviani Shakes Hands.

M. Viviani led the way down the gangplank, followed by Secretary Lansing. On the pier alongside were Rear Admiral Glennon, Commandant of the Washington Navy Yard, and his staff. The Commandant saluted formally, but the French Minister of Justice would have none of it. He insisted on shaking hands. Then came Joffre. Big, sturdy, showing a vigor that denied his more than three score years, he was the Joffre with which Washington and all the country had become so familiar through newspaper photographs and moving pictures. The famous Marshal of France wore the familiar red hat, with its wealth of gold embroidery and its low visor. A military great coat, with a cape, covered the uniform jacket. The overcoat was of Grenadier blue, that stood out prominently among the uniforms of the American officers. The heavy white moustache could not conceal the smile upon his lips.

With Marshal Joffre came the French Ambassador and General Scott.

The welcome given to the French envoys at the yard had been subdued, almost solemn. Some of those who participated in it said afterwards that they were too deeply impressed to cheer. But solemnity changed to outstanding enthusiasm when the procession left the yard and entered the city.

Flanked by Cavalry and Police.

Mounted policemen led the way. Behind them came a squad of cavalry. The line of motor cars was flanked by cavalrymen and cycle police, and another squad of cavalry protected the rear. The leading cavalrymen set a fast pace. They went up Eighth Street from the yard gate at a sharp canter that soon became so rapid that the thousands of spectators lining the way had difficulty in getting a good glimpse of the distinguished visitors as they were whirled past. Scattered groups of school children along this initial stage of the journey cheered as the cars dashed by.

Half a mile or so from the yard gate the procession turned into Pennsylvania Avenue Southeast, not that portion of Washington's great broad thoroughfare familiar to visiting witnesses of inauguration parades, but the section away from "downtown," seen by very few from other places. At the turn is old Wallach School, and a group of other school buildings. Here were gathered hundreds of children and Viviani and Joffre got their first understanding of the enthusiasm of which young America is capable as they reached this point. The youngsters had provided themselves with flags—a few carried the French tricolor, but the great majority bore the Stars and Stripes. Their shrill cheers, accompanied by the frantic waving of the banners, brought M. Viviani's top hat off in acknowledgement and Marshal Joffre touched the familiar cap in formal salute while a pleased smile came to his lips. The cavalrymen and the motor cars dashed by, but from that time on it was a continuous ovation all the way to the residence in the extreme other end of the city where they are to be quartered during their stay here.

Pennsylvania Avenue was lined with spectators rows deep along the curbs on both sides of the great thoroughfare. Everybody seemed to have a flag, the Stars and Stripes or the tricolor. Some carried both kinds. The cavalry was still going at a good pace, but not so fast as to prevent the people from having a real look at the visitors. In the first motor car rode M. Viviani, with Secretary Lansing and Colonel Harts. In the second were Marshal Joffre with Ambassador Jusserand, General Scott, and Counselor Polk. In each of the other motors was some member of the French mission with an official of the United States Government. The members of the staff of the French Embassy were in the cars at the end of the procession.

It was a continuous ovation for M. Viviani and Marshal Joffre. They were kept busy acknowledging the salutes given in the waving of flags and cheers of the crowds. Washington has the reputation of seldom getting enthusiastic. It belied that reputation today. It crowded the windows of business places, dwellings, and big Government department buildings; it stood in thousands along the route of the procession, and made known to the French visitors that they were very welcome. The motor cars that lined the way—and they were many—kept up a continuous din with their horns.

Around the Treasury Department Building, through East Executive Avenue, that lies between the White House and the Treasury, up Madison Place to H Street and out H to Sixteenth Street, the procession went along at the same sharp pace. Sixteenth Street, lined for the most part by residences of well-to-do people, was a sight to delight the eyes of the Frenchmen after their long ocean voyage. The trees that made an arch for nearly its entire length were heavy with foliage and blossoms. Hardly a house lacked some bit of patriotic color. The American, British, and French ensigns flew side by side from many of them. The roadway was lined thickly with motor cars. Spectators crowded wherever there was space.

Up this beautiful street the procession proceeded, followed by scores of automobiles containing newspaper representatives, and enthusiastic people who couldn't get satisfaction enough from merely seeing the French visitors go by. School children were more numerous than ever.

Saluted by Balfour

The most interesting incident of the hurried progress of the visitors came near their journey's end. In front of Henderson Castle, the mediaeval-looking residence of Mrs. John B. Henderson, was a big motor car. A tall man in it became very enthusiastic as the motors containing Viviani and Joffre approached—so enthusiastic that he attracted their attention. They became enthusiastic also. The tall man and the two distinguished visitors bowed and bowed and saluted. The tall man was the Right Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British mission. When the procession had passed Mr. Balfour's carriage started for the MacVeagh residence, which he is occupying. He was recognized by the crowds and cheered wildly.

The crowds increased as the procession approached the residence of Henry White, former Ambassador to France, which will be occupied by the French Commissioners while they are here. Washington High School Cadets, without arms, stood at salute as the visitors passed.

Mme. Jusserand, wife of the French Ambassador, welcomed the French envoys as they entered the White residence. A short time only was spent in exchanging felicitations on the cordial reception given by the people of Washington to the visitors, and then Secretary Lansing and the American officials took their leave, while M. Viviani, Marshal Joffre, and the others of their party went to the French Embassy for luncheon. Viviani and Joffre had to appear on the balcony of the embassy to acknowledge the enthusiastic greetings of throngs of school children who had gathered outside.

When the Mayflower this morning approached Mount Vernon, the home and tomb of George Washington, fourteen miles below this city, the crew lined the rails at salute, the bell of the ship was tolled, and the French visitors and the Reception Committee stood at attention, while the bugles sounded "taps." Marshal Joffre was particularly impressed by this ceremony. As the yacht drew away from Mount Vernon he walked to the very stern of the vessel, and stood silently watching the Washington Mansion until it was hidden from view.

NEW YORK TO GREET ENVOYS.

Mayor Mitchel's Committee on Decoration, of which Cass Gilbert, the architect is Chairman, is planning to make Broadway, Fifth Avenue and Riverside Drive "a blaze of color by day and of light by night" when the members of the British and French War Commissions come here after the conferences in Washington. It was announced yesterday that the committee was working on a broad scheme of decoration for the principal thoroughfares and public squares, and that an appeal would be made to citizens to co-operate in carrying out the color scheme decided upon.

A list of some of the "landmarks and public squares" to be decorated and the men in charge of the work was given as follows:

Bowling Green, Ernest Peixotto and Herbert Grossbeck; City Hall Square and City Hall building, Grosvenor Atterbury; Washington Square, Horace Moran; Union Square, Harold Greenley; Madison Square and Pennsylvania Railroad Station, Ernest Lewis; Public Library, Mr. Fairbanks; Plaza at Fifty-ninth Street, Robert Aitken; Columbus Circle, John Gregory; Joan of Arc Statue, Eugene Savage; Grant's Tomb, Frank C. Jones, aided by Sherry Fry and Julian E. Garnsey.

Appeals will be made to representatives of all churches, clubs, hotels, and business houses to decorate the façades of the buildings, and artists co-operating with the committee will be at their disposal. All citizens are requested, as far as possible, to display the British and French flags with the Stars and Stripes on their residences and places of business. Flags of all the other allies may be used also and photographs of the leaders of the allied Governments displayed in store windows and draped with flags.

The Committee on Illumination, headed by Henry S. Thompson, has decided that apart from a "golden way" along Fifth Avenue from Washington Square north, the public illumination will be mostly by the flood light system used in lighting the Statue of Liberty. The owners of tower buildings, such as the Woolworth, Singer and Metropolitan Buildings, will be asked to furnish special lighting, and the committee will urge that a public request be made in the name of the Mayor that along specified routes blinds shall be pulled up during the evening and all lights left burning.

The flood lighting system will be used at Grant's Tomb, City Hall and on all statues of American, French and British heroes. A big electric sign will be erected on the City Hall showing the flags of the three nations.

A badge has been designed for the committee and shows the three flags joined together in a bow and surmounted by the cap of liberty. A medal also is being struck bearing on one side the "Liberty" of Saint-Gaudens used on the latest $20 gold piece, and on the reverse the design of the Franklin penny, to symbolize that this country is with the Allies from its first penny to its last dollar.

URGES ALLIES TO USE IDLE NEUTRAL SHIPS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 25.—Means of partially solving the transport question and tiding over the interval till the United States can build a fleet of wooden ships and repair the German vessels seized in American ports, is suggested in a leading article in the Petit Parisien. The writer advises the Allied Governments to buy up the neutral shipping now in their ports, which is immobilized for fear of submarines. He says:

"Before Germany inaugurated the new submarine campaign, that is, before Feb. 1, she indemnified neutrals for ships sunk by submarine. In former times belligerent powers never hesitated to appropriate neutral shipping. Germany did so in 1870, invoking an old maritime law known here as the "Droit Angarie." She seized English vessels on the Seine, although she had given permission for them to use the river. These vessels the German military authorities sank to block Seine navigation.

"By a new application of this law the Allied Governments could arrange to take over all immobilized neutral shipping which at present is of no profit to the owners. If the boats are sunk the neutral owner would be sure of an indemnity. On the other hand, it is not likely these indemnities would be excessive, as the vessels turned over to the Allies would be armed, and it has been proved that amply armed merchantmen run comparatively little risk from submarines. The measure, if applied at once, would certainly alleviate the shortage."

SEEK NO ALLIANCE, BALFOUR ASSERTS

ANSWERS DOUBTING CRITICS

KNOWS WE ARE IN TO STAY

"If There Is Anything Certain in Human Affairs, That Is Certain," Says British Secretary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25. — Arthur J. Balfour, the leader of the British mission in Washington, today disclaimed any intention on the part of the Entente powers to obtain a formal alliance with the United States in the prosecution of the European war. He asserted that, aside from any other consideration, no written treaty was needed to add to the strength of the community of interest which now binds America to Great Britain and France in a single cause.

"No treaty," he said, "could increase the undoubted confidence with which we look to the United States, who, having come into the war, are going to see the war through. If there is any certainty in human affairs, that is certain."

The statement was made in the course of a talk today to a group of newspaper correspondents. Mr. Balfour made it plain that he was seeking to set at rest once and for all any suspicion that Great Britain and France were seeking through their international commissions to draw the United States into an "entangling alliance."

"I am told," he said, "that there are still some doubting critics who seem to think that the object of the mission of France and Great Britain to this country is to inveigle the United States out of its traditional policy, and to entangle it in formal alliances, secret or public, with European powers. I cannot imagine any rumor with less foundation, nor can I imagine a policy so utterly unnecessary. Our confidence in the assistance which we are going to get from this community is not based upon such shallow considerations as those which arise out of formal treaties."

Mr. Balfour's talk was filled with the utmost confidence in the solidarity of the American nation behind the cause for which it has enlisted, and with appreciation of the great assistance which America can give to the prosecution of the war. The whole-hearted character of the assurances of American aid which he has received from President Wilson and Secretary Lansing could be inferred from many of his remarks.

"No man who has had the opportunity which I have enjoyed in the last few days," he said, "of seeing, hearing, and talking to leading members of your State can for one moment doubt the full determination of the American people to throw themselves into the greatest conflict which has ever been waged in this world."

His talk made it evident that his stay in America had assured him that there was no danger of this nation wishing to make a separate peace, and also that a formal pledge to that effect was unnecessary.

The British leader spoke informally, and while he held in his hand a paper containing a few notes, he glanced at it only once. He received the newspaper men in the drawing room of the MacVeigh house, which he is occupying here, standing straight before the fireplace throughout the interview, with his audience in a half-circle about him. He spoke simply, with no effort at studied effect, yet many times those who heard him were obviously moved by the feeling in his voice.

Mr. Balfour's Statement.

When the newspaper correspondents had been presented, Mr. Balfour said:

"Gentlemen, I am very much obliged to you for coming here today and giving me the opportunity of expressing to you personally, and through you to the great American public, how very deeply we, who belong to this mission sent from Britain, value the kindness, the enthusiasm, the warmth of welcome which we have received in this capital city of the United States. All our hearts are gratified and touched personally. We are even more deeply touched by it as being the outward and visible manifestation of sympathetic emotion in carrying out and responding to a great call, which is the real security for our success.

"No man who has had the opportunity which I have enjoyed in the last few days of seeing, hearing, and talking to leading members of your State can for one moment doubt the full determination of the American people to throw themselves into the greatest conflict which has ever been waged in this world. I do not suppose that it is possible for you—I am sure it would not be possible for me were I in your place—to realize in detail, in concrete detail, all that the war means to those who have been engaged in it for now two years and a half. That is a feeling which comes, and can only come, by actual experience. We on the other side of the Atlantic have been living in an atmosphere of war since August, 1914, and you cannot move about the streets, you cannot go about your daily business, even if your affairs be disassociated with the war itself, without having evidences of the war brought to your notice every moment.

"I arrived here on Sunday afternoon and went out in the evening after dark, and I was struck by a somewhat unusual feeling which at the first moment I did not analyze; and suddenly it came upon me that this was the first time for two years and a half or more when I had seen a properly lighted street. There is not a street in London, there is not a street in any city of the United Kingdom, in which after dark the whole community is not wrapped in a gloom exceeding that which must have existed before the invention of gas or electric lighting. But that is a small matter, and I only mention it because it happened to strike me as one of my earliest experiences in this city.

The Tragic Side of War.

"Of course, the more tragic side of war is never, and cannot ever be, absent from our minds. I saw with great regret this morning in the newspapers that the son of Bonar Law, our Chancellor of the Exchequer, was wounded and missing in some of the operations now going on in Palestine, and I instinctively cast my mind back to the losses of this war in all circles, but as an illustration it seems to me impressive. I went over the melancholy list, and, if my memory serves me right, out of the small number of Cabinet Ministers, men of Cabinet rank who were serving the State when the war broke out in August, 1914, one has been killed in action, four at least have lost sons, and now that Bonar Law's son is wounded and missing—not, I hope, lost to us, but still in a position from which he may not return to his friends. That is the sort of things that have happened in quite a small and narrowly restricted class of men, but it is characteristic of what is happening throughout the whole country.

"The condition of France in that respect is evidently even more full of sorrow and tragedy than our own, because we had not a great army, we had but a small army when war broke out, whereas the French army was of the great continental type, was on a war footing, and was, from the very inception of military operations, engaged in sanguinary conflict with the common enemy.

"We have today amongst us a mission from France. I doubt not—indeed, I am fully convinced—that they will receive a welcome not less warm, not less heartfelt, than that which you have so generously and encouragingly extended to us. That was and certainly will be increased by the reflection that one member of the mission is Marshal Joffre, who will go down through all time as the general in command of the Allied forces at one of the most critical moments in the world's history.

"I remember when I was here before there was a book which was given out in the schools called 'The Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World.' I do not know whether they all quite deserve that title, but there can be no doubt or question whatever that among the decisive battles of the world, the Battle of the Marne was the most decisive. It was a turning point in the history of mankind, and I rejoice that the hero of that event is today coming among us and will join us, the British nation, in laying before the people of the United States our gratitude for the sympathy which they have shown and are showing, and our warm confidence in the value of the assistance which they are affording the allied cause.

Seeking No Formal Alliance.

"Gentlemen, I do not believe that the magnitude of that assistance can by any possibility be exaggerated. I am told that there are some doubting critics who seem to think that the object of the mission of France and Great Britain to this country is to inveigle the United States out of its traditional policy, and to entangle it in formal alliances, secret or public, with European powers. I cannot imagine any rumor with less foundation, nor can I imagine a policy so utterly unnecessary.

"Our confidence in this assistance which we are going to get from this community is not based upon such shallow considerations as those which arise out of formal treaties. No treaty could increase the undoubted confidence with which we look to the United States, who, having come into the war, are going to see the war through. If there is any certainty in human affairs, that is certain.

"Two years and a half have gone since the war began, and the great public on this side of the Atlantic has been watching, with deepening interest, the bloodstained drama going on across the ocean, and I am well convinced that as each month has passed, so has the conviction grown among you that after all it is no small or petty interest that is involved in this war, it is no struggle for so many square miles of territory, for some acquisition, some satisfaction of small national ambition. It was nothing short of the full consciousness that the liberties of mankind are really involved in the issue of this struggle that was animating the allied countries.

"With such a cause the American public has always been in full sympathy, and now, after watching it through all these months, you have found yourselves impelled to join in the great conflict. I feel perfectly certain that you will throw into it all your unequalled resources, all your powers of invention, of production, all your man power, all the resources of that country which has greater resources than any other country in the world, and already having come to the decision, nothing will turn you from it but success crowning our joint efforts.

"This expresses the sentiments with which I have been animated ever since I came to this city—my sentiment of gratitude, my sentiment of hope. I do not hope that I have anything of value to add.

"Allow me to thank you most heartily again for having come here for this brief interview, and to express my gratitude for what you have done and my firm confidence that all of you will, wielding the great power you do, exercise it in the convincing cause of justice, truth, and peace."

It was learned today that some members of the British mission have been disturbed over some unjustified interpretations which have apparently been placed on published reports of their activities and statements. It was reiterated emphatically today that the mission wishes it understood that they have confined themselves, and will confine themselves, solely to discussing British experience, and must not, in any sense, be interpreted as seeking to suggest courses of action to America. In laying before the American Government the facts which they have brought with them they are leaving the Government and people of the United States to draw their own conclusions and plan their own course without gratuitous advice.

BALFOUR AT ITALIAN EMBASSY

Has Luncheon There and Dines at the British Embassy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25. — Official Washington was so fully occupied today with welcoming M. Vivani, Marshal Joffre, and the other members of the French mission that little time was afforded today for business conferences between the British and American officials. Aside from a visit which Mr. Balfour paid to the Treasury Department today to confer with Secretary McAdoo, and some informal conversations on the shipping question, no business was transacted by the British visitors.

Mr. Balfour took luncheon at the Italian Embassy, and this evening he, with the other members of the British party, dined at the British Embassy. The dinner was followed by a diplomatic reception at the embassy, at which the diplomatic corps greeted the British guests. Mr. Balfour and the other British leaders had intended to call this afternoon on the members of the French mission after their arrival, but postponed the visit when they learned that the Frenchmen wished to have the whole day to rest after their long trip.

Now that the French are here, at least another day or two probably will be occupied in the social requirements of the visit before either commission can really begin detailed work. It was made plain today the British intended to act jointly with the French, just as they have pooled their interests in Europe, although the two missions probably will touch on different subjects in their dealings with the United States. Each mission is particularly qualified to discuss different phases of the war problem, and it was said today that two years' experience had made it possible for the two nations to interlock in conferences of this kind without friction or overlapping each other's work.

MORE BRITISH ARRIVE.

Munition and Ordnance Experts Here to Aid Balfour Mission.

Seven British officers and war experts arrived in New York yesterday and proceeded to Washington to join the British commission there which is headed by Mr. Balfour. There were about thirty members in the party, composed mainly of experts on munition work, ordnance, commissary supplies, and medical work. They were accompanied by a Sergeant and five orderlies of the Scots Guards in uniform to act as orderlies to the members of the commission.

Among the members was Judge M. S. Amos, who devised the plan of subletting munition contracts from one contractor to another. It is known as the "priority" scheme and is said to have proved of great value to the British Government in keeping a continuous supply of munitions pouring into the Government arsenals and depots.

Other members of the party were Colonel Thomas Goodwin, ordnance expert; Major Langhorn, gunnery; Surg. Major Heron, army medical expert, and Captains B. P. Sheldon, J. A. Leeming, and James McGowan.

Captain M. E. De Jarny of the French army arrived on the same steamship to join the party of army officers who arrived a week ago from France to instruct the students of Harvard University in the art of modern warfare.

conduct of the Broke's helmsman, Seaman William Rowles, who, though hit four times by shell fragments, remained at the wheel throughout the action, and finally only betrayed the fact that he was wounded by reporting to his Captain, "I'm going off now, Sir," and fainted.

A number of the wounded only presented themselves in the sick bay the following day, one stoker giving the surgeon the ingenuous excuse: "I was too busy, Sir, clearing up the rubbish on the stokers' mess deck."

Captain Evans, commander of the destroyer Broke, is the well-known antarctic explorer and was the last man to see Scott when they parted 145 miles from the south pole.

The German Government has issued another statement regarding the fight, reiterating its claim to having destroyed British ships. This is again denied by the British Admiralty. The German statement says:

"The sinking of the enemy leading destroyer, which was mentioned in our official report Saturday, was clearly observed by the crews of the whole group of our torpedo boats. The enemy vessel was hit by a torpedo amidships and sank stern foremost within five minutes.

"Five minutes later a heavy explosion occurred on another British destroyer, followed by an outbreak of flame, probably due to torpedoing by one of our torpedo boats, which has not returned. Judging from the severity of the explosion, which was observed by the crews of several of our torpedo boats, it is highly probable that this vessel also was sunk.

"Another British destroyer, which passed astern of our torpedo boats, received a big hole forward from our gunfire. Its bridge was in pieces, so that it hung over the vessel's side. Its stern was afire.

"Another leading vessel, which broke through about twenty meters behind one of our vessels, received two artillery hits just behind the bridge. Another British destroyer was hit beneath the bridge."

"This fantastic story should be read in conjunction with the account of the action now being circulated. There was no loss on our side."

Homes Needed for Jewish Children.

The Children's Home Bureau of the Department of Public Charities has issued an appeal for homes for Jewish children. The bureau wishes foster parents for some children until their own parents are able to take care of them, while for other children permanent homes are wanted. Payment of $18 a month is made for the care of each child. In the last six months the bureau has cared for over 500 children in private homes. This includes Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant children, each being placed in a home of the same faith.

RESERVE BANK HERE PAYS $200,000,000

the paying teller's window of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York by a representative of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., who received in return twenty cashier's checks of $10,000,000 each.

This exchange of pieces of paper completed the transaction for the transfer of $200,000,000 from the Government of the United States to the Government of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. About an hour earlier, in Washington, William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, had handed to Lord Cunliffe a Treasury warrant for the $200,000,000.

Upon receiving the twenty $10,000,000 checks, the Morgan firm deposited them in banks and trust companies, and they will pass through the Clearing House this morning. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, which is a special member of the Clearing House, will send in this morning the big batch of checks which it received yesterday from the banks in its district in payment of the 3 per cent. Treasury certificates of indebtedness, the New York Reserve Bank receiving by far the major share of the total subscriptions to the $250,000,000 issue. The $200,000,000 payment made to the Morgan firm will offset the sums received by the Reserve Bank, and while today's clearings will, no doubt, be unusually large, the net balance should be about normal.

Bankers said that the $200,000,000 check paid to the Morgan firm was the largest ever drawn. Those who examined the check commented upon the unusual character of the document and the complete absence of formality. There was not an engraved or printed letter on the check. Written in "business longhand," it was addressed to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, calling upon it to pay to the order of J. P. Morgan & Co. the sum of $200,000,000. It was signed "The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, by Sam H. Lever, Financial Secretary." The signature was not in the same handwriting as the body of the check. The signer was Sir Samuel Hardman Lever, Great Britain's financial representative in this country, who came over to the United States about a month ago.

Sir Samuel, who had lived in New York for thirty years, went to England at the outbreak of the war, and offered his services. Being an expert accountant, statistician, and an organizer of experience, he was assigned to important duties in connection with the organization of the Munitions Department. Later he became Assistant Financial Secretary and finally Financial Secretary of the Treasury. He is a man of independent fortune, and has refused compensation from the British Government. He [illegible]

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York had yesterday [illegible] its history. Early in the morning messengers from various banks flocked to the bank's office with checks in payment of subscriptions to the Treasury certificates of indebtedness. Every half hour or so letter carriers dropped in with heavy bundles of registered letters containing remittances from out-of-town institutions. Very little cash, however, had to be handled because practically all of the subscribing banks sent their cashiers' checks, which will be paid through the Clearing House this morning. The New York Reserve Bank received in all 210 subscriptions. In some cases New York institutions made payments for their out-of-town correspondents and for local savings banks which are their customers. In cases where the Reserve Bank received payment for subscriptions made by banks outside of the New York district the Reserve Bank made telegraphic transfers to the Reserve Bank of the district in which the subscribing institution is situated. These transfers from one Reserve Bank to another are adjusted through the Gold Settlement Fund in Washington.

Bankers praised the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Banks for the smoothness with which the transaction was handled. They were particularly pleased that the arrangements were such that the payment of subscriptions to the Treasury certificates and the payment of the $200,000,000 to J. P. Morgan & Co., Great Britain's fiscal agents, were made on the same day, permitting an offset of one against the other in Clearing House transactions of the following day. By this arrangement even a temporary dislocation of funds was averted. When the transfer of funds is completed this morning, after the day's clearings, the local banks will be in substantally the same position as they were at the opening yesterday, excepting that the ownership of part of the money will stand in the name of the Morgan firm as agent for the British Government.

Not knowing exactly the procedure that would be followed, some of the Wall Street banks were reluctant to put out money on call on Tuesday, and in fact some of them called loans in anticipation of the withdrawal of funds yesterday morning in payment of their subscriptions to the Treasury certificates. It was for this reason that call money rates advanced to 4 per cent. on Tuesday afternoon. This was the renewal rate yesterday morning, but when the banks learned of the payment made to the Morgan firm and were advised that under the circumstances the two transactions would go through the Clearing House the same day, they began to lend more freely. Some demand loans were made as low as 2 per cent., and the closing quotation was 2½ per cent.

It is understood that the British Government will use part of the $200,000,000 to pay off some of the current demand loans which have no fixed maturity, and that part will be used for the payment of current purchases. It is expected that gradually all of the demand loans will be paid off, but it is not believed that there is to be an immediate liquidation of this form of indebtness.

It is said to be the intention of the British Government to take advantage of the easier terms offered by the United States Government for advances made to it, and furthermore, that it is considered desirable to limit all borrowings to advances made under the bond and short-term certificate arrangement provided for under the American $7,000,000,000 war loan.

About two years ago, when Benjamin Strong, Jr., Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, visited England and France, he undertook to make arrangements for the designation of the Bank of England and the Bank of France as agents of the New York Reserve Bank. This plan has been under consideration by the Federal Reserve Board in Washington, which has given its approval. For several months negotiations have been going on between the institutions, and at one time it looked as if the reciprocal arrangements would not be put into actual operation until after the war, but now that the United States has entered into the world conflict and Lord Cunliffe, Governor of the Bank of England, is in this country, it is quite likely, bankers say, that the final details will be worked out in the very near future.

URGE LIMIT FOR INCOMES.

New Yorkers Propose $100,000 for the War Period.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Members of the American War Finance Committee came here today to lay before the Ways and Means Committee of the House figures to support their propaganda to permit no income of more than $100,000 a year during the war. A list of twenty-four corporations compiled by the committee shows average increases of 500 per cent. in profits in 1916 as compared with 1914. A statement prepared by the committee said:

"The recent increase in the crop of millionaires and multimillionaires is equally striking. The number of persons with incomes of a million a year and over doubled between 1914 and 1915. It has probably doubled again this year. If the increase in incomes can be compared with the increase in net earnings of corporations this year, probably $1,500,000,000 could be secured to the Government for war purposes from taxes on incomes."

The committee was composed of Sumner Gerard, Alexander M. Bing, and Amos Pinchot of New York City.

"Do you mean to say that you have come here asking to be taxed?" inquired Chairman Kitchen when the committee appeared.

"Yes, that's it," replied the delegation's spokesman.

"Well, I don't know," said Mr. Kitchin. "I've been here more than twenty years and I never heard of anything like this before. Have you the money?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Bing. "I think Mr. Longworth will testify that I belong in the class known as the predatory rich."

Mr. Kitchin, still doubtful that he understood the proposal, promised the committee that he would do the best he could for it.

CANADIANS DEMAND IRISH HOME RULE

Mass Meeting Adopts Resolution Moved by Laurier—To be Debated in Parliament.

OTTAWA, April 25.—The Canadian Parliament will debate the Irish home rule question. The subject was brought forward today by Senator Clorin, who placed on the list of business a resolution declaring that the time had come "when it is the duty of the British Parliament to concede to the Irish people the rights and powers of self-government."

Great interest in home rule is shown in the Canadian capital. Last night there was a large mass meeting in which conspicuous members of Parliament participated. It unanimously adopted the following resolution, which was moved by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the Canadian Liberal Party, and seconded by Senator W. C. Edwards:

> Resolved, That, with a view to strengthening the hands of the Allies in achieving the recognition of equal rights for small nations and the principle of nationality against the opposite German principle of military domination and government without consent of the governed, it is, in the opinion of this meeting of Canadian citizens, essential without further delay to confer upon Ireland the free institutions long promised her.

Speakers included Charles Murphy, ex-Canadian Secretary of State, and C. A. McGrath, Chairman of the joint International Waterways Commission, who spoke as a "representative of Ulster." C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice in the Dominion Cabinet, telegraphed indorsing the sentiments of the resolution.

CLARK IN DEBATE OPPOSES DRAFT

SHERLEY ANSWERS SPEAKER

Quotes Watterson Against Volunteers—Poll Shows Conscription Majority.

Hope Now to Reach One on Saturday—Reed, Vardaman, and Sherman Oppose Draft.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Although Speaker Clark took the floor in the House today and aroused great enthusiasm among opponents of the Administration army plan by his vigorous denunciation of the selective draft and defense of the volunteer system, champions of the unmodified measure still were confident tonight that it would pass not later than Saturday virtually as approved by the President.

The House remained in session until 10 o'clock tonight. Representative Gardner announced before adjournment that he and a number of others had polled the House and had found 237 members in favor of the draft, 113 opposed, and 80 noncommittal.

Its passage in the Senate, where discussion of the bill was continued today, is considered assured and unanimous consent to vote on it there by Saturday will be sought tomorrow. Minor changes made in one House or the other probably will necessitate a conference, so that the bill is not likely to become a law for a week or more.

Speaker Clark spoke for more than an hour. Most of the House membership and many Senators heard him plead in characteristic fashion that the volunteer system be tried again and declare that in the minds of the people of his State the word "conscript" is classed with "convict." Applause frequently interrupted him.

Deploring that he could not stand by the President, whom he declared unreservedly wrong on the question, the Speaker pleaded that an opportunity be given to young men to offer their services voluntarily.

"I protest with all my heart and mind and soul," he shouted, "against the slur of being a conscript placed upon the men of Missouri! So far as Missourians are concerned, there is precious little difference between a conscript and a convict."

The Speaker made a defense of Congressmen who in the face of attack have stood by the volunteer plan.

Champions the Volunteer.

"For several years," he said, "there has been a systematic effort in Congress, in many newspapers, by some public speakers, and in sundry magazines to belittle, depreciate, and minimize the American volunteer. I resent such performance in the name of the living and the dead; in the name of the brave men who gave us our freedom and who have maintained it—in the name of the volunteers who have shed imperishable lustre upon American arms and upon the American Republic.

"The volunteer has done most of our fighting. Under young George Washington he saved the remnants of Braddock's army from destruction. In the French and Indian war he fought side by side with the British regulars. From the day when minute men fired the shot heard round the world down to the last shot in the Spanish-American war the American volunteer has been a very present help in every time of trouble.

"If this stupendous war continues long conscription may become necessary, but in the light of history of English-speaking peoples we contend that it is not necessary now. Conscription has always been repugnant to men of our blood.

"Why do gentlemen doubt the courage and the patriotism of the present generation of Americans? There is not a scintilla of evidence that we are a race of cowards or mollycoddles. As for myself, I love to think well of my countrymen."

Speaker Clark in conclusion announced that his son, Bennett Clark, House parliamentarian, was going into the army, "in any capacity in which he can be useful, either as an officer or a private."

"I hope and pray," said he, "that he may go into battle, not by the side of the slackers and loafers whom the advocates of this bill say they desire to reach, but shoulder to shoulder with free men who serve gladly—willingly—to fight for the honor, the safety, and the perpetuity of this Republic."

Sherley Replies to Clark.

Representative Sherley of Kentucky, who replied to Speaker Clark, read a telegram Henry Watterson of The Louisville Courier-Journal had sent to the Speaker, declaring the volunteer system was as much a relic of the past as is the stage coach, and that his vote against conscription would weaken his usefulness to the country.

Mr. Sherley declared that there was no attempt on the part of conscription proponents to underestimate the bravery or effectiveness of the volunteer soldier, but that modern scientific warfare made the draft system necessary in order to obtain the best results from the whole citizenry.

"The fact to keep in mind here today," he said, "is that we are spokesmen for the nation and not for the individual. The need of the nation and not the wish of the individual is paramount."

Chairman Dent of the committee, leading the volunteer advocates, asked Mr. Sherley why the navy was on a volunteer basis and the army proposed to be on a draft basis.

"Why," asked Mr. Dent, "is it, if you believe we should use the selective system to defend the country, that the navy, the first line of defense, is not selected in the same way?"

"It is one thing," replied Mr. Sherley, "to be able to furnish 300,000 men over a course of years, as ships come into commission, and to get them by the volunteer system, and it is quite another thing to organize a million of men by the volunteer system with the uncertainties of enlistment and of volunteering."

"Does not the gentleman realize that the majority of the Military Committee authorizes the President to proceed with his program?" insisted Mr. Dent.

"Yes," retorted Mr. Sherley, "I appreciate the fact that the gentleman's bill is really built on a repudiation of the principle for which he contends. The principle of volunteering looks to volition of men and not to any system of acquiring of units."

"You certainly do not contend," asked Mr. Dent, "that if the majority bill is adopted the President cannot get everything he asked for?"

"No, no," replied Mr. Sherley, "but he has to get it after the trial and tribulation of finding that the volunteer system is inadequate, and after trying a system that puts upon men the very stigma you say you want to keep from the citizenship."

Huddleston's List of Conscriptionists.

Members on the floor and visitors in the galleries broke into cheers at the outset of the day's debate when Representative Huddleston of Alabama, who opposes the selective draft, read a list of names of men who, he said, favored it. Among them were Henry P. Davison, Frank A. Vanderlip, Frank A. Munsey, Theodore N. Vail, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Elihu Root, and J. P. Morgan. Mr. Huddleston declared that most of the pleas for war and conscription came from members of such organizations as the Harvard, Yale, and Union League Clubs, and not from the working people of the country.

"Everybody who is familiar with industrial oppression and reaction in its most vicious form," he said, "will recognize the men named. They and their associates are the men who rule the nation. They rule it through their newspapers and their wealth."

Representative Bankhead of Alabama followed Huddleston, declaring strongly for conscription.

Representative Byrnes of South Carolina quoted from a history written by President Wilson, depicting the rioting and bloodshed throughout the country that attended the drafts during the civil war.

"Do you think the spirit of the people has changed?" he asked. "It has not, and when conscription is attempted, especially under the infamous and unequal lottery proposition that you have here, you are going to inspire more domestic insurrection and rioting and internal warfare than you imagine."

Representative Tilson of Connecticut, speaking for conscription, said it was not the volunteer he condemned, but the volunteer system. He urged conscription as the only efficient means of raising the army.

Representative Meeker of Missouri, speaking for the draft, said that thousands of men who had come into service in haphazard way through a volunteer system in the European war had gone to unnecessary death. He favored drafting men from 21 to 50 and exempting men under 21.

Proceedings in the Senate.

When the Senate began its fourth day's consideration of the Army bill, Senator Chamberlain, Chairman of the Military Committee, sought unanimous consent for a vote tomorrow afternoon. Several senators thought that too early, and Senator Chamberlain withdrew his proposal, promising to re-submit it later. He said he would be satisfied if the final vote could be reached Saturday.

"The whole preparation for the defense of the country is up in the air until Congress acts on this bill," he said. Mr. Chamberlain will present his request to fix a time for voting tomorrow and is hopeful it will be agreed to. He said tonight there was no indication that many more long speeches would be made.

Senators Reed, Vardaman and Sherman were the speakers of the day. All three opposed the selective draft and upheld the volunteer system. Senator Reed spoke for nearly four hours and attacked the bill in almost every detail. Conscription he denounced as undemocratic and in violation of all American traditions. Also he denied that the bill was a "universal service" measure.

Telegrams from several State Adjutants General declaring that the War Department would not permit increasing the National Guard units were read by Senator Reed.

Senator Vardaman said he would never vote for compulsion until he had been shown that the volunteer system would not work. He criticised the pending bill as another exhibition of the tendency to get away from the principles of democracy.

Senator Sherman declared that he would not "abdicate his power for any Chief Magistrate, Cabinet, or War College." He said England for a thousand years had got along and fought her wars successfully without resort to conscription. The Illinois Senator said "the metropolitan newspapers" which were largely responsible for bringing on the war had not succeeded very well in bringing in recruits. On April 9, he said, there were more recruits in Muncie, Ind., with 35,000 people, than in New York, with 6,000,000.

Senator Curtis introduced an amendment, giving individuals subject to draft an opportunity to volunteer before the draft section operates upon them.

CLARK'S OWN DISTRICT STRONGLY FOR DRAFT

Representative Poll Shows Entire State of Missouri 5 to 1 That Way.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—Missouri, and especially Speaker Champ Clark's district, favors conscription, according to a poll of the largest communities of the State completed today. The sentiment generally in the various cities is five to one against the volunteer plan and in favor of a compulsory draft. Ten leading citizens were interviewed in each place.

Mexico, the largest town in the Ninth Congressional District, which is represented by Speaker Clark, was unanimously in favor of conscription so far as the men interviewed could speak for the popular sentiment. The remainder of the district was as strongly in favor of the President's plan as the other sections of the State.

The most notable opponent of the measure is Moberly, a railroad town was a population of about 11,000. There was a pronounced sentiment against conscription there, most of those voting being in favor of giving the volunteer system a trial before resorting to the other. A very few were opposed to having the United States take any part in the war whatever.

INDIANA EDITORS FOR DRAFT.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 25.—Editors of Indiana newspapers overwhelmingly favor President Wilson's plan of selective conscription for the army. A poll taken by The Indianapolis Star showed that among 162 editors of State papers who voiced their sentiment, 135 were unconditionally in favor of the draft, while only 6 stood unreservedly opposed to it.

Fifteen favored the volunteer system, but several admitted that they supported conscription when the volunteer system had had a thorough test. Six were undecided or non-commital.

The Star took this test of sentiment throughout the State, believing that many of the representatives in Congress who stood opposed to the President's wishes had been misinformed as to the popular opinion.

CASUALTIES OF AMERICANS.

PEASANTS SEIZE LANDS IN RUSSIA

DISREGARD FOOD BOARDS

LONDON, April 25.—Dispatches from Petrograd report that the revolutionary spirit is manifesting itself in the rural districts of Russia, bringing the long-standing agrarian troubles to a head. Notwithstanding the organization of food committees, which are doing their best to make the peasants understand that the land question cannot be wisely settled until the Constituent Assembly is elected, the peasants are inclined to take the matter into their own hands.

Soldiers visiting their rural homes, with or without leave, spread the news of the revolution and lead the peasants against the landowners. This is chiefly the case in the Saratov Government, where the people are often inclined to be turbulent. The peasants here, after passing resolutions of confiscation, have proceeded to take possession of the lands and drive the landowners away.

The peasants announced that they would undertake the Spring sowing themselves, but owing to lack of seed this is said to be impossible. In consequence the sowing is likely to be much delayed and a serious shortage of crops is feared. The authorities are taking the matter in hand and hope to prevent such a misfortune.

Peasants' conferences, to which delegates are sent from even the smallest communes, are being organized in every province of Russia to discuss peasant needs. Those already held have insisted on a proper distribution of land. One characteristic resolution demands that all land which private landowners cannot sow must immediately be surrendered temporarily to the peasants, soldiers' wives to receive shares free, and others at moderate rent, to be fixed by the local community.

Considerable ill-feeling is shown in some districts toward landowners. Bessarabian peasants in one instance sacked a country house and estates belonging to a rich family. The peasants of the Tambov Government surrounded the houses of the landowners and compelled them to sign documents surrendering their lands. In many districts the peasants have taken no action, waiting for the authorities to act. In some parts of Bessarabia the country people are highly reactionary and in one district especially the Odessa military authorities have taken strong measures to suppress a counter-revolutionary movement. The Grand Committee of the Alliance of Peasants has addressed the following petition to the peasants at the front:

"Do your duty. Do not fear that the lands will be divided without you. This division cannot be made by isolated villages, for that would provoke internal quarrels by which the enemy might profit. Only the Constituent Assembly, wherein you will be represented, will decide this important question."

At a conference held at the offices of the Minister of Commerce to discuss the question of a Government coal monopoly, it was proposed to place all mineral combustibles at the disposal of the Government and regularize their distribution. No objection was made by coal representatives at the conference, and it is believed that the scheme will be put into effect about the middle of May.

2,000 JEWS TO BE OFFICERS.

Race Defended at Great Russian Army Congress at Minsk.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, April 25, (Dispatch to the London Daily Chronicle.)—At Minsk a great army congress is being held. Officer and soldier delegates are present from all parts of the army and also representatives of the Council of Workmen and Soldier Deputies and of the Duma Executive Committee. The conference was opened by Rodzianko and great speeches were made by Cheidze, Tzeretelly, Skobeleff and other prominent labor leaders. On the Jewish question Skobeleff said:

"It is the shame of the twentieth century to have to raise this subject. I as a Russian am insulted when I hear it said, 'Shut out the Jews from the universities or they will take all the first places in science.' The Jewish question was one of the chief tools of the autocracy. Russia must be rid of this nightmare."

In June this year over 2,000 Jews will be promoted Lieutenants. Until now no Jews has had the right to hold officer's rank.

Yesterday evening a meeting of the Anglo-Russian Society was held, at which the British Ambassador made a speech, saying that the ideals for which the Allies were fighting were liberty, nationality, restoration, and peace.

Regarding the question of the detention of emigrants, he explained that the emigrants were being held back till their passports were in order. In this connection, M. Milukoff addressed a decisive request to the British and French Governments not to make any distinction between political emigrants returning to Russia, but to afford all, of whatever opinions, every facility for travel. This should do much to calm the labor classes, which have been roused against England by the incitements of the extremists.

Of course Lenine and his followers will continue to attack England, but by their violence they have spoiled their own game. Lenine has broken away from the Social Revolutionary Labor Party, whose views were too moderate for him, and formed a new group, under the title of the Party of the Communists.

The English Socialist delegates are enjoying great popularity in Petrograd. They are now going to Moscow and then to the front. They are exerting great influence in Socialist circles here, especially as regards the war.

The conference of the Labor Party has passed a resolution supporting the Provisional Government and condemning all attempts to undermine its authority. The conference recommends that further representatives of Socialist parties should be admitted to the Government. As regards the war the resolution says:

"With convictions that the relinquishment of the aims of conquest will greatly forward the cause of peace, the Labor Party will use all its authority to support every measure of the Government directed to the earliest possible conclusion, in agreement with our allies, of an honorable peace without indemnity, and based on the right of all nationalities to determine their own fate. At the same time, in view of the undoubted danger at the front threatening the country and its newly won freedom, the Labor Party considers one of the fundamental duties of organized democracy to be the mobilization of all forces for decisive resistance to the aims of conquest of the German imperialists, which do not meet with sufficient opposition in Germany."

There was a period of the war when it was the common boast of Germany that her Austro-Hungarian ally was a dead weight around her neck. Austrian defection now would be calculated to create a different feeling which might translate itself into an attempt to employ in a "punitive" expedition such as the German military mind rejoices in, against the former ally that strategic reserve of which Hindenburg boasted and which in the view of some people here is already being drawn upon to repair the wastage on the western front.

REICHSTAG IN ROW, ADJOURNS TO MAY 2

Muzzles Ledebour, Who Demands Discussion of the Food Situation.

LONDON, April 25.—The adjournment of the Reichstag until May 2, after a brief session yesterday, is reported in a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam. Philipp Scheidemann, Socialist leader, expressed regret that the Reichstag should be convoked, and then adjourned almost immediately.

Georg Ledebour, leader of the Social Democrats, said that regret was not enough. He demanded that the Reichstag should meet today for discussion of the food problem.

"Thousands of workmen," he said, "have been forced to abandon work owing to their distress."

Herr Ledebour's words caused an uproar. Permission to continue his speech was refused.

A Copenhagen dispatch says that the German Reichstag Committee for the Revision of the Constitution will meet for organization May 2. The parties interested in the immediate beginning of the reform work had hoped that the committee would organize yesterday, but the Conservatives and other parties playing for time delayed the selection of their representatives on the committee.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 25.—Philipp Scheidemann, the Socialist majority leader, in a speech in the Reichstag yesterday lamented the fact that the House was about to adjourn, saying that he considered it imperative to thrash out all internal and foreign policies.

"In New York, St. Petersburg, Paris, and London," he said, "war against autocracy is preached. People talk of another year of war. We do not fear it, but it is necessary."

The Rheinish Westfälische Zeitung, speaking of the report published in THE NEW YORK TIMES that the first hundred armed merchantmen would be ready by the first of May, puts the question "Are our boats afraid of American armed merchantmen? If only Roosevelt does not undertake to command this armada."

Militarists Now in Control.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, April 25, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—The strong rally of the reactionary forces in Germany favoring peace with annexation and indemnity has exercised so great a pressure on the Government that the Kaiser's Chancellor has now thrown over Scheidemann, the leader of the Socialist majority party, which has hitherto given the Berlin Government considerable support. So the junkers have triumphed, and so the Socialist policy has been doubly and directly condemned officially.

This triumph of the agrarian junkers and jingoes is announced in no half-hearted fashion by the Pan German press. The official North German Gazette contains what must be regarded as the Government's reply to the Socialist peace resolution of last week. Its statement is that the Government has been pressed from both sides to declare its war aims. On the one hand the Socialists ask it to make their peace policy—no annexation and no indemnities—the official policy of the Government.

On the other hand, the Conservatives demand that the Government shall denounce the Socialist program. But the Government is not to be drawn into any exact definition of its war goal. Public opinion has had freedom to express itself, and the Government, having said its say over matters, has nothing to add, says the official newspaper. It will go ahead uninfluenced by either side.

"The task of the Government," this statement goes on, "is to bring the war to a favorable end as soon as possible. To that is opposed the senseless war demands of our Western enemies. The enemy press works certainly under a severe censorship; but, despite that, it remains noteworthy that it has not reduced in the very least its nonsensical demands, both with regard to annexation and war indemnities.

"Lloyd George draws the Hindenburg line on the Rhine, and the French press suns itself in the thought that Wilson of America will help to win the Rhine frontier. We have not heard any contradiction of that from America."

Hints That Socialists Were Bribed

AMSTERDAM, April 25, (via London.)—The recent strike movement in Germany was discussed at a meeting of the Reichstag Auxiliary Service Committee at which Count von Westarp, leader of the Conservatives, welcomed General Groener's declaration that further attempts to interfere with munitions work would be ruthlessly suppressed. Count von Westarp insinuated that money had played a part in the strike and accused the Socialist minority of playing the game of Germany's enemies. He denied that the trouble was caused by lack of food.

The Socialists indignantly denied the insinuation that bribes had been used, and placed the blame for the strike on the administration of the Spandau works, the fact that the bread ration had been decreased, and on the agrarian policy. One speaker declared that the agrarians, owing to the high price of cattle, fed them with bread and corn, which the munition workers could not obtain.

Count von Reventlow, commenting in the Tageszeitung on Congressman London's cablegram to the Russian Socialists urging them to discountenance the idea of a separate peace with Germany, says:

"It is an interesting and valuable confirmation that the feeling that prevails in all parties in America is that the only acceptable peace is one that will ruin Germany. Thus all the Socialistic elements in the enemy countries are arrayed against us, and German Socialists who dicker with them connive at the ruin of the Fatherland."

The Tageszeitung reprints elsewhere a mass of comment from the Conservative and National Liberal press on the growing Socialistic influence on the Government. It introduces this comment with the remark: "The feeling increases that we are drifting toward an abyss if a strong hand does not steer the German ship of state clear of Scheidemann's course."

GERMAN PRESS ASSAILS WILSON'S 'CORRUPTION'

Asserts That He Is the Tool of Multimillionaires Who Rule America.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 25.—The German press continues to attack America and President Wilson daily. Having exhausted their imagination on the subject of the navy and army, the newspapers now attack American politics and finances, making them responsible for the entrance of the United States into the conflict. Such headlines as "Wall Street Wants War," "Why Wilson Builds Business for Wall Street," and "What Strong Pressure Was Brought to Bear on Wilson to Continue the War," apparently appeal to their readers.

The Kölnische Volkszeitung asserts that President Wilson declared war in order to continue war profits for Wall Street, and prints two columns of statistics, with the names of corporations, intended to show that Wilson's private interests were responsible for his desire to be re-elected during the war. The Volkszeitung, however, says that America is so busy with the making of munitions and other war industries that it has no time to occupy itself with the foreign markets which it intended to control, or to capture those in neutral countries. With the freedom of the seas assured, it predicts, Germany will not have such competition after the war, even from America, as she feared.

The Tageszeitung says that the corruption of political life has drawn America into the war, and that arbitrary and unscrupulous multimillionaires have, in spite of "the democratic electoral system," led America into the fray because they feared that Germany's submarines would prevent the further export of munitions to Europe. The history of the last hundred years, it continues, shows that the capitalists of America control her politics. This paper predicts their downfall as the result of a Congressional inquiry and exposure, and says it is a tragedy that such men as the Astors, Goelets, and Rhinelanders turn against their own ancestors. Perhaps, it says, English capitalists have helped; but in any case it is clear that plutocracy dominates American politics, which are ruled by the multimillionaires' trust of industrial magnates who decided on a war "that is for the freedom of humanity."

Certain Berlin papers publish commercial supplements urgently warning German firms to be on their guard against American financial and commercial competition in the eastern Mediterranean, especially in Turkey and the Balkan States. The American concerns against which warning is given are the United States Steel Corporation the American International Corporation, "the Studebaker Harvester Consolidation," the United States Rubber Corporation, the Western Electric Company, and the Corn Products Company.

TROELSTRA HOPES FOR PEACE.

International Chief Wants Minority Socialists at Conference.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, April 25.—Pieter Jelles Troelstra, President of the International Socialists' Bureau, who has arrived in Copenhagen, says in an interview appearing in the Socialdemokraten that he wants the Socialist minorities represented at the conference at Stockholm, and that, following negotiations he had with the German Foreign Minister, he feels convinced that passports also will be furnished to the minority delegates.

He predicts that the conference will lead to most satisfactory developments, and has reason to believe that Austria is ready to free Serbia and, furthermore, to admit that Serbia should have a seaport. He also thinks Germany is willing to give up Belgium. It is high time, he says, that Germany and Austria should give unequivocable publicity to their war objects, but that it is the duty of Socialists in the allied countries to induce their Governments to amend their peace formula.

He argues that as soon as all the powers take the same standpoint as the Russian Government there will be no reason to continue the war, and he considers that under these circumstances it is impossible that the French and English Socialists will decline to take part in the conference.

All the parties belonging to the International Bureau are invited as well as the Socialist minorities which have been formed in the belligerent countries during the war.

Troelstra tomorrow will continue his voyage to Stockholm.

WORK FOR PEACE WITH RUSSIA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 25.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns from a well-informed source that, despite Philipp Scheidemann's statement that a separate peace is impossible, the German military party, which has completely recovered control of the situation, is now encouraging efforts to obtain a separate peace with Russia on the assumption of the gradual dissolution of Russian army discipline.

JEWISH BUND FOR WAR.

A cablegram was received in New York yesterday from the Central Committee of the Bund at Petrograd, one of the influential Russian revolutionary bodies composed of Jews, stating unqualifiedly that the bund was opposed to a separate peace with Germany. The message was sent to representatives of the bund here who, on April 17, sent this query to the Central Committee:

"Alarming rumors circulating in America that bund advocates separate peace with Germany. We are anxious to know exact position. Cable immediately in detail whether this can possibly be your attitude."

Here is the answer of the Central Committee:

"Replying to your cablegram, the Central Committee of the Bund declares that rumors that the bund is advocating a separate peace between Russia and Germany are false. The general convention of the bund which has just closed unanimously adopted a resolution emphasizing the necessity of fighting for peace by all belligerent countries on the basis of a renunciation of annexation of territory and of indemnities.

"The resolution also pronounces in favor of the right of self-realization by the various nationalities of Russia, and calls upon workingmen the world over to join in the struggle. Until such a peace is obtained foreign danger threatens the Russian revolution. Conference calls for organization of forces to defend revolutionary Russia against that danger."

GERMANS MASS FOR BIGGER BATTLE

lucky, for after the troops had gone forward the enemy's barrage fell behind them and destroyed the ground. The Colonel, with his Adjutant, his Sergeant Major, and his servant, shared this battle headquarters with the commanding officer and staff of another battalion, but not for long. Heavy German crumps were smashing around them and the enemy's barrage fire swept up and down searching for human life. The Colonel of the other battalion was wounded and two of his officers killed.

The Colonel, who was left to record this history, could tell very little of what happened to his men there in the battle less than a thousand yards away. A wounded Sergeant came back and said that the left company was holding out against German counterattacks. Later two young officers came back with a party of men and said they had been ordered to retire by a strange Captain. The Colonel rallied his men, and they went back and retook a trench nearby. Messages came down that the men were half mad for lack of water. The Colonel sent up water by a carrying party, but he believes they delivered it to the enemy, who crept up through the darkness which had now fallen.

Through the day on each side of this Worcestershire Colonel great bodies of troops were fighting forward under an intense shell fire. He saw the enemy's massed counterattacks slashed by the British shrapnel and machine-gun fire and the field batteries galloping to forward positions, but he could see nothing of his own men after once they had gone forward down the sloping ground. His runners were killed or fell senseless from shell shocks. He himself was buried by a shell and dug out again by his Sergeant Major. In the night he was left quite alone, surrounded by dead.

That is one experience in the great battle. There are not many quite so tragic, perhaps, but thousands endured and are enduring dreadful things in the fierce fighting and under the intense fire. Once out of it they are calm and self-controlled, as I saw many of them today just as they had been relieved, and the strongest expression they use is, "It was very hot, sir," or, "I didn't think I should come back."

The wounded are marvelous. The slightly wounded have a long way to walk, hobbling for miles down unsafe roads. Many of them walked back through Monchy when it was a flaming torch, weary and dazed. They came to a casualty clearing station not even now beyond the range of shell fire, so that the men who escaped from the battlefields, waiting to have their wounds dressed, hear the old shrill whistle of the approaching menace, but do not care. It is only by such courage that the British can gain their ground from the enemy, and it is such courage that beats back all those great counterattacks which the enemy is now hurling against them up by Gavrelle and Monchy on the hill.

Fighting on the Somme Outdone.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, April 25, (via London.)—The town of Monchy-le-Preux, which lies about five miles east of Arras, will stand out in history as one of the bloodiest spots of the world war. The fighting north, east, and south of this little Artois village, perched upon a high knoll, has exceeded in intensity any of the individual struggles of the Somme. Efforts of the Germans to retake the village apparently have subsided on account of the sheer exhaustion of their available forces, and the British advance eastward of Monchy continues slowly but surely.

The ground around Monchy, as far as the eye can reach, is covered with the dead, the Germans at times having employed their old tactics of attacking in mass formation. Letteds taken in the last two days from German prisoners, written in front of Monchy, say they regard the situation as worse than it was on the Somme, while the casualties are mounting up as at Verdun. In one of the letters the opinion is expressed that what has made the fighting difficult has been the fact that the opposing forces have not occupied fixed lines but are scattered in half-built trenches on this part of the front.

During one German counterattack on Monday a force of 700 Germans took one bit of trench from a British outpost. The Germans continued to press forward, not noticing that they were passing an isolated trench section on their right. When they were well beyond it several hundred British soldiers poured out of this trench section and the Germans, trapped between two khaki lines, were absolutely wiped out in the fighting which followed. It was a general mêlée, in which the cries of the men engaged hand-to-hand could be heard plainly.

British Losses Not Excessive.

LONDON, Thursday, April 26.—Correspondents at the front say there is no question that the German losses in the Arras battle are immensely greater than the British, which "are, indeed, small, compared with those of the enemy." One reason for this is said to be that the British advance columns are always thin compared with the masses of the German counterattacking forces.

It is recalled that the German General von Arnim said that German counterattacks "cost much blood," and this, it is added, was never more completely verified than in the attempts to capture Gavrelle. In some of these counterattacks as many as 5,000 or 6,000 men were employed, with the result that the slaughter was so terrible that it amounted almost to a massacre. One correspondent writes:

"The phrase 'the dead lie in heaps before our position' has doubtless been used more often than it was justified, but in this case it is true in a literal and natural sense. Body lies upon body where our fire caught the successive waves."

Germany Blames Our Money and Munitions for Great British Attack East of Arras

By KARL ROSNER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GREAT GERMAN HEADQUARTERS ON THE WESTERN FRONT, April 24.—America's money, labor, munitions, and guns worked more havoc in its wrathful threat against the German lines to do this time what was found impossible by the first assault a week ago. And this morning British humanity in khaki flooded the whole country in front of the German trenches at Loos and Arras.

It was the most gigantic infantry effort ever made by the British. Between Hulluch and Lens they formed a living battering ram and thus succeeded in taking about a kilometer of the German first trench. But a German counterattack, following immediately, not only ejected them from the trench but left every British soldier on the battlefield.

The troops welcomed an infantry attack as relief from the rain of iron that the British artillery is pouring on them incessantly.

The German soldiers who had for days been exposed to the hell of gunfire never lost their nerve one moment when the human sea in khaki threatened to swamp them.

On the Aisne and in Champagne, too, a sanguinary struggle around the hills continues as bitterly as in the last eight days. Evidently the French have received fresh munitions and replaced tired divisions by new formations, since the comparative calm of a few days was followed by a fierce cannonade yesterday and several terrible, though futile, onslaughts of infantry.

The position northeast of Condé, which was evacuated by the Germans, was one of the centres of yesterday's operations. From here the French seek to assault the Siegfried position.

Yesterday afternoon the whole line of the Aisne and Champagne front was enveloped in the thunder, steam, smoke, and dust of battle. As on previous days, Craonne bore the brunt of the assault. From the woods of Ville au Bois, the only ground captured by the French during all these days, and still held by them, they sought to gain headway in a northwesterly direction by the route nationale, but had to pay heavily for their attempt without gaining a single meter.

North of the ancienne chaussé leading from Rheims to Suippe the French made runs to gain the hill position around Nauroy, which would have afforded their artillery better aim at Brimont and at the same time served as protection for Rheims. Again the French had to retire unsuccessfully, leaving many dead and wounded on the battlefied and prisoners in German hands.

There was also fierce, if only partial, fighting near Prosnes and Auberive, with the result that the Germans managed to improve their position on a certain spot. The French heavy firing at Brimont was answered by a German cannonade of Rheims ruins, the cathedral tower there being still invested with lookouts.

39 ALLIED AIRPLANES LOST.

BERLIN, April 25, (via London.)—Since yesterday morning, says the official statement issued today by the German Army Headquarters Staff, fighting has continued for possession of the village of Gavrelle, six miles north of Arras. On Monday, the statement adds, 650 British soldiers were taken prisoner.

Twenty airplanes were brought down by the Germans on Monday and nineteen Entente machines were accounted for yesterday on the western front.

Heavy artillery fighting is again in progress over the front of the French offensive. Attacks by the French near Hurtebise in the vicinity of Brimont and west of the Suippe are said to have been unsuccessful.

The statement follows:

Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht: On the battlefield of Arras the fighting has continued since early yesterday morning for possession of the village of Gavrelle. Apart from this the enemy has not repeated his attacks north of the Scarpe.

South of the Scarpe, in the lowlands, the battle again flared up in the afternoon on both sides of the Arras-Cambrai road. British divisions brought forward in deep échelons by way of Monchy and Wancourt attacked on a wide front. As a result of our fire and violent hand-to-hand fighting the assault broke down everywhere with very heavy losses.

In connection with Monday's operations, the number of British dead or wounded lying in front of our lines, according to reports from aviators and men in the trenches, is unusually high. In counterattacks 650 prisoners were taken by our infantry and several tanks were destroyed.

BRITISH ON SCARPE MAKE SLIGHT GAINS

LONDON, Thursday, April 26.—The British continue to push forward their lines east of Arras in spite of the determined resistance of the enemy. The War Office announces tonight that slight gains have been made south of the Scarpe River, all positions being consolidated as soon as they are won. This evening's report emphasizes the heavy losses suffered yesterday by the Germans in this area. Many thousand German dead are lying on the battlefield. Over 3,000 prisoners have been taken since Monday.

South of the Bapaume-Cambrai road the British extended their line from the village of Trescault to the hamlet of Bilhemion on the northeast.

Many air raids were carried out today, the Germans losing fifteen machines and two observation ballooons. Six British airplanes are reported missing.

Fighting took place early this morning along our front between the Cojeul and Scarpe Rivers. Further progress has been made by us, and the ground gained has been secured.

The number of prisoners captured by us since Monday morning is 3,029, including fifty-six officers.

The text of the night statement follows:

Our line has been advanced slightly during the day south of the Scarpe. Two German field guns were captured by us yesterday in the course of the fighting in this neighborhood.

Many thousand German dead are lying on the battlefield we now occupy.

Telegraphing from the British Army Headquarters in France today, Reuter's correspondent says:

"Yesterday afternoon we attacked with considerable forces beyond Monchy and cleared various troublesome points of the enemy. The Germans continued to mass in the Sart and Vert woods, but throughout yesterday and last night our batteries maintained a searching fire, and it is certain that these smoking places are strewn with enemy dead.

"The morale of the Germans is becoming distinctly worse, notwithstanding that they fight doggedly. The best that a Sergeant of the First Guards, a prisoner, could say for his division was that the men were not quite so demoralized as were the men of another corps which he mentioned."

PUBLISHERS CALL FOR A FREE PRESS

Declare That Only Restrictions Needed Are Upon Messages Leaving the Country.

ASK DEFEAT OF CENSORSHIP

General Bridges of the British Army to Attend Dinner at the Waldorf Tonight.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association, in annual convention assembled at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday, passed a resolution urging upon Congress the elimination of the press censorship provision from the Espionage bill now pending. The vote was unanimous.

With but three dissenting votes the association adopted a resolution advocating the passage of the Administration bill "providing for the enrollment of all men capable of bearing arms in this conflict." Copies of both resolutions were telegraphed to President Wilson, Speaker Clark, Vice President Marshall, and to the Secretaries of the Departments of State, War, and Navy, respectively. The resolution with regard to the censorship provision follows:

Against Censorship.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association, representing the daily newspapers, requests Congress to eliminate the press censorship provision from the Espionage bill now pending.

The proposed legislation strikes at the fundamental rights of the people, not only assailing their freedom of speech, but also seeking to deprive them of the means of forming intelligent opinion. It is drastic, yet vague, in its terms, providing the severest penalties for acts the criminal quality of which is to be defined hereafter under a delegated authority. Its possible consequences in restricting the liberty of the press are full of peril to free institutions.

The censorship proposed is believed to be a violation of the Constitution of the United States, which prohibits Congress from "abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." An effort to suspend this constitutional guarantee, whether ultimately sustained or not, is sure to be followed by grave injury to the rights of the people, whose one great safeguard in time of war is an untrammeled press.

A voluntary censorship, suggested by the Government, is being carefully observed by the newspapers of the United States, and no loyal newspaper will knowingly print that which would give aid to the enemy. Any newspaper that willfully pubishes information of military value to the enemy can and should be prosecuted under the law of treason.

Established means of communication, carrying messages ordinarily regarded as private, will be used by an enemy for the transmission of information, and every proper purpose of the proposed legislation would be served by the control of outgoing messages by mail, telegraph, cable, et cetera, and by search of the effects of persons traveling from the United States to foreign countries.

In war especially the press should be free, vigilant, and unfettered. The American people are entitled to a full and frank statement of all that occurs, whether it be good or bad. There can be no justification for a restriction that abridges the liberty of the press, for the people must have confidence that they are getting the truth.

Enroll All Who Are Fit.

This is the resolution with regard to universal service:

Whereas, our country is in a state of war with Germany, and

Whereas, the responsibility for the successful and honorable prosecution of the war rests on the President, and

Whereas, he and the General Staff have devised and are advocating the passage of measures deemed by them necessary in carrying out the grim business committed to them, and these measures are now pending in Congress, therefore, we, the members of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, assembled in convention, believing that duty in this hour calls for support of the President and for willingness to share in all responsibility which American citizenship imposes, whether in bearing arms in the present crisis or preparing to the end that future emergencies may be averted, do hereby Resolve, That we pledge our hearty and undivided support to the Administration in its plans for military preparedness, and, believing that the failure of the Administration measures for the raising of land and naval forces would be regarded at home and abroad as a severe blow to the effectiveness of our arms, and would, in fact, result in giving aid and comfort to the enemy, we urge the Congress to pass without delay the bills supported by the War Department and indorsed by the President, providing for the enrollment of all men capable of bearing arms in this conflict, and any measures necessary for the future creation and maintenance of an effective military force.

With the exception of the press censorship provision, the great gathering of editors and publishers expressed themselves as in full accord with the military measures proposed by the President and the General Staff. Although the selective draft was not mentioned, the resolution on military service was considered an indorsement of it. This resolution caused some discussion and was criticised at length by one of the publishers, who was in favor of the volunteer system; but only three of the three hundred members present at the opening session of the three-day convention voted against it.

The introduction of the censorship resolution was preceded by speeches, both at the meeting and at the luncheon of the Advertising Bureau of the association, which reflected the desire of the publishers to render every assistance possible to the Administration in its preparations for, and its conduct of, the war, and at the same time to avoid the blunders in England at the beginning of the war.

Clark's Son-in-Law Votes No.

Pomeroy Burton, manager and director of The London Daily Mail and other British newspapers, admitted frankly in a speech at the luncheon that England had made a "colossal error" in adopting such a close censorship that the public was "uninformed and misinformed during the first stages of the war," and a warning against a repetition of this mistake in the United States was made by many other speakers.

Major E. B. Stahlman, publisher of The Nashville (Tenn.) Banner, made a speech against the service resolution, asserting that the volunteer system was best for the country. His argument, in general, was that a man who did not volunteer to fight for his country would not be of any great value if compelled to enlist, and that the nation should not attempt compulsion until it had first tried the effect of persuasion. This contention failed to win many converts, and when President Rogers called for a standing vote the negligible opposition of three was disclosed.

One other who spoke against the resolution was James M. Thomson, Speaker Clark's son-in-law, publisher of the New Orleans Item. He opposed it not because it advocated conscription, but because it attempted to "tell Congress what it should do."

R. R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, who is a Major in the First Illinois Cavalry, had risen to his feet to reply to Mr. Thomson and Major Stahlman, but a motion for the previous question shut off further discussion.

Although the two resolutions bearing on the war were of greatest popular interest, the publishers transacted a great deal of business at their first meeting which was of vital importance to the members of the association. They listened to reports on the news print situation and on labor problems, and discussed details for the dinner which is to be held at the Waldorf tonight.

General G. T. M. Bridges, who is in Washington with the Balfour mission as the chief representative of the British Army, has accepted an invitation to attend the dinner.

On Tuesday he waived military convention to talk informally with newspaper correspondents on British experience in raising and training armies. Although he is only 46, he holds the rank of Major General. He was fighting in France two days before the British party left England.

President Rogers called the convention to order promptly at 10 o'clock in the morning, and in his annual address he commented at length on many of the problems of importance to newspapers resulting from the entrance of the United States into the war.

Of the proposed censorship, he said:

"The people are entitled to any and all news which does not endanger the welfare of the country, and to the right honestly to criticise any one who may not be acting for the best interest of the country. The only censorship which can be defended is a censorship which is necessary to keep from the enemy information which might aid in locating our ships, our troops, our munitions and our war supplies.

"Every other kind of censorship, including that of statements showing the condition of our troops, arises from an anti-democratic distrust of the newspaper and of the people, and, being illegal, will not serve to keep the news from the people so long as the newspapers are here to speak for them."

Applause greeted this statement and Mr. Rogers had to wait for it to subside before continuing.

"It is in such serious times as these," he went on, "that the newspapers can and do demonstrate by their faithful service to the public, their willingness to help toward a successful termination of this most horrible war; which termination is to be successful only through the active co-operation of all the people in their willingness to be universally trained and to be sent where, in the opinion of those in power, they can best serve the interests of the country, the country's allies, and the cause of liberty and peace for which we are all now fighting."

Reports submitted by committees after the convention was well under way showed that the association had added many new members during the last year, and that more than 500 editors and publishers either belonged to it already or had sent applications. On Jan. 1, 1916, it had a membership of 359, which had been increased to 406 by Jan. 1, 1917. The applications and new members received since then raised the total to more than 500.

The attendance at yesterday's first sessoin was therefore the largest in the history of the organization, but it is expected that there will be additional arrivals before the dinner tonight.

Today, the convention will begin its second session at 10 o'clock, the election of officers being set down for 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Rogers having served only one term, and as it is customary for the Presidents to have at least two, members of the association asserted that there was no doubt of his re-election.

The election of officers may be postponed until tomorrow because of the great amount of work confronting the delegates, and especially because they are to discuss this morning the details of the report submitted by the Paper Committee.

PUBLISHERS EXPECT EASIER PAPER MARKET

Extensive preparations for increasing the supply of news print paper were reported to the American Newspaper Publishers' Association by its Paper Committee at the convention yesterday. F. P. Glass of The Birmingham (Ala.) News, one of the Vice Presidents of the association, is the Chairman of this committee.

Mr. Glass said that largely through the efforts of A. G. McIntyre, an experienced paper engineer of Canada, a very large increase in the output was assured for this Fall, and that an even greater store would be on hand in 1918. His committee recommends the operation of mills by the Government.

"At an early date your committee entered upon three measures of relief in the paper situation," his report read in part. "The first was to insure economies in consumption through urging publishers to stop returns, to cut off all sorts of free circulation, to hold down size of papers, and to conserve the paper supply in every way.

"The second measure was to co-operate with the Trade Commission in demonstrating the facts in the manufacturing industry, and to obtain through Government power and publicity all the restraint possible upon the oppressions of many of the manufacturers.

"The third measure was for final and permanent relief through the establishment of mills under the ownership or control of newspapers, which will be a large factor in maintaining the competitive conditions that may be brought about by other influences.

"In all of these directions your committee believes much has been accomplished. Waste of paper has certainly been curtailed to a large extent.

"New mills are under way, and a large aggregate of new tonnage is in prospect. Abundant publicity has been obtained. Governmental investigation has established the justice of our cause, and has softened the market. The prospect of substantial relief seems near at hand.

"The leading facts lately developed at Washington are familiar to you. The Trade Commission found such a serious situation and such deliberate violation of the Sherman law that it felt obliged in the public interest to turn its evidence over to the Department of Justice. The costs published in the report of the Federal Trade Commission showed that extortionate prices were being charged by the manufacturers, and that prices had no relation to cost of manufacture or to the natural law of supply and demand; that there was artificial restriction in trade and a tendency to curtail the production."

Here followed a history of the fight waged by the publishers against the manufacturers through the Department of Justice, resulting in the indictment of some of the manufacturers and the postponement of the action against them on their promise to obey the law and to refrain from further manipulating the market.

"The Canadian Dominion and Provincial Governments have offered every inducement," the committee reported, "for development of that country by bonuses, tax exemptions, and everything to favor the manufacturer, even going so far as to prohibit the export to a foreign country of raw materials. There are ample timber resources in the United States for the development of all the newsprint paper mills required on a competitive and economical basis as well.

"The timber resources of the West Coast and of Alaska are now available to the entire territory of this country, including the Eastern seaboard, under competitive rates and conditions. Reforestation in Eastern and Central territory will in time overcome the handicaps now existing.

"The southern part of this country must always depend on the East, West, and North for its supply of newsprint paper, as the woods in the South are not adapted to the manufacture of newsprint paper as spruce and fir are

"It is, of course, from a publisher's point of view, desirable to have these mills developed in this country, particularly in view of the fact that all of the equipment required must be built in the United States, and where mills are developed in Canada at a very excessive duty it is always a charge against production and operation.

"We must, therefore, realize in our efforts for future development that the Northwest and Alaska must not be overlooked. The Government timber resources of these areas are incalculable. They are situated tributary to large rivers, and available for transportation economically to the East through the Panama Canal and across the continent as well. The very much lower cast of production in mills in these districts would more than compensate for the long haul."

The report goes on to say that publishers should co-operate in the support of mills and in assuming part of the risk of transporation. Attention is called to the fact that many publishers have suggested that the Government should go into the paper manufacturing business, and the committee admits that "governmental operation of industrial enterprises in many countries has not been very successful."

"This country, however, is not in that condition," the report goes on. "If there is any department of the Government which is efficient, it is the Department of Agriculture, particularly its Forest Service.

"No citizen of this country need fear that any mill operated under the direction of the Forest Service of this country would be anything but economical. The Paper Committee is inclined to feel that publishers should urge such a step on the part of the Government for broader reasons than their own supply of paper. A paper mill owned and operated by the Government of the United States under its Forest Service, conducted as its other departments are being conducted, would be a model of business efficiency and manufacturing enterprise, and an inducement to capital to share the benefits, which would be accurately demonstrated."

The report calls attention to the fact that at the end of 1916 the stocks reported on hand by the Newsprint Manufacturers' Association were only 49,000 tons, or a little less than a ten days' supply. According to the report of the manufacturers, only 42,000 tons were on hand on Jan. 1, 1917, although, the committee suggests, many more tons probably were in the hands of jobbers.

"The stocks reported for March were 32.261 tons, compared with 51,562 for March, 1916," the report states.

The Paper Committee recommends that all publishers "interest themselves in mills in some manner, either by partial ownership, long-term contracts, or co-operation in construction. Representatives of the Paper Committee will be glad to arrange such a mill connection for any member upon application," the report concludes.

ADVERTISING AS WAR FORCE.

Pomeroy Burton Urges Us to Profit by Britain's Errors.

Some of the blunders committed by England in the early days of the war were pointed out by Pomeroy Burton, manager and a Director of The London Daily Mail and other English newspapers, in a speech yesterday at the third annual luncheon of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association at the Waldorf.

"The advertisers have it in their power greatly to increase the efficiency of this country for war," said Mr. Burton.

"Surely, in the present situation, this country should profit by England's experience. The advertisers now have it in their power to create an immense amount of patriotic sentiment. Agents should ask all their clients to devote 10 per cent. of their contract space to strictly war purposes. Advertisers should be induced to write their copy in a patriotic strain, making war spirit, so far as possible, run through all their advertisements."

Other speakers at the luncheon were Percival S. Hill, President of the American Tobacco Company; George W. Perkins, Henry C. Brown, advertising manager for the Victor Talking Machine Company; William A. Thomson, Director of the Bureau of Advertising; John M. Imrie, manager of The Canadian Press Association, and Percival H. Sisson, Assistant Chairman of the Railway Executives' Advisory Committee. John F. McKay was the toastmaster.

All of them urged the advertisers to join with all other citizens of the nation in a united effort to bring the war to a successful conclusion.

MR. STONE RE-ELECTED.

Officers Chosen by the Directors of The Associated Press.

The Board of Directors of The Associated Press at a meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Frank B. Noyes, Washington Star; First Vice President, Ralph H. Booth, Muskegon (Mich.) Chronicle; Second Vice President, E. P. Adler, Davenport (Iowa) Times; Secretary and General Manager, Melville E. Stone; Assistant Secretary and Assistant General Manager, Frederick Roy Martin; Treasurer, J. R. Youatt.

VIENNESE BROKERS WARNED

Bull Movement Based on Peace Rumors Held Ill-Advised.

COPENHAGEN, April 25, (via London.)—Vienna dispatches report that an official warning has been posted on the Vienna Exchange against the dangers of a speculative bull movement based on peace rumors.

The warning declares that, while the military and political situation undoubtedly justifies confidence, a greater reserve is advisable.

MODIFIED SPY BILL REACHES THE HOUSE

WIDE POWERS TO PRESIDENT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The Administration Spy bill, somewhat softened in the provisions that apply to newspapers and publicity generally, was introduced in the House today with a favorable committee report by Chairman Webb of the Judiciary Committee.

The section considered most important is:

"Whoever, with intent or knowledge, or reason to believe that the information to be obtained is to be used to the injury of the United States, copies, takes, makes, or obtains, or attempts to copy, take, make, or obtain, any sketch, photograph, photographic negative, blue print, plan, model, instrument, appliance, document, writing, code book, or signal book connected with the national defense, or any copy thereof, or with like intent or knowledge, or reason to believe, directly or indirectly, gets or attempts to get information concerning the national defense, shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both.

A subsequent section includes "information" among things that cannot be transmitted to any person without proper authority, under a penalty of $10,000 fine or five years' imprisonment, or both

"During any national emergency, resulting from a war to which the United States is a party, or from threat of such a war, the President may, by proclamation, declare the existence of such an emergency and by proclamation prohibit the publishing or communicating of or the attempt to publish or communicate any information relating to the national defense which, in his judgment, is of such character that it is or might be useful to the enemy. Whoever violates any such proclamation shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000, or by imprisonment for not more than ten years, or both; provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to limit or restrict any discussion, comment, or criticism of the acts or policies of the Government or its representatives or the publication of the same."

A section to prevent false statements with intent to interfere with the operation or success of United States forces is included.

A new section says:

"Whoever, when the United States is at war, unlawfully injures or destroys by fire or explosives, or attempts to so injure or destroy, any article or the place wherein it is produced or stored, with intent to prevent, interfere with, or obstruct the exportation of such articles from the United States, shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than ten years, or both."

In his report Chairman Webb said the committee had been careful to make only willfully unlawful acts punishable. Of the section relating to the censorship proclamation he said:

"This section has been carefully and patiently considered by the committee. The committee realize that the section as recommended gives the President broad powers, but it must be admitted by all patriotic persons anxious for the success of our arms that in times like these through which we are now going it is important that the Commander in Chief shall have authority to prevent the publication of national defense secrets which would be useful to the enemy, and, therefore, harmful to the United States. We feel confident that the President will not abuse this authority, but will exercise it in the spirit in which it is given, by safeguarding the public welfare by preventing our vital national defense secrets from falling into the hands of the enemy.

"We believe that the public and the newspaper world will heartily co-operate with the President and the Congress in attaining this worthy end. The proviso in this section is hardly necessary to be written into the bill, but for the purpose of assuring the public and the newspaper fraternity that nothing in the President's proclamation shall limit or restrict discussion, comment, or criticism of, the acts or policies of the Government, or of its representatives, the clause is inserted."

Mr. Webb quoted the following from a letter of Attorney General Gregory asking for the passage of the bill:

"Many acts committed in the United States in serious violation of its sovereignty and against the peace and the safety of its citizens are not now punishable by any Federal criminal law; others are punishable only under unsatisfactory statutes passed in relation to conditions altogether different from those now prevailing. The present laws relating to neutrality are clearly defective. In some cases no statutory provision whatever is made for the observance of obligations imperatively imposed by international law upon the United States. In other cases inadequate provision is made. In my opinion the passage of the new legislation herewith submitted is required for the protection of the United States and its citizens and for the fulfillment of the duty owed by the United States to other nations with which it is at peace."

AMERICA TO CENSOR ALL CABLE MESSAGES

Companies Agree to Co-operate with Government—'Phone Lines to Mexico Included.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Censorship of all cables touching the United States and of telegraph and telephone lines into Mexico will be established shortly by executive order. Regulations formulated jointly by the State, War, Navy, and Justice Departments and the new Committee on Public Information were approved today by the representatives of the various wire and cable companies.

The cable consorship offices will be at New York, Key West, Galveston, and San Francisco, where the cables touch. The navy will direct the cable work, probably with civilian censors, while the army will control the communication lines into Mexico.

There is no plan for extending the censorship to lines of internal communication. The chief object of the order will be to prevent the transmission to Mexico and South or Central America of information that might be of value to Germany. As the French, British and other Allied Governments long have been exercising strict supervision of European cables, whatever is done at this end will be supplemental to that work. Canadian telegraph and telephone lines will not be watched for similar reasons.

Representatives of the French, Postal, Western Union, and other cable companies, including those with lines reaching to South and Central America, were present at today's conference. The regulations suggested by navy officials were found satisfactory to the companies, and the Government was assured of hearty co-operation in putting them into effect.

ATHENA UNDERWEAR FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN

You'll find when you put on a suit of Athena Underwear that it fits you perfectly without being stretched at any point, and with no wrinkling or bagginess anywhere.

All ATHENA garments are made full over the bust and narrow across the back.

Athena Underwear is tailored to conform to the lines of your figure. There is not too much fabric at the waist, nor too little at the bust or hips. This is true of no other underwear that has ever been made.

Choose a suit of Athena Underwear of your correct size, and you will find that it fits you snugly and comfortably all over, affording free action of the arms and body.

AMERICAN SHIP SINKS SUBMARINE

"That's about all the story, excepting this: The gunners had named the guns on board the Mongolia, and the one which got the submarine was called Theodore Roosevelt; so Teddy fired the first gun of the war, after all."

Captain Rice recalled that he came from Allston, Mass., and that the encounter with the submarine occurred on the date when the Bay State was celebrating the anniversary of the Battle of Lexington.

The United States Government has had official information of the sinking of the submarine by the Mongolia ever since Monday.

SINKING MANY SUBMARINES.

British Captain Says Their Mines Are the Worst Feature.

The Captain of a British freighter which arrived yesterday at an American port from Naples said that German submarines were very active in the Mediterranean, but the combined flotillas of French, Italian, and British destroyers and patrol boats were getting a good many of them every week. The worst feature, from the shipping point of view, according to the Captain, is the mine laying at the entrance to the principal harbors like Marseilles, Naples, Genoa, Palermo, and Brindisi, which is executed by submarines on dark nights.

"While my ship was lying in Naples harbor recently," he said, "a submarine got in and laid mines in the Procita Chanel, on the north of which is the way out of the port for Genoa-bound ships. Next morning when the fishing boats went out just before sunrise twenty-four of them were blown to pieces by the mines and fifty-seven fishermen were killed and others severely injured.

"We were chased by one big submarine near Algiers, and in the hurry to get away the steamship went over the spot where a vessel had been sunk one hour previously. The wreckage was floating around. Five hours later we were met by a destroyer which had on board the crew of a 7,000-ton British freighter which had been sunk three hours before not far away from our position."

The Captain also said that a number of submarines had been sunk in the Mediterranean since the beginning of the year by armed transports and cruisers. He knew positively of one transport carrying 4.7-guns fore and aft which had sunk seven submarines since Jan. 1 in the Mediterranean by ramming and shell fire.

The last one was sunk three weeks ago near Malta. A shell from the port bow gun of the transport struck the submarine amidship as she rose almost under the bows of the vessel, which was steaming at fifteen knots.

In the two years that he was "trooping" to the Dardanelles, Egypt, and India, the Captain said, he had the good luck to sink two U-boats, one by shell fire and the other by going straight through her. When the first one attacked him he had 3,000 British troops on board.

That the German submarines were not preventing the shipment of war munitions to the Allies was demonstrated yesterday by the arrival in American ports of ten steamships, whose total tonnage amounted to 118,000. They are to load for British and French ports.

Captains and other officers of British steamships arriving yesterday said it was remarkable that the German U-boats did not sink more vessels considering their opportunities at present. April is one of the most boisterous months in the year around the British Isles, and the rough, hazy weather enables submarines to approach a steamship within one or two miles without being seen.

"The best thing that the United States can do now to help her Allies," said a captain whose ship was recently sunk under him, "is to send all the tugboats and big motorboats that can stand the sea passage across to England for patrol duty. All the big fishing ports like Yarmouth, Grimsby, Hull, Lowestoft, Brixham, Deal, Dover, Margate, and Swansea have been almost denuded of their fleets of fishing trawlers, which are being used by the Admiralty for patrol duty and mine sweeping in the British Channel and the North and Irish Seas.

"Another thousand of craft of this kind is needed at once so that they could be spread around the British and French coasts to protect shipping. There are more than two thousand engaged in that work now, but the area is so vast that a steamship can travel for five or six hours without sighting one vessel.

"During April the weather is so rough that the smaller type of motorboats cannot venture out far from the land, but in May the sea and wind are calmer and the 100-footer with great speed and a three-inch gun at her bow can skoot round the coast without danger of being swamped. According to the warnings which are issued to ship masters daily from the Admiralty by wireless, the Germans must have from 50 to 75 submarines cruising in the English Channel, North Sea, and Irish Sea at one time.

"The decks of steamships should be loaded with all the motor boats that can be had and the craft should be rushed over so that they can be equipped with three-inch guns and be sent out to sink submarines."

MONGOLIA SAILED APRIL 7.

Steamer Is One of the Largest Under the American Flag.

The American steamship Mongolia, a vessel of 13,638 tons, owned by the International Mercantile Marine Company, left an American port for England on April 7 on her second trip since Germany's submarine declaration of Feb. 1, but her first armed. She carried a crew of United States Navy gunners under command of a Lieutenant. She is one of the largest vessels under the American flag.

The Mongolia was built at Camden, N. J., in 1904, for the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and for a number of years was engaged in the California-Oriental trade, carrying both passengers and cargo. With the Manchuria, Siberia, and Korea, she was purchased by the International Mercantile Marine in 1915. The Korea and the Siberia were resold to a Japanese line. The Mongolia and Manchuria, brought to the Atlantic, entered into the service of the Atlantic Transport Line, a subsidiary of the International Mercantile Marine, and have been carrying freight only.

April 19, the day on which the Mongolia fired the first shot of the war, is the anniversary, it was recalled here yesterday, of the battle of Lexington, when the first shot was fired in the American revolution.

COL. ROOSEVELT REJOICES.

"Thank Heaven, Some Americans Have at Last Begun to Hit."

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., April 25.—"Thank heaven, some Americans have at last begun to hit," Colonel Theodore Roosevelt said tonight when told that the American steamship Mongolia had sunk a German submarine. The Colonel was doubly interested because he is well acquainted with Captain Rice, commander of the Mongolia.

After expressing himself in a series of Rooseveltian adjectives, the Colonel said:

"I am greatly rejoiced, and I congratulate the Captain, the gunners, and all the crew of the Mongolia. Thank heaven, some Americans have at last begun to hit. We have been altogether too long purely at the receiving end of this war Germany has waged on us."

Aztec's Gun Crew Arrives.

PEOPLE IN FAVOR OF PEACE

Germans Said to Have a Cruiser Ready to Shell the City if Crowds Give Trouble.

PARIS, April 25.—Ahe American official delegation which arrived recently from Vienna has been joined by a number of Americans from Constantinople, including members of the crew of the United States guardship Scorpion. They left Constantinople a little before the rupture of relations between Turkey and the United States and describe conditions in the city as being extremely grave.

Fully 35,000 poor persons are reported to be on the verge of starvation. There have been from 60 to 100 cases of actual starvation. Frequently food has reached prohibitive prices and can be bought only with gold, which is exclusively in the hands of the wealthy classes. Sugar costs $5 a pound, coffee $9 a pound, and tea $6 a pound, while other articles are of a correspondingly excessive price.

It is stated that the popular sentiment is strongly in favor of breaking off relations with Germany and concluding a separate peace with the Entente Allies, but that the German officials, realizing this, have taken extreme precautions to prevent defection. The former German cruiser Goeben is being kept in the harbor of Constantinople with the purpose of bombarding the city if any popular manifestation occurs. A similar feeling is said to exist in the Turkish Army, but its effect has been largely reduced owing to a considerable part of the army being affected with typhus fever, due to unsanitary military conditions.

GOVERNMENT TO RUN NATION'S SHIPPING

Law to Empower Shipping Board Planned—Seven German Vessels to be Ready Soon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Following a conference today between the members of the Shipping Board and the Special Committee on Shipping of the Council of National Defense, it was learned that Congress will be asked at once to enact legislation giving the Shipping Board complete control over the nation's shipping throughout the war.

The two organizations will have another conference shortly to determine how vessels now engaged in coastwise trade can best be used to increase transatlantic tonnage. According to reports in the hands of the Shipping Board approximately 25,000 tons now engaged in coastwise trade will be available for transatlantic service within a month. The board is making plans to disturb existing commercial conditions as little as possible consistent with the demands of the campaign to break the submarine blockade.

Seven of the German merchantmen on the Atlantic Coast will be repaired and ready for service within ten days or two weeks, it was learned today. These will provide an additional carrying capacity of approximately 37,000 tons. The vessels will be pressed into transatlantic service immediately. They are the Nassovia, Armenia, Portunia, Claremennig, Maia, and Pisa, all at New York, and the Arcadia, at Norfolk. There are also five ships on the Pacific Coast which it is hoped will be ready for use at about the same time. The promptness with which these ships are being made ready has exceeded the first hopes of the Government authorities.

NEW PLEA FOR 'THE NATION.'

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 25.—Commenting on Lord Derby's declaration that the prohibition of The Nation abroad would not be revoked, The Manchester Guardian says:

"Freedom of the press! What is that to Lord Derby or to the War Office? Is there not, however, some member of the War Cabinet who understands that we are now in alliance with three democratic and free republics, and that we have set Democracy and Liberty as a device upon our shield in this fight? Cannot such wiser heads set this error right before our allies get the conviction that the British Government have not at heart the ideals for which their people and the British people are fighting?"

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

The American people are quick to detect deterioration. And what is much more important—they expect the constant improvement of any product in which they repose complete confidence.

They would be slower to forgive a fault in any car Dodge Brothers might build, than in one they esteemed less highly.

MAYOR SEES 1,913 HIT SUNDAY TRAIL

OBEDIENCE THEME AT NIGHT

J. Wilbur Chapman, Who Started Evangelist on Career, Tells of His Satisfaction.

The boundless mercies of God, the reasonableness of His demands, and the duty of giving Him full obedience, not mere lip service, were the principal arguments of Billy Sunday in his sermon at the Tabernacle last night. Sunday says that he usually sticks to his audience rather than to his text. But last night he stuck with extraordinary fidelity to the first verse of the twelfth chapter of Romans—"I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."

Mayor and Mrs. Mitchel, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Gary, and Captain James Churchill were in the audience of 17,000. The Mitchels and the Garys sat on the platform just behind the Sunday party; Captain Churchill sat with the newspaper men. The Mayor had nothing to say about what he thought of the evangelist, though he smiled frequently at Sunday's humor and now and then joined in the applause. Captain Churchill contented himself with remarking that Sunday was a very able preacher.

None of these hit the trail, but 1,437 other persons came down to shake Sunday's hand, making, with 476 in the afternoon, a total for the day of 1,913. The first dozen or so were men, but after that women were greatly in the majority. It was, to all appearances, a crowd made up of about the same assortment of types, in about the same proportions, and moved by about the same emotions as the others which Sunday has drawn. There were a few soldiers and sailors in the list—not so many as on some previous nights.

One man held on to the evangelist's hand, and insisted on saying that his name was Aldrich, and that he used to play ball along with Sid Farrar and Arlie Latham. "You know Sid, don't you?" he appealed to the preacher. "Sure I know Sid," said Sunday. "I used to hold Geraldine on my lap when she was a kid." Sunday promised to talk to Aldrich's father, and Aldrich was led away to the front bench of mourners, where Pat McQuade, a first-night convert, pressed a Testament into his hand.

Gave Evangelist His Start.

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, with whom Sunday got his first experience as an evangelist in the middle nineties, was introduced by him in the preliminary exercises as "the man to whom more than anybody else I owe the fact that I am an evangelist." Dr. Chapman roused the enthusiasm of the crowd by saying that if it were true it was the greatest thing God had ever permitted him to do.

"I knew Mr. Sunday before he began to preach," he said. "I gave him his first sermon. It was my sermon, and that was almost a fatal thing to do, for I could never use it again. I tried to use it once and a man accused me of preaching Sunday's sermon. Now he is a great evangelist, for—three reasons out of three thousand—he believes in Jesus Christ as the only Saviour, he believes in the divine authority of the word of God, and he puts every drop of his blood into his work. I love him with all my soul and I take joy in the blessing God has visited upon him."

Sunday in his sermon insisted that obedience to God meant obedience with the whole body, not merely with the tongue. "God wants to be served by the part of you that's on the ground as well as the part that's in the air," he said. "Too many religious workers of today roll their eyes and say, 'Surely this is not the Lord's time for work.' Let me tell you this—any time is God's time. Now is God's time."

Tell of Liquor's Temptations.

He told a story of a young man from Vermont who went to a town in the South and attended "a dress ball, or I guess they ought to have called it an undress ball." Here, according to the evangelist, the young man was approached by a young lady with hair like a raven's wing, a neck like a swan, and teeth like a ledge of pearl in a snowdrift, wearing just about enough clothing to pad a crutch, who, with much difficulty, persuaded him to take his first glass of champagne. "Then he drank another glass and another," said Sunday. "Soon he was out on the dancing floor dancing. They'd got him in their clutches. Midnight came, then 1 o'clock, and at 2 o'clock a man with a linen duster over his other clothes was walking up and down the station platform waiting for the express to New York, now and then drinking whisky out of a pint flask and exclaiming, 'My God, what will mother say?' Four months later he died of delirium tremens, and before he died he attacked his mother and struck his father on the mouth; and it took four strong men to hold him down on his deathbed."

In his final argument of the reasonableness of God's demands he told how Abraham thought it was unreasonable when he was called on to sacrifice Isaac, "but Abraham understands now and Abraham is satisfied." Joseph thought his lot was hard, "but Joseph understands now and Joseph is satisfied."

"It was a hard thing for me," said Sunday, "when I heard the call to go up and down this land and preach the Gospel. I didn't think I could do it; I knew it would be hard. I've been villified and blackmailed and denounced and libeled up and down all over the country. The dirty liquor gang has had its hirelings follow me everywhere to say all manner of evil things against me falsely. They've insulted my wife. They've threatened my safety. But when I die and go to heaven, when I walk up and down those golden streets and hide behind the pearly gates, Jesus will come up to me and take me by the hand and say: 'Bill, you see this mansion? It's yours. Enter in and dwell there.' And I'll know that it was for that, and I'll say 'I'm satisfied, Lord, I'm satisfied.'

Building Half Full in Afternoon.

In the afternoon Sunday preached to a crowd which half filled the tabernacle, composed mostly of women, on the text. "Ye have not passed this way before," Joshua 3:4. He urged his hearers to take their bearings; to let the mistakes of the past give them guidance for the future; and held up Joshua's determination as a good example for servants of God.

"Never lower your principles," he said, "even if your husband asks you to. Don't slap Jesus Christ in the face for that old reprobate. Do you think I'd slap my country in the face to please the Kaiser? Let him go to hell with the rest of them.

"This country is facing a serious crisis, but if we follow God he'll lead us out as he did in 1776. I think the distance between New York and heaven is less than it was two weeks ago, and this city will be a good deal further from hell by the time these meetings are over."

Program for Today.

FINDS PEACE LESSON IN WAR

A. C. Bedford Thinks Co-operative Efforts Will Prove Lasting Worth.

A. C. Bedford, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, at a dinner given in honor of Jacob C. Klinck, retiring President of the Civic Club, at the Hotel Bossert, Brooklyn, last night, declared that in modern warfare "the man behind the gun" was important but that the vital, all-conclusive factor now was the "machine behind the man."

In asking the railroads of this country to organize themselves into an effective transcontinental system, "abandoning for the moment individual and competitive activities," Mr. Bedford said the Government had placed the burden exactly where it belonged.

"If, under the stress of war, acting under strict Government supervision and regulation, the railroads can, in co-operation, and with competition practically eliminated, give to the Government and the public a greatly improved service, is it conceivable that after the war the railroads should be forced to continue the wastes and losses due to the unnecessary competition practically forced by law prior to the war?" he asked.

"This war will also show us some great principles to apply to our domestic life. It will show us the necessity for co-operation. It will demonstrate to our people what can be accomplished by believing in men and by mobilizing our resources for the benefit of peace, as well as for the necessities of war. Let me, therefore, in closing put this question, which I am going to ask you to think over and take home with you:

"We see that it is desirable and worth while to do certain things for the benefit of the public, acting through its Government, in time of war. Why, then, will it not be beneficial and worth while to do similar things, under Government supervision, for the people in their individual relationships, in the time of peace which must follow the war?"

compulsory rationing of wheat and sugar will be introduced.

One of the objects the British mission now in America has in view is to furnish the United States with data regarding British methods which may be useful in preventing America from committing some of the mistakes made here, President Wilson showed keen appreciation of one of the greatest problems not only of the war, but of after-war times, when he issued his appeal for economy in the use of food. Unless there be economy of consumption all-round, statisticians compute that the world generally will be faced with a stringency which in places will be a vertitable famine.

Lord Devonport fully realizes what America can do toward staving off such danger, and H. C. Hoover, who will soon be in Washington, will give practical shape to the lessons learned in Europe.

Lord Devonport's speech in the House of Lords is not merely a warning to England; it is a sign of the times for America.

Gravity of Losses by U-Boats.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, April 25.—The British public was solemnly warned today by Lord Devonport, the British Food Controller, that the country's shipping was being depleted daily in large volume, and that severe privations menaced the nation before the next harvest was reached. Lord Devonport's warning was issued in the House of Lords in response to a question by Lord Lamington as to what success had attended the efforts at voluntary rationing, and whether the Government intended to resort to compulsion.

In a long reply Lord Devonport recited the extensive efforts that were being made by the press, pulpit, and schools, and also by local committees, to impress on the community the urgency of food restrictions. He said that it might be described as a general election on a grand scale, with the view of soliciting the allegiance of every citizen, particularly the women, to reduce their consumption of bread. He continued:

"If our shipping resources were assured we could undoubtedly carry on, but they are not assured. Our shipping is being depleted every day in large volume, and, although our existence depends thereupon, it is at the moment a wasting security. As there is no immediate prospect of our locked-up shipping being released from its present occupation we have to face this grim fact.

"Unless we exercise sufficiency of self-denial in the consumption of bread—I tell you the blunt truth—we shall not get through to next harvest without severe privation and all that it involces."

Insisting on the necessity of limiting consumption to four pounds of bread per capita weekly, Lord Devonport confessed that he was watching the weekly figures of national consumption and reserves with growing anxiety. He went on:

"Who can say when the war will end? We must be prepared for all contingencies, even the failure of the present year's harvest. The continuance and increase of the enemy's submarine activity is another factor without which our outlook upon the future cannot be complete. There is no margin for risks. Recognizing this, I have decided to set up forthwith the necessary machinery for rationing, in order to be prepared to deal with the control and distribution of the supplies of bread, sugar, and any other food at short notice, if any, when necessary.

"It will take some few weeks before such machinery can be brought into action. In the meantime the nation will decide for itself whether it will be voluntary retrenchment or compulsion, with its tickets, officials, and other accessories, un-English in character. To win through on the voluntary principle will be a national victory of which we shall all be proud. A resort to compulsion will, on the contrary, be an admission that 'in an hour of dire peril a large proportion of the people failed to recognize their obvious duty.'"

DENIES GERMANY IS INTERNING AMERICANS

LONDON, April 25.—The Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger, a copy of which has been received here, says:

"Swiss dispatches report that the International Committee of the Red Cross of Geneva recently received a list of interned Americans, and that as a result an American division has been organized to secure information concerning the Americans. As we learn here from officials, it can be stated that the report of the internment of Americans in Germany is untrue. This also applies to the report that a list of alleged interned Americans was prepared."

GERMAN AGENTS ACTIVE.

Incident in Colombia Cited by Traveler as Illustrating Propaganda.

Alden H. Brown, a mining engineer who returned recently from Colombia, said Americans who had not come in contact with German propaganda in Central and South America could have no realization of its extent and the industry with which it had been carried on.

"In the Hotel Europa, in Medillin, Colombia, a few weeks ago," he said, "I picked up by accident a pamphlet in German issued by the Pan-Germanic League. Soon afterward the pamphlet was stolen from my room, although I had secreted it near the bottom of my trunk. It is significant that nothing else was taken.

"The gist of the pamphlet was to this effect: 'We Germans are the only civilized people in the world and as such we have a divine mission to impose our Kultur on all other people, whether they want it or not. This being our mission, any means that may be necessary to carry out the purpose is justified. In the pursuit of this pious purpose the Emperor is the Right Hand of God, and thus we owe him allegiance.'"

NEW PORTUGUESE CABINET.

Dr. Alfonso Costa Succeeds Almeida in the Premiership.

LISBON, April 25.—A new Cabinet to take the place of that of Antonio J. Almeida, which resigned April 21 as the result of an adverse vote in the Chamber of Deputies on the question of the Government establishing a National Economic Council, was formed today. The new Cabinet is made up as follows:

Premier and Minister of Finance, Dr. Alfonso Costa.
Minister of War, Major Norton De Mattos.
Minister of Marine, Jose Antinio Arantez Pedroso.
Minister of Foreign Affairs—Dr. Augusto Soares.

PRINCESS IS COMMITTED.

Former Miss Singer to be Tried for Income Tax Evasion.

LONDON, April 25.—Princess Edmond de Polignac, an American, formerly Miss Winnaretta Singer, her brother, Washington Merritt Singer, and A. G. Bird, a solicitor, were committed for trial from Bow Street Police Court today in an income tax proceeding. It is charged that the defendants conspired to evade the payment of income taxes by the Princess.

Here is a sale carefully planned and perfectly executed.

A sale, if you please, to demand instant attention by reason of its merit in these days of "all sorts of sales", as some of our patrons say.

IT IS A SALE OF SALES FOR MEN—one whose attractions are so manifold (witness the garments themselves) that we shall devote but few words by way of introducing it.

"R B" (Fashion Clothes), of Rochester.
Schloss Brothers of Baltimore.
Snellenberg, of Philadelphia.

And they are only some of them. Now to detail:

The Suits: Choicest fabrics,—CASSIMERES, WORSTEDS, HOMESPUNS AND CHEVIOTS. One, two and three model styles; single or double breasted; fancy or belted backs; also pleated backs. Patch pockets, slash and flap pockets are also represented. Soft roll or stationary lapels. Quarter, half or full lined, with silk or alpaca.

The Top Coats: Excellent Vicunas and Thibets, silk faced or plain faced.

Really, men, a $20 bill is a very moderate price to pay for such garments of quality. Take this, please, as a personal invitation to investigate for yourself. Make your own comparisons; we don't fear the result.

Other Suits and Overcoats Priced from $9.85 to $35.00

'Tend to Your Own Business!

"It is evident to every thinking man that our industries, on the farm, in the shipyards, in the mines, in the factories, must be made more prolific and more efficient."

—From the President's War Message to the People

Attend to your particular business and business in general will take care of itself.

From here and there come rumors of slackening business and need for stern retrenchment.

This is hysteria, not common sense. Business is good and will be better as fast as such misguided stories are suppressed and the energy that evolved them turned to productive labor.

Again we say—attend to your particular business and business in general will take care of itself.

Turn a Deaf Ear to Idle Talk

Now is no time to spend listening to idle talk.

We must be up and doing. We must co-ordinate and concentrate to push business.

Every effort we can muster from farmer, mechanic, miner, manufacturer—every kind of labor—must be exerted toward utilizing and developing the great resources of this country.

We must be economical, it is true. For economy is one phase of efficiency. But it is well to remember that "Economy is the judicious expenditure of money."

Everywhere in America today we want development, not retrenchment.

"Put on more steam" should be the industrial slogan.

We must plant more, grow more, harvest more, build more, advertise more, buy and sell more, be bigger and better business men—in a word "Do More."

Our President Says:

"It is evident to every thinking man that our industries, on the farm, in the shipyards, in the mines, in the factories, must be made more prolific and more efficient."

Put senseless hysteria aside; don't mistake froth for patriotism.

Let us address ourselves to our individual and particular duties calmly and collectedly, but purposefully.

You Can Help Here's How!

There is one thing every man, woman, boy and girl in America can do to help. And that is—do the thing you are doing now better. Work harder, work longer, and make your work produce more.

The European war has taught us that for every man at the front there must be ten people at home at work supporting him. To feed and clothe and arm and transport one first-class fighting man there must be ten first-class working people behind him.

This isn't the kind of job that carries much tinsel and glitter with it, but it is the essential job—our job—yours and mine, until our government calls us to some different war service.

Through conscription, in which we heartily believe, the government will make known to us the particular and individual duty it has for each one of us. Until then let us simply work harder.

The cost of the war must be paid for out of our production—our national business. And your help is needed. Briefly—do more and better work of just the work you are doing now. That is your job.

A $7,000,000,000 Order

The U. S. Government loan soon to be made is really a monster order which the government of the United States will place with the farmers, manufacturers, miners, and all business men.

It all comes back to us in the shape of purchases of supplies. This means that the whole business machinery of the country will run at a higher speed than ever before.

This loan itself will be a mighty stimulus to hundreds of lines of business—foods, clothing, motor cars, trucks, shoes, underwear, steel, iron and all their kindred products.

Motor Car Is World's Greatest Time Saver

Our most valuable resource is time. Now we must take time to do double work and carry double the burden. And the motor car is the world's greatest time saver.

Use the motor car. Multiply the hours in a day. The time saved by the motor car means more time for actual production purposes. This means greater national prosperity and more taxable wealth to aid our government.

Take out your pencil. Figure out the time you can save for yourself with a motor car. Total up the increased number of things you can accomplish in that time. Multiply that by the number of people in a position to buy a car. Then you see how vast becomes the aggregate good the motor car can accomplish.

The Nation Looks to the Farmer

Upon the farmers of the United States is laid the greatest obligation.

From the soil they must wrest more than they have ever before harvested.

And of course they will continue to get the highest prices in history for the products they grow.

The farmer must make every minute count. And the automobile is one implement at hand that can assist him. With an automobile he need not trust to a slow horse and buggy when his reaper breaks down. He can go to town and return to continue his day's labor without losing but a fraction of the time he ordinarily would have lost.

His wife and family can use it to market the butter and eggs while he is in the field. In a dozen different ways every day the automobile will prove its economy and efficiency for the farmer.

In work or war the time-saving efficiency of the motor car is recognized. Thousands and thousands of motor cars are at the front now. Motor cars have twice saved France—once at the Marne, again at Verdun. Our government will purchase 35,000 trucks and great numbers of motor cars. All ambulances are built on motor car chassis.

Wherever time counts in the efficiency of work or war or in saving life motor cars are inevitable, and they are a blessing.

Eyes of the World Are Upon Detroit

Detroit is the motor car center of the world. Upon Detroit will fall the privilege and responsibility of filling the needs of the country for cars. Detroit-made cars will do their part in "making the world safe for Democracy."

More than ever before are the motor car products of Detroit coming into demand.

To the efficiency and economy of the modern automobile is largely due this increase. It has removed itself from the class of luxuries and proved its place as an economic necessity.

It is the world's greatest instrument for both work and play. It pays for itself once by saving time and promoting efficiency, and again by providing recreation and rest and furthering health. The war won't be won by an overworked, careworn, frazzled people, but by a healthy and efficient people.

The mind that said "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" was a great mind. The place of recreation as an aid to more and better work is recognized by the men doing the world's biggest jobs everywhere.

President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George know the truth of that old saying. Both of them—even in these pressing days—take time to motor and play golf. Not for fun, but because they know it is their duty to keep fit. Sir Douglas Haig rides horseback every afternoon, not for fun, but to keep sound, so he can endure the strain of his job and think straight all the time.

And the proper light for you to look upon your investment in a motor car is as an aid to business and a promoter of health—and therefore of your all around efficiency.

You will find justification of your purchase of any Detroit-made car in the sound and thorough goodness of the car itself and real economy of its service.

Saxon cars are good cars. The 2-passenger roadster model is priced at $495. The big, 5-passenger touring car, Saxon "Six," is $865 until May 1st. Both models can be seen at the local salesrooms.

HYSTERICAL SAVING A PERIL TO NATION

MIGHT UPSET BUSINESS

(Special to New York Times.)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Howard E. Coffin, member of the Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense, issued a warning to the country today against indiscriminate economy, calling attention to the need for continued prosperity as well as for the elimination of waste. In an interview given out today by the newly organized committee on public information, the first statement which the committee has issued, following a trip through the West, Mr. Coffin expressed the fear that the country might be injured in a hysterical wave of misguided patriotism.

"After nearly three years of refusal to take the European war and its lessons seriously," he said, "we suddenly launched forth in a most feverish activity to save the country overnight. Patriotic organizations, almost without number, are milling around, noisily, and, while intentions are good, the results are often far from practical. Because of an impending and possible shortage of foodstuffs we have hysterical demands for economy in every line of human endeavor. Waste is bad, but an undiscriminating economy is worse.

"Some states and municipalities are stopping road building and other public work. General business is being slowed down because of the emotional response of the trading public to these misguided campaigns for economy; savings are being withdrawn from the banks; reports show that some people have begun to hoard food supplies, and thousands of workers are being thrown needlessly out of employment. All this is wrong. Unemployment and closed factories, brought about by fitful and ill-advised campaigns for public and private economy, will prove a veritable foundation of quicksand for the serious work we have at hand. It is true that the President has said that this is a time to correct our habits of wastefulness. Certainly! But the keynote of his message to the people was this paragraph:

" 'It is evident to every thinking man that our industries, on the farm, in the shipyards, in the mines, in the factories, must be made more prolific and more efficient.'

Need Prosperity in War.

"We need prosperity in war time even more than when we are at peace. Business depressions are always bad, but doubly so when we have a fight on our hands. The declaration of war can have no real evil effect on business. What bad effects are apparent are purely psychologic and largely of our own foolish making, for our markets are the same in April that they were in March. We need more business, not less. There is real danger in hysteria. Indiscriminate economy will be ruinous. Now is the time to open the throttle.

"Every day the Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense receives offers of service from business firms and individuals, with requests for immediate information as to how this service may best be rendered. Now and then great dissatisfaction with the governmental departments is expressed because instant advantage is not taken of such offers. Many firms are hesitating to close ordinary business contracts because of a desire to hold capacity open to meet possible early government need.

"This spirit and this willingness to meet sacrifice and even financial loss, in the government service, is a most encouraging tribute to American patriotism. But we must remember that in the great struggle in which we have now become a part there is much to consider besides munitions, troops and battleships. Few of us can serve in any heroic role, or even in the supply of munitions to the military arms of the service.

"In this country of vast resources we already have a tremendous equipment for munitions making, built up on foreign orders, and now immediately available through expiration of these orders. Except in limited cases, there is little need for the development of new sources of supply. The dictates of common business sense require the utilization, as far as possible, of existing machinery.

Keep the Fires Burning.

"It seems to me, therefore, that a plain statement of general policy is most desirable. Upon the industrial side of the war three great problems, or perhaps I should better say tasks, confront us.

"First and foremost, we must facilitate the flow of raw materials and finished products to our allies, and must provide the means of rail and water transportation therefor.

"Second, we must meet our own great military and naval building schedules.

"Third, we must plan to do all this with the least possible disarrangement of our own vast commercial and industrial machines.

"Through it all we must keep a close eye upon the possible conditions of peace following the present war. We must insure the business success and general prosperity of the country during the war if we are to hold our present strong place among nations in the commercial competition of the future.

"There is no doubt of the willingness of any manufacturing plant or individual to serve should the call come. But until the call does come, it is best to stick to the job. Let us make 'Better Business' our watchword and keep our factory fires burning. No radically new conditions confront us. We are still cut off from business relations with the Central Powers, but that does not mean that we have lost any markets. With the rest of the world we will continue to do a volume of business greater than ever before. To the billions which have been spent here by foreign powers are now to be added the billions of our own. State activities, road building, public works, private industries, all must go on as before. Business must be increased, labor employed, and the country kept going strongly ahead as a successful economic machine. We must have successful industries if successful tax levies are to be received."

RINTELEN IS SENT BACK BY ENGLAND

MAY GIVE STATE'S EVIDENCE

But Testimony Against Buchanan, Monnett, and Others Will Not Mean Immunity, It Is Said.

Franz Rintelen, who in the first year of the war was one of the mainsprings of the German secret service system, and who, in that capacity, came to the United States in April, 1915, to instigate strikes in munition plants, and who is also suspected of having conspired with Victoriano Huerta to bring about war between the United States and Mexico, arrived in New York yesterday morning from a prison camp in England.

For six hours Rintelen was closeted with Secret Service agents. Reports that he had offered to be a witness for the Government in the case against ex-Congressmen Frank Buchanan and H. Robert Fowler of Illinois, and ex-Attorney General Frank S. Monnett of Ohio, who are to be placed on trial tomorrow charged with having attempted to instigate strikes and walkouts in munition plants, could not be verified. Government officials, beyond the admission that Great Britain had delivered Rintelen into the hands of the United States, would not discuss any phase of the case. But it was said that the Government would not grant him immunity, even should he turn State's evidence.

Rintelen was captured by the British in August, 1915, while attempting to get back to Germany on a fraudulent Swiss passport. The name he used at that time was Emile Gaschet, and it was under that name that Scotland Yard booked him when it was decided to send him to the United States for trial. When the vessel on which he returned arrived in Quarantine it was boarded by Secret Service agents, to whom the British agents surrendered the prisoner.

David Lamar, known as "the wolf of Wall Street," who is a convict in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta, will be brought to New York to stand trial with Buchanan and the others. Lamar is alleged to have been one of Rintelen's most trusted aids.

It is understood that Rutledge Rutherford, one of the men who it is charged that the German Secret Service in this country sent to Europe to do certain secret work for Germany, also arrived in New York yesterday. He was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury several days ago for his alleged activities in behalf of the German Secret Service system. Albert O. Sander and Charles W. Wunnenberg, the German spy agents who are charged with having employed Rutherford, are now in the Atlanta Penitentiary. The Federal authorities refused to admit last night that Rutherford had been brought back to New York.

VATERLAND CAPTAIN FREE.

Gifts Sent to Ellis Island to Ease His Supposed Plight.

Friends of Captain Hans Ruser, formerly commander of the Vaterland, who have been lamenting his supposed detention at Ellis Island, have been misinformed.

When Collector Dudley Field Malone went to Hoboken with a force of men to seize the Vaterland and the other German steamships lying at the piers, Captain Ruser was missing, whether by accident or design, could not be learned. No order has been received from Washington to arrest him and send him to Ellis Island, so he still enjoys his liberty.

In the meantime his friends are sending letters, telegrams, flowers, and other presents to Ellis Island to ease the irksomeness of his supposed plight.

FIRE AT INVENTOR IN TEST OF ARMOR

Dr. Brewster's Jacket Resists Bullet from Springfield Rifle at 60 Feet.

ARMY OFFICERS WITNESSES

DOVER, N. J., April 25.—In the presence of ordnance officers, representing the United States Government, and representatives of steel mills, and of the United States Rubber Company, a test was made here this afternoon of a bullet proof jacket and headgear, the invention of Dr. Guy Otis Brewster and Emil Heller, both of Dover. The test was made by shooting at Dr. Brewster, who wore the jacket and headgear, at a distance of sixty feet with a Springfield rifle, loaded with regulation ammunition, which carried a bullet at a velocity of 2,740 feet per second. The shot was fired by Sergeant George Chiswoll of Company C, Fifth Regiment, New Jersey National Guard. The bullet was deflected from the jacket without injury to the wearer. It failed even to make an indentation in the plate.

After the shooting Dr. Brewster, while wearing the armor, gave a demonstration of the uses to which it might be put in battle, and of the resistance it afforded when struck a hard blow with a ten-pound sledge hammer.

The merits claimed for the armor include its shock-absorbing qualities and the even manner in which its thirty pounds are distributed. The inventors say their device will not only prevent penetration and overcome the paralyzing shock effect, but will enable the soldier to charge from the trenches, shoot, use the bayonet and sabre and throw hand grenades while wearing it. Another point is that the soldier may kneel, lie down, and rise to charge with alacrity.

Among those who witnessed the test and congratulated the inventors were Major J. C. Nichols, Captain C. T. Harris, and Lieutenant Russell L. Maxwell, stationed at Picatinny Arsenal, Brig. Gen. William Auman, retired; Major J. C. Taylor, in command of the Fifth New Jersey Regiment; D. A. Hawkins, manager of the New York branch of the United States Rubber Company, and John C. Pauls, representing the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Dr. Brewater has been working on his device more than eight years. About two years ago Emil Heller, a local business man, became associated with him.

WOMEN IN $100,000 CHAIN.

Meeting at Miss Morgan's Starts Move for Service League.

Four hundred women met yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Anne Morgan, 219 Madison Avenue, in the interest of the National League for Women's Service, of which Miss Morgan is Treasurer, and started an endless chain for raising $100,000 in two weeks for the support of the league.

The chain will be formed by captains of tens. There will be 100 original captains, and many of this first number volunteered yesterday. Each of these captains will obtain ten names, each of the ten will obtain ten more, and the process will continue in a widening circle. Any one joining or becoming a captain will make a donation of from 1 cent to $1,000. It is estimated that the annual budget of the league when at full working capacity will be $150,000, and the money is to be obtained in this way.

Miss Morgan, Miss Maude Wetmore, Chairman of the league, and Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, Chairman of the New York State Branch, were the first to become captains. Others were Mrs. William Cumming Story of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Miss Teresa O'Donohue of the Catholic women, Mrs. Edward Breitung, Mrs. Alexander McKay, Miss Ethel C. Morris, Mrs. George Albert Lewis, Mrs. F. C. Short, Mrs. Reynolds Brown, Mrs. William Curtis Demorest, Mrs. Harmon August, Mrs. P. A. Valentine, and Mrs. Frank Ralston.

Raising Jewish Welfare Fund.

The Jewish Board for Welfare Work in the United States Army and Navy is making a campaign for funds to carry its work to the training camps soon to be established. Announcement was made yesterday that Jacob H. Schiff had pledged a contribution of ten per cent of all the funds collected for this purpose up to a maximum contribution on his part of $5,000. It was announced that Felix M. Warburg had contributed $2,500, and S. S. Rosenstam, Treasurer of the organization, had given $2,000. Contributions should be sent to Mr. Rosenstam at his office, 61 Broadway.

WEST SIDE MEASURE PASSED BY ASSEMBLY

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 25.—The Green bill, providing for an investigation of the proposed west side improvement contract between New York City and the New York Central Railroad, was passed by the Assembly this afternoon by a vote of 110 to 12. The Green measure and another bill drafted by the Public Service Commission, which is to be introduced in the Legislature next Monday night, were agreed upon as a solution of the whole west side problem at a conference today. The conferees were Governor Whitman, Speaker Sweet, William L. Ransom, counsel to the Public Service Commission; Senators Ottinger and Burlingame, Assemblymen Ellenbogen and Green, some of whom have bills pending relating to the west side situation, and a delegation headed by Charles L. Craig of the West Side Association.

The Green bill provides for a commission of seven members, five to be appointed by the Governor, one by the President pro tem. of the Senate, and one by the Speaker of the Assembly. The commission will be obliged to report its findings to the Legislature by Feb. 1, 1918. Its members will each receive $50 a day while they meet, and for its expenses $50,000 is appropriated.

The Public Service Commission bill, which is to go hand-in-hand with the Green measure, is similar to the Ottinger-Ellenbogen bill now before the Legislature. It provides for concurrent action on the contract by the Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission, giving the commission full powers of investigation. But it goes further in authorizing the commission to compel the railroad to execute its improvement plans in case an agreement is not reached with the city by Dec. 1, 1917.

Party lines were obliterated in the debate on the Green bill. Minority Leader Callahan declared that anybody opposing the measure was afraid to have the light cast on the transaction between the city and railroad. In opposition to the bill it was urged that in place of giving the city relief it simply allowed investigation.

BUILD YOUR CAREER FROM THE BLOOD UP

Rich, red blood—the driving force of life—can be made out of poor blood by air, exercise, good food and Pepto-Mangan.

"I stand on the threshold of life," says the young man. "Thousands like me are pouring out of school and college to start their life's work. Who of us will fall by the wayside? Who of us will reach the top? Well, I have this much to begin with that so many others lack. I have rich, red blood, and the health, the stamina, the calm nerves and clear brain that go with it. What better foundation for a successful career could I ask for?"

Can you say as much—is your blood rich and red? Or are your happiness and career being seriously compromised by the ill health which springs from poor blood? If so, let us advise you to do what your family physician already may have recommended. Fill your lungs to capacity with fresh air several times a day. Eat to live—do not live to eat. Exercise regularly, sleep well, and build up your blood and your body with Pepto-Mangan.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—The Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad adopted resolutions today empowering Samuel Rea, President of the system, to take whatever action he may deem necessary to make the railroad's organization and facilities of the greatest utility and service to the Government in the conduct of the war. This is the resolution:

> Resolved, That this board, in full and hearty accord with the object and intention of the executives, and with the desire to co-operate to the utmost extent possible with the Council of National Defense, hereby indorse, ratify, and confirm their action and that of the President of this company at such meeting, and to the end that the facilities of this company may be of the greatest service to the Government in its preparation for, and conduct of, the war, hereby empower the President of the company to take such action and make such use of its organization and facilities as, in his judgment, will best conduce to the attainment of that end.

The step was taken in conformity to the action of railroad executives in Washington on April 11, at which a committee of railroad Presidents was named to co-ordinate the railroads of the country into a national system.

Your Delivery—Horse or Motor Wagon?

Which is the most practical for your business—a horse and wagon or a time and money saving Overland Delivery Wagon?

There is only one answer—the horse has had its day.

And if it's the cost of a motor wagon that has proved the stumbling block, let us suggest a simple way to overcome that difficulty.

Sell your horse and wagon. The outfit will probably bring you enough to make the first payment required for an Overland Delivery Wagon, purchased under the Guaranty Time Payment Plan.

After the first payment the motor wagon is yours and you can put it to work at once.

The twelve remaining monthly time payments will come easy. The extra earnings of this motor wagon alone should soon amount to more than enough to cover them.

After that your extra profits can be put in the bank.

FULL SCHOOL CREDITS FOR BOY GARDENERS

A PLEA FOR VACANT LOTS

The Mayor's Garden Committee completed plans yesterday for the co-operation of all the city departments in the cultivation of vacant land within the city limits. An important feature of the meeting was an announcement by William G. Willcox, President of the Board of Education, that all the boys in the public schools between 14 and 18 would be registered in a food corps, and that those who volunteer to work in gardens would receive the same credit as if they had remained in the class rooms until the schools closed. Mr. Willcox said the boys would be worked in squads of fifty, under the direction of teachers, the teachers receiving full pay. There are about 70,000 school boys between 14 and 18.

A committee was named to take up with the Public Service Commission a proposal of Theodore P. Shonts that the city's transit lines and the Long Island Railroad furnish free transportation for schoolboy farmers to and from the gardens. Under the plan tickets would be issued by the Mayor's Committee.

At a meeting of the Garden Committee yesterday George W. Perkins named a committee to co-ordinate all efforts to list vacant land in the city, of which there is estimated to be more than 70,000 acres. This committee is headed by Frank L. Dowling, President of the Board of Aldermen. The other members are the four Park Commissioners, the Police Commissioner, and the President of the Board of Education.

Commissioner of Street Cleaning Fetherson offered the committee the services of his department in cleaning up vacant lots. Owners will be asked to aid the department in the work during "clean-up" week, which begins next Monday.

Mr. Perkins said the committee had 100 carloads of seed potatoes a week ago, but that they were all gone. The potatoes were sold at $2.50 a bushel, about $1.50 below the market price. Maurice Eckstein of the committee said he could get 800 bushels of seed potatoes at from $3.50 to $4 a bushel.

When the question of garden vandalism was raised, Deputy Police Commissioner Lord said it was a misdemeanor to destroy such property. "You can give them up to three years for stealing a potato," said the Deputy Commissioner.

Park Commissioner Cabot Ward said that Richmond held out great promise for garden farms because of the vacant land there. He named a committee to find out how much available land there was.

At a meeting of the Manhattan Open Markets Committee and the Manhattan Advisory Committees at the office of Borough President Marks yesterday, telegrams were sent to President Wilson, to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and to Congress urging immediate adoption of a daylight saving measure.

Last night President Dowling of the Board of Aldermen issued these two proclamations:

> To the Owners and Agents of Vacant Lots in the City of New York:
> In the name of the Mayor's Committee on Food Gardens, you are urged to register with the Park Commissioner of your borough, or the borough in which your lands lie, all parcels that may be available for cultivation that they may be allotted for use through this committee. This registration should specify the exact location and dimensions of the parcels, together with a declaration that the owner will expect no compensation. This registration should be made without delay, so that full advantage may be taken of the planting season, now at its height.
> To the Citizens of the City of New York:
> You are urged to register with the Park Commissioner of your borough for service in the food gardens of this city. This registration should set forth whether you want land to till, or whether you want to work under someone else. If the latter, it should be stated whether you expect compensation. If you have teams and plows that can be used to special advantage. If you have gardening tools you will not use yourself, they are needed next only to seed, for the demands of the country threaten an actual shortage of implements. If you have more seed than is needed for your own requirements, turn it over to your Park Commissioner.
> Don't set your heart on planting potatoes. Plant beans, beets, turnips, and parsnips; they can all be stored for Winter use. Save your potato parings, and when you come to the eyes of the vegetable, cut a little deeper than usual.
> Make part of your participation in clean-up week the cleaning off of plots that may be available for gardening purposes.

The Good Will Home Association at Hinckley, Me., offered yesterday to farm forty acres extra on its place if it is supplied with seed. The association has 700 acres, and 20 per cent. of the 200 boys and girls on the farm come from New York City.

FILIPINOS FOR FARM WORK.

Hartigan Suggests They Could Help Solve Labor Problem.

Commissioner of Weights and Measures Hartigan, Secretary of the Mayor's Committee on Food Supply, thinks it would help solve the food shortage problem if a large number of Filipinos were brought to this country to work on the farms.

He sent a letter last night to Manuel L. Quezon, resident Commissioner of the Philippine Islands at Washington, asking him to assist in working out a system of transportation, distribution, and protection of Filipinos who might come to this country to till our fields.

Comptometer Adding and Calculating Machine

Bookkeeper or Managing Accountant—Which?

WHICH is worth more in your Accounting Department—

The man whose idea of the job is "Counting figures all day long"—or the man capable of planning and organizing the work and directing its execution so as to produce the best results at the least cost?

It is to the latter—the thinking, Managing Accountant—that the service of the Comptometer appeals with greatest force.

The minute such a man sees an operator Proving Postings, Balancing Accounts, Footing Trial Balance on the Comptometer, he cannot help being impressed: first, by the rapid dispatch of the work; and second, by the extreme accuracy of it.

And his interest is intensified when he learns that the same machine applied to the extensions of Billing and Inventory, the figuring of Costs, Estimates, Prorate Percentages, will easily handle the work of two or three mental figure clerks.

It is easy to investigate the merits of the Comptometer. You run no risk of disappointment — take no chances — incur no obligation. Simply invite a Comptometer man from the office nearest to you to demonstrate by actual working test what the Comptometer will do on any or all the figure work in your office.

COLUMBIA IS READY TO START HOSPITAL

NEED FUNDS FOR BASE UNIT

Each to Care for 500 Patients and to Train Staffs for Field Work.

Just three weeks after the idea of an emergency and mobile unit war hospital for Columbia University was indorsed by the Trustees, it was announced yesterday that funds for the mobile Columbia-Presbyterian hospital unit, which is the first part of the university's plan for medical and surgical defense, had been subscribed, plans drawn, contracts let, and every preparation made for starting construction. High pressure methods are to be used from the moment ground is broken on Columbia Oval, where the unit is to be erected under the auspices of the university, and there is every expectation that by June 2 the portable institution, with its 500 beds, will be ready for occupancy.

Meantime there has been submitted to the Surgeon General of the United States Army the complete tentative personnel of the mobile unit. It will number 250 men, including twenty-six medical officers, fifty nurses, twenty-five nurses' aids, complete ambulance corps, stretcher bearers, orderlies, and cooks. Approval of the staff submitted is anticipated within a few days, and just as soon as it reaches New York the names of those who are to be connected with one of the city's pioneer war hospitals will be made public.

Success for the project, initiated by Dr. J. Bentley Squier and actively participated in by Dr. Adrian V. S. Lambert, Professor of Surgery at Columbia, practically has been assured by receipt of full approval from the War Department. On April 21 Dr. Lambert wrote to Surgeon General Gorgas as follows:

Aims of the Hospital.

"Columbia University desires to establish a war hospital in New York City, to serve as an educational unit for physicians and surgeons and for its students who intend to enter the army. We propose to construct the hospital as soon as funds are available, from the plans which have been worked out by a committee of the Directors of base hospital units in New York.

"The committee consists of Dr. A. V. S. Lambert, Dr. Burnap, Mr. Butler, and Mr. Bloor. The hospital is to be of the portable house construction and to be complete in every detail. We hope that you will be able to have army surgeons give a course of lectures from time to time at the hospital. It is to be an educational unit, and to serve as an example of what a base hospital unit on portable house construction lines should be. I trust that you will approve of the plan, as we believe it will be of immense educational value to us all."

This letter was received in reply:

"War Department,
"Office of the Surgeon General.

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 21st inst., and in reply would say that your idea of establishing a base hospital unit for educational purposes meets with the entire approval of this office. I will be glad to assign certain medical officers of the Medical Corps of the Army, on duty in New York City, for the purpose of instructing the staff of the hospital and others who may be interested in the medico-military administration and general method of conducting a military hospital.

"Trusting that your efforts to establish the hospital unit will be successful, I am, with kindest regards,

"Sincerely,
"W. C. GORGAS."

Dr. Alexander Lambert, President of the Medical Society of the State of New York, received from his friends subscriptions of $175,000, sufficient for the erection of the initial mobile unit, and about $45,000, contributed by Mrs. E. H. Harriman, for its equipment, some of which already has been purchased. There is still a large sum needed to make the venture equal its greatest possibilities of usefulness. The mobile unit, with its accommodations for 500 patients, is to be packed up and moved away, according to present plans, just as soon as it and its staff may be needed in the field. In addition, it is planned to have a second identical unit, which will be erected so that the hospital may be in continuous operation, not only for the benefit of patients but that there may be an uninterrupted course of instruction, with new staffs undergoing training just as fast as others have qualified for work in the field.

Funds for Maintenance Needed.

Funds for maintenance also are needed, and contributions for that purpose are expected from public-spirited citizens who realize not only the importance of training medical men, nurses, and their lay aids for field work, but who understand as well the necessity of greatly increasing the available hospital resources of the city in the event of some great disaster here or elsewhere. Tentative plans for the taking over of the complete ambulance service in France by American medical men make the quick training of large numbers imperative.

The professional men who have been selected, subject to the Surgeon General's approval, for the staff of the mobile unit and the staff of the permanent emergency hospital, made up of Columbia medical teachers and detailed army officers, already are at work preparing a full curriculum of instruction, so that those who complete prescribed courses in the emergency hospital may be qualified fully to perform their individual tasks when called upon to do military hospital work.

Prominent in the course of instruction will be the Carrel-Dakin method of wound disinfection, which has worked such marvels in the field hospitals abroad. Executive management of military hospitals according to approved methods of the Surgeon General's office is another subject which will receive particular attention. There will be thorough and exhaustive drills for ambulance corps and stretcher bearers, so that those engaged in such work may know exactly how to conduct themselves even under fire and may maintain the splendid records already established by American ambulance units on the battlefields of France. Protective inoculation against such former camp devastators as smallpox and typhoid will be applied and taught, and the last minute experience of the trenches in such special medical work as the treatment of soldiers who have been gassed will be demonstrated by experts.

It costs Presbyterian Hospital $3.24 per patient per day, Roosevelt Hospital $2.25, St. Luke's $2.24, and Mount Sinai $3.40, but it is believed the Columbia plant can be operated for $2 per patient per day because of the large number of persons who have volunteered their services.

If the hospital is opened by June 2 it is expected to be one of the greatest attractions at the annual meeting of the American Medical Association, which convenes in New York on that date. It is especially desired to have it available then, because so many professional men from all over the country would be able to inspect it and to learn from it.

The surgical directors of the War Instruction Hospital will be Drs. Adrian V. S. Lambert, W. H. Bishop, and J. Bentley Squier. The medical director will be Dr. Samuel Lambert, dean of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and associated with him will be Drs. Alexander Lambert and W. T. Longcope. The laboratories will be under the control of Dr. F. C. Wood of the Crocker Research Laboratories. The lay members of the executive board are F. H. Goetze, Controller of Columbia, and Willard V. King.

Those who intend to contribute are urged to do so at once because of the pressing necessity of completing the work. Contributions should be sent to William H. Woodin, Treasurer, 165 Broadway.

OPPOSES NEW TRAFFIC BILL.

McAdoo Wants City Exempted from Legislative Measure.

Chief Magistrate William McAdoo issued a statement yesterday in which he attacked Bill 130, introduced in the Assembly by Assemblyman Welsh, which was passed by that body on Tuesday and is now in the Senate. The bill would abolish the Traffic Court, he said. He sent a telegram to Edward J. McGoldrick, the city's representative at Albany, and got in touch with several Senators.

In his message to Mr. McGoldrick the Chief Magistrate said: "Deeply concerned both officially and personally in the regulation of traffic in these streets and earnestly concerned for the safety and comfort of the millions who use them, I must respectfully protest against the passage of Assembly Int. 130. It completely kills the ordaining power of the City Government, invading the principle of the home rule, and treats conditions in this tremendous metropolis the same as in the smallest village in the State. Why cannot this city be exempted from its provisions?"

HAROLD A. SANDERSON HERE

Harold A. Sanderson, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the International Mercantile Marine Company, has arrived here from England to attend the meetings of the Directors, to be held in New York next week. It is understood that Mr. Sanderson has come over chiefly to confer with his colleagues on the board, including P. A. S. Franklin, President of the company, and J. P. Morgan, on the taking over of all British steamships by the Admiralty and the difference it will make in the receipts of the company.

Mr. Sanderson is also Managing Director of Wilson & Sons, Ltd., of Hull, England, which post he has held for many years. He declined to make any comment on the shipping conditions in England, or on the entry of the United States into the war."

EARL OF SUFFOLK KILLED.

LONDON, April 25.—Henry Molyneux Paget Howard, nineteenth Earl of Suffolk and Berkshire, has been killed in action.

The Earl of Suffolk and Berkshire was born in 1877 and succeeded his father to the title in 1898. In 1904 he married Margaret Hyde ("Daisy") Leiter, youngest daughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter of Chicago and Washington, and sister of the late Lady Curzon, wife of Earl Curzon of Kedleston.

The Earl of Suffolk leaves three sons, the eldest of whom, Charles Henry George, Viscount Andover, succeeds to the title. Viscount Andover was born in 1906.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PASADENA, Cal., April 25.—I am writing Kerenski, the Socialist Minister of Justice at Petrograd, suggesting that the Czar and his family be intrusted to the American Republic for permanent safekeeping.

Catalina Island, off Los Angeles, could be made into an island for kings and used as a refuge for rulers abdicating or dethroned after this war. The islands have a salubrious climate and are populated by sheep, the proper subjects for autocracy. UPTON SINCLAIR.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 25.—James J. Hill, who died about a year ago, left an estate of $51,179,889.58, according to a report of the appraisers, Theodore A. Schulze and Major Thomas P. Wilson, filed in Probate Court here today. Of this $1,373,779.53 is in real estate, the remainder in personal property.

The inheritance tax, which will be paid tomorrow or Friday, will total $1,489,370, the largest ever levied in Minnesota. Of the tax Ramsey County will get one-tenth and the State nine-tenths.

PENNILESS FOUR YEARS AGO

Haul Made Here Including 3,000 Ounces of Drugs, Worth $500,000 to Retail Trade.

Agents of the Internal Revenue Department and detectives of the narcotic squad confiscated narcotics valued at $120,000 and worth $500,000 to the retail trade yesterday and arrested the alleged leaders of a "cocaine ring" who it was charged have made considerably more than $1,000,000 in profits in the last four years.

Chief L. G. Nutt of the Revenue Department, described the seizure as the biggest thing that has been staged in the fight against the illegal sale of drugs in the country. The "ring" he said had built up what amounted to a monopoly in the distribution of narcotics not only in this city but in all the large centres of population, and also had representatives in Canada and in Europe. He believed that the arrests would cut off the supply of many thousands of drug users.

J. M. Grossman, Deputy Chief of the Revenue Department, with Lieutenant Sherb and Detectives Hackett, Judge, and Erd of the Police Department, have been on the trail of the alleged "dope" sellers for three months, and assert that they have a complete case against Max Kirshon of 220 East Seventy-eighth Street. The prisoner is a Russian about 30 years old.

The authorities gave the signal to act at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and Max Kirshon was the first caught. He was at Seventy-sixth Street and Third Avenue, in an automobile, and had just turned over to Jack Malaga, a painter, of 200 Second Avenue, a suitcase containing drugs worth $3,000. Malaga was taken along with him to Police Headquarters.

Later the detectives raided rooms at 431 East Eighty-third Street and 1,614 Avenue A, which they alleged Kirshon had rented as a place to store drugs. One trunk was taken from the first room and two from the other. They contained about 3,000 ounces of heroin, cocaine, and opium. The police believe that other trunksful of the drugs are hidden in the city, and they are keeping a careful watch on the movements of men who they know have been drug users or "middlemen" for a long time.

According to the police, Max Kirshon and another man, who has not been caught, obtained the larger part of the drugs from Canada and England, and brought all of them into this country over the Canadian border, it is said. The police allege that Kirshon in distributing the drugs, dealt almost exclusively with "middlemen," to whom he sold the pure drugs at a profit of about 50 per cent., and that they refused to deliver at any specified address, employing instead the plan of carrying the drugs in an automobile and turning them over to the purchaser at some public place.

The 3,000 ounces of drugs seized yesterday, it was stated, cost the "ring" an average of $40 an ounce, or $120,000. The middlemen, after paying twice that sum for it, made it up into "decks" for the retail trade, some of which contained not more than one part of the drug to nine or ten of milk sugar or other foreign substance. On this basis the police figured it sold to the drug users for not less than $500,000.

It was learned that rooms in several tenements had been rented by Max Kirshon at from $8 to $10 a month during the last two or three years, and while trunks were always sent to them he never occupied one of them. As a rule he lived in rooms near by.

$1,354,389 FOR SUFFRAGE.

Mrs. Frank Leslie's Net Bequest Shown by Tax Appraisal.

The residuary estate of Mrs. Frank Leslie, left to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt for the cause of woman suffrage, is valued at $1,454,140 in the transfer tax appraisal filed yesterday. The tax to be collected by the State of New York on the bequest, which must be paid by the beneficiary, is $99,751, since no part of the bequest is exempt except $1,000. Accordingly the net sum that will be received by Mrs. Catt is $1,354,389.

Mrs. Leslie, who died Sept. 18, 1914, left a total estate of $1,843,822, which was reduced by debts, administration expenses, and other deductions allowed in computing the transfer tax, to a net estate of $1,573,602. There was a bequest of $10,000 to the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and she left $109,462 in bequests to relatives and friends.

The bulk of Mrs. Leslie's estate was in mortgages, of which she held $1,067,801. She had securities worth $669,805, the most valuable holding being 564 shares of the G. F. Harvey Co., manufacturing chemists of Saratoga Springs, of which Louis H. Cramer, for many years her business adviser, is President. This stock was appraised at $70,562. She had $12,000 in cash, her jewels were valued at $30,200, and her household furniture was appraised at $12,960.

Mrs. Leslie's only real estate holdings in New York City were: 774 East 175th Street, the Bronx, $8,000; leasehold of 49 West Forty-eighth Street, $17,000, and lots on the south side of West 216th Street, $12,000. She owned three parcels of realty at Saratoga Springs worth $52,000. Her total real estate holdings amounted to $89,000.

Among Mrs. Leslie's jewelry were the following articles: Diamond necklace, $8,100; diamond earrings, $8,000; diamond bowknot, $3,200, and diamond sunburst, $3,350. Her personal effects also included a framed imprint of her own hand valued at $2.

Transfer Tax Appraiser George Brokaw Compton allowed $25,000 each to Edgar T. Brackett and Sullivan & Cromwell, attorneys for the executors, for legal services, and $100,000 for the cost of defending the contest of Mrs. Leslie's will and other expenses of administration. A claim by Mrs. Cramer for services as Mrs. Leslie's business adviser for many years was reduced from $193,500 to $45,000.

BROKERS GIVE TO BELGIANS.

In the first ten minutes after the opening of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday $7,000 in cash and checks was collected on the floor and turned over to G. F. Blandy of 66 Broadway, Chairman of the Stock Exchange Committee for the Relief of Starving Belgians. The collection was the result of an appeal made at the Luncheon Club of the exchange on Tuesday by J. A. Gade, assistant to Herbert C. Hoover, Chairman of the Belgian Relief Fund. He told the brokers that 3,500,000 children and 10,000,000 adults were actually starving in the war-ravaged country. The German Government, he added, would allow food to reach Belgium by way of Holland.

While he attributed the consent of the German Government to selfish motives, in that the feeding of Belgians would lessen the difficulty of holding the country, he said that Germany's consent was all that need concern any one who wanted to aid the starving people. When Mr. Blandy of the committee appointed at the Luncheon Club reached the Stock Exchange yesterday morning he found a number of contributions waiting. The first donation received was a check for $1,000 from C. O. D. Iselin of 36 Wall Street.

WILSON HEADS BLIND FUND.

Becomes Honorary President of the American Section.

The A. B. F. B. Permanent Blind Relief Fund for Soldiers and Sailors, announced yesterday that President Wilson had consented to become honorary President of the American section of the fund. Governor Whitman and Mayor Mitchel are honorary Vice Presidents.

The Finance Committee of the fund has recently cabled the French committee a guarantee of 200,000 francs annually for the next five years, and expressed the hope that the fund might be able to increase the annual donation and to extend the guarantee for an additional five or ten years. George A. Kessler, Chairman of the Executive Committee, will sail for France in a few days to co-operate with the French committee.

The committee yesterday made public a reply to Mr. Kessler from Eugene Brieux, President of the French committee, to the fund's offer of an annuity to French blind, in which he said:

"I have just received your cable and it gives me much pleasure to note the decision of the American committee. I am delighted with the idea that you will soon come to France, for I am convinced that we will understand each other very well and we shall soon rapidly start the good work. I shall do my utmost to realize as soon as possible all the good work for our blind which you have made possible by your initiative and by American generosity."

LOW FOR ERASMUS HALL JOB

J. Herbert Low, after a heated debate, was appointed yesterday by the Board of Education as Principal of the Erasmus Hall High School, Flatbush, to succeed the late Dr. Walter B. Gunnison. There were forty members present. The vote was 22 for Mr. Low's appointment and 18 against. The High Schools Committee, which at first had opposed Mr. Low's appointment by a vote of 5 to 4, changed in his favor on Tuesday by Egerton L. Winthrop voting for him. Mr. Low therefore had the majority vote of both the Board of Superintendents and the High Schools Committee.

Arthur M. Wolfson was transferred from the Principalship of the Julia Richman High School to that of the High School of Commerce, to succeed John L. Tildsley.

The board voted favorably on the reports of the special Committee on War service, recommending the use of schools for patriotic purposes; that teachers at training camps receive their full salaries, less whatever pay they might receive from the navy or army, and that Acting City Superintendent Straubenmuller select twenty-four boys from the high school who were fitted to attend farm training camps in nearby counties.

NEW FROLIC A GAY ONE.

Ziegfeld's Midnight Revelry a Mixture of Girls and Flags.

The new Ziegfeld Frolic, which was unfolded on the roof of the New Amsterdam Theatre in the early hours of yesterday morning, ranks with the best of the entertainments that have been prepared for that home of midnight revels. Again the settings are lovely, the costumes gay and decorative, the girls most fair to behold and indefatigible in their prancings. They seem to graw smaller and smaller with each production and now there is no place of honor at all for the statuesque beauties whom the policeman in "A Kiss for Cinderella" calls the "stately 'aughties." Rather this is the day—or the night—of such chic and diminutive charmers as Frances White and Ann Pennington, the bright particular stars of the present constellation.

The engaging humor and ready wit of Will Rogers supply most of the humor, and then there is one Leipsic, whose card tricks display quite the most uncanny powers of sleight of hand our town has seen in many and many a day. Among the newcomers is Florence Lucille and two trained birds which talk and sing with great virtuosity, and among the old favorites are the two who play the banjos while the audience indulges in the popular songs of long, long ago. Not to be outdone by the letter-box didoes on the Century Roof, the girls at the Midnight Frolic will deign to talk with you by telephone if your table is advantageously placed. They run about as peripatetic switchboards. Also as clocks. Also as Zepps, while the searchlights play upon them. For these are war times and the Frolic must be warlike or die in the attempt. Indeed, the American flag is used so often and with such a flourish that it is assumed George Cohan will sue for infringement of copyright.

COLUMBIA CHORUS SINGS.

Pleases in Oratorio, "Samson and Delilah," at Carnegie Hall.

The Columbia Chorus filled a built-up stage at Carnegie Hall last evening, and its audience filled the floor of the hall for a hearing of "Samson and Delilah" in oratorio form, to which the Biblical opera itself and the beautiful choral writing of Saint-Saëns are alike admirably adapted, and in which form the work is most widely known. Mary Jordan and Dan Beddoe supplied excellent voices of heroine and hero, Alan Turner was the High Priest, and Robert Maitland both Abimelech and the Old Hebrew. An orchestra from the Philharmonic, with Lorenz Smith as first violin, assisted under the direction of Walter H. Hall, even taking honors alone in the dances of the Philistines.

After Samson brought the temple of Dagon down amid the last choral outcry, the audience was asked to rise and join in singing Mrs. Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic," several stanzas of which were printed in the program. Another half dozen concerts will end Carnegie Hall's long season.

CALL TO KILL DOG BILL.

Mrs. Kibbe Asks Humane Persons to Telegraph to Albany.

Mrs. H. U. Kibbe, President of the Bide-A-Wee Home Association, issued an appeal last night to humane persons to do all in their power to prevent the passage in the Assembly at Albany of the Wicks dog bill, which gives legal sanction to the wholesale killing of dogs. The measure has passed the Senate and is on the order of final passage in the lower house. This is Mrs. Kibbe's appeal:

"Friends of the Dog, Awake!—The Senate has passed the cruel Wicks bill against the pleading of the people of New York State. There are two chances left—one to kill the bill in the Assembly, and the other to plead with Governor Whitman to withhold his signature. There is no time to be lost. Telegraph to Albany at once if you do not want to see dogs ruthlessly destroyed throughout the State."

Mrs. Kibbe said he understood there was in the Assembly considerable sentiment in favor of the measure, which was framed at the request of sheep-owners.

The Wicks bill permits peace officers to kill any dog without a license, and makes it mandatory for a peace officer, and permits anyone, to kill a dog which is attacking or chasing domestic animals or fowls.

"FRANCE DAY."

One hundred and forty years ago, almost to a day, young LAFAYETTE, evading the orders of the French King and the vigilance of the French Government officials, following his generous passion for liberty, landed on the shores of South Carolina, accompanied by eleven officers, eager like himself to serve the American Revolutionists. With a true French sense of historical compliment, the French Republic has sent among its illustrious delegates, who bring the thanks of France to the Western democracy now fighting by her side "to make the world safe for democracy," a descendant of that old friend, "the hero of two worlds."

The Governor has appointed today as "France Day," commemorating an ancient friendship of two democracies and the arrival of our guests. To JOFFRE, who broke the wave of German invasion as CHARLES MARTEL broke the Moors; to VIVIANI, the brilliant statesman; to all that mission of many talents and distinctions, no adequate word of welcome can be said or need be said; nor are they here for words. The ceremonial and official side of their visit is of small import. They are here as Mr. BALFOUR and his distinguished company are here, to consult as to the best means to insure the strongest co-operation of the United States with the other allied democracies.

Today in the public schools of the State will be read Mr. WILSON's address to Congress asking for a declaration of war with Germany. That embodies in the noblest form the principles and the objects for which the United States and its Allies are in this war. The United States owes to itself and its allies wisely planned, instant preparation, the co-ordination of all its powers to help, to feed, to fight. It would be easy, and the temptation is great, to express to France the sense of obligation to her which every civilized man feels. She wants no praise. She must have victory. Both she and Great Britain, who is grandly careless of blame or praise, seem to expect that the war will last a long time yet. What is to be our armed assistance? Parochial and belated Congressmen are babbling the gospel of amateur war, of volunteering, in spite of the lessons of oversea experience, written in tears and blood. It is wasting time to yell "Vive la France!" and celebrate the heroism of France. If Congress loves France, the United States, democracy, it will provide them with American armies in the one competent, scientific, democratic way, by conscription; and it will not dally about it.

THE STATEN ISLAND FERRY.

Senator CROMWELL has succeeded in passing through both houses at Albany the bill ordering a reduction of the fare on the Staten Island ferry to two cents. What business is it of the Legislature what the fare is on the city's ferries? If the fare ought to be reduced, it ought not to be done in this way. The city is the best judge of whether it can stand further deficits on this ferry. In the first seven years of its operation by the city it cost in deficits more than four million dollars, more than half of the total tax collection from Richmond Borough. Recent improvements in administration have reduced the rate of loss, but the city at large is bearing all the burdens it can stand from the operation of its several ferries, none profitable.

This loss was imposed upon the city because of the theory which now obstructs the west side improvement, namely, that franchises should be shorter than capital investments justify. The ferry owners made formal offer to continue to run the ferries in a manner subject to regulation regarding accommodations and fares on a twenty-five-year franchise, and the offer was declined. They were lucky. The city is carrying the bag. It ruined the ferries by the subways, and it pays for both. No doubt it is better for the city that it should be so, but that is no reason for the Legislature's order that the loss on the ferries should be enlarged for the benefit of a single borough, which already is benefiting hugely at the expense of the entire city.

Senator CROMWELL did enough for Richmond when he arranged that a nickel should pay for both a car and ferry ride. That gives both the Richmond dwellers and the excursionists more than they pay for. It is a boon to both, and it is not grudged them, but the city is not in position to add greatly to the gift. It owes more to the Richmondites than to the excursionists. It would seem that the city might issue monthly or yearly cards to ferry commuters which would reduce their total fares without reducing too greatly the fares paid by the excursionists. The regular passengers are the backbone of the ferry business, and to halve their fares would more than double the deficit.

The excursionist traffic is already embarrassing. It is so great in Summer that it can hardly be accommodated, and needs a sort of vessel which is costly for the smaller Winter service. To increase that business under present conditions would be undesirable. But it would do much for Richmond if a commuters' fare should enlarge that traffic. It would mean larger permanent population and increase of tax payments which would compensate any loss on the present fare arrangements. The subject would better be left to the Mayor and his Department of Docks and Ferries.

A CONSCRIPTIONIST.

The principle of draft, which simply is involuntary or enforced service, is not new. It has been practiced in all ages of the world. It was well known to the framers of our Constitution as one of the modes of raising armies, at the time they placed in that instrument the provision that "the "Congress shall have power to raise "and support armies." It had been used just before in establishing our independence, and was also used under the Constitution in 1812. Wherein is the peculiar hardship now? Shall we shrink from the necessary means to maintain our free government which our grandfathers employed to establish it and our own fathers have already employed to maintain it? Are we degenerate? Has the manhood of our race run out?

The "militarist" who wrote these words was named ABRAHAM LINCOLN. He wrote them in the draft excitement of the civil war. Senator CHAMBERLAIN of Oregon quotes them in a report to the Senate. Mr. LINCOLN spoke of the draft law as one of a class of laws "whose object is to "distribute burdens or benefits on the "principle of equality," and of the difficulties in the administration of the draft laws. The draft acts of 1863 permitted exemptions and inequalities which were obvious and resented. Enforced service not on a basis of absolute equality was still strongly defended by Mr. LINCOLN. Conscription was necessary. He had to take it in the form that Congress prescribed. The selective draft is equal, universal, not to be evaded by money.

Another passage in Mr. LINCOLN's "Address to the American People," for such was the document prepared by him, but not issued at the time, and subsequently printed from the manuscript, has a contemporary application and sting:

> You who do not wish to be soldiers do not like this law. This is natural, nor does it imply want of patriotism. Nothing can be so just and necessary as to make us like it if it is disagreeable to us. We are prone, too, to find false arguments for opposing such disagreeable things. In this case, those who desire the rebellion to succeed, and others who seek reward in a different way, are very active in accommodating us with this class of arguments.

RUSSIA'S DANGER.

The Liberal Government in Russia is visibly threatened by a formidable counter-revolutionary unrest, which has not yet mobilized into a movement, but is being skillfully marshaled by German agents. Many of these agents are Russian Socialists, who act with full knowledge of what they are doing and who is to benefit. Alone they could do nothing, but they have the advantage of a real background. It is a background of ignorance, it is true, but none the less to be reckoned with for all that.

The counter-revolutionary feeling does not seem as yet to have any ingredient of royalism. Neither is it socialistic in its most menacing manifestations, for, busy as socialism is, it has not made enough headway among the immense masses of Russia to impregnate their thought. It is agrarian. The landless rustics seem only now to have learned that there has been a revolution, and they interpret this as meaning that the time has come when seven halfpenny loaves shall be sold for a penny, when the three-hooped pot shall have ten hoops, when it shall be a felony to drink small beer, and when all the realm shall be in common. Accordingly, in some parts of Russia, they are taking possession of the land and driving the landlords out. Their leaders strive to control them; the Grand Committee of the Alliance of Peasants tells them in a formal appeal that the land is to be divided among them equitably by the Constituent Assembly, and they must wait until that is done. But in a country where ignorance is so universal it cannot be certain that this appeal will reach far. Such a movement as this cannot go far, of course, without producing anarchy, and the attempt to prevent anarchy may mean civil war. One revolt in the Odessa district has had to be suppressed by force already.

The army, which has been the mainstay of the revolution, has been trustworthy so far, and if it were left to itself it could be counted upon. Here is where the German agents are at work. By spreading false reports they seek to confuse the understanding of the soldiers. One particularly ingenious German trick, employed by the native Russian agents of Germany who masquerade as Socialists, has been to tell the soldiers that the land was being divided and that they would lose their share if they did not go home at once. This has led to desertions, temporary in character but numerous enough to be damaging. Meanwhile the Socialists, headed by LENINE, an obvious German agent who was shipped back to Russia by Germany for the purpose, play Germany's hand by glittering catchwords, such as LENINE's "Dictature for the working class and democracy of the army," and seek to arouse hostility to the United States by representing her as a capitalist country.

If the German agents and the Socialists and agrarian agitators can produce a new revolution, they will bring about the wreck of Russia's hope of liberty. The first result will be anarchy, in which each party will struggle for the control of the Government, each in its turn be overthrown, and out of chaos will come the Man on Horseback. He may be a Romanoff or a new Napoleon, or simply a Huerta; but, whatever he is, he will not come at once, not until the land has been exhausted by anarchy and civil war. It is for this that the whole force of spies, traitors, and tempters whom Germany has poured into Russia are working with feverish haste. They have for their field a country most of whose population is simple-minded, and stirred by the memory of ancient oppression which they are likely to attribute not alone to autocracy, but to government of any kind.

This is the mighty disaster which the broad-minded Liberals now in control in Russia are working with might and main to avert. The hearts of all lovers of liberty will go out to them, and this country will give them its help in whatever form it may be most needed. The destruction of Russia's new-found liberty would be a calamity to the human race.

A FIVE-BOROUGH CITY.

The opponents of the bill for putting to use 20,000 old-fashioned three-story residences need to be reminded that this is a five-borough city. They argue that the cost of the dual subway will be wasted unless Queens is allowed to thrive by the distress of Manhattan's real estate owners and renters. The dual subway is as much for the benefit of Manhattan as of Queens. Also it is as much for the benefit of Queens as Manhattan that Queens shall not be allowed to reproduce in that borough the conditions in Manhattan which made it necessary that Manhattan should assume great burdens to relieve itself and all who dwell in the city anywhere.

It was published yesterday that there are in Queens 50,000 acres suitable for the growth of potatoes to relieve the present scarcity. Those speaking for Queens think that the potato fields ought to grow a crop of flats instead of family residences. There are many such flats there already, visible from the dual subway from which Queens benefits so much and to which it contributes so little as yet. The Queens flats are excellent constructions, many of them both cheaper and better than Manhattan flats. But if the 50,000 acres should be filled with them it would be a disaster both for Queens and for all its sister boroughs.

The object of the dual subway was to scatter population for the benefit alike of the boroughs which they left and those which received them. The opponents of the Three-Story Tenement bill practically argue for the transfer of Manhattan's congestion to Queens, leaving in Manhattan a congestion of sound buildings emptied by law for the benefit of Queens. There is room and demand in Greater New York for all sorts of buildings, even for family residences built in a modern way. Queens has some of them as well as some flats, and it needs both sorts. It is too great a sacrifice to slaughter good homes for the profit of any borough and have that profit itself a source of new loss.

There is need of a broader outlook in both camps. This is a five-borough city, and each of the boroughs should sink rivalries for the common good.

MR. WILSON AND A UNITED PEOPLE.

Mr. CHOATE did a good service to his countrymen and to his country when in his address at the annual luncheon of The Associated Press on Tuesday he candidly admitted that President WILSON was wisely guided in his policy of deliberation, in his determination not to advise Congress to declare a state of war with Germany until he was sure that he would have the united support of the American people. While many Americans, perhaps most Americans, felt that justifying provocation for war was given by Germany long ago, while many and perhaps most felt that the declaration should have come much earlier, nevertheless the President was right, events have vindicated the soundness of his judgment. Said Mr. CHOATE:

> Some of us in the past have criticised the President. Some of us long hesitated and doubted; some of us thought that watchful waiting would never cease. But now we see what the President was waiting for and how wisely he waited. He was waiting to see how fast and how far the American people would keep pace with him and stand up to any action that he proposed.

There is a striking historical parallel in the feeling and expression of the North, or of a large part of it, in respect to Mr. LINCOLN's policies. He, too, was criticised. But HUGH MCCULLOCH, in his "Men and Measures of Half a Century," records the judgment of history upon President LINCOLN's conduct:

> Throughout his Administration Mr. LINCOLN was wiser than his assailants, wiser than his friends. Besides the attacks of his political enemies, to which he was indifferent, he was constantly charged, by those who claimed to be friendly, with hesitation, when hesitation was dangerous. They were, for instance, impatient at his tardiness in using his war power to free the slaves, and they censured him without stint. He was troubled by this censure, but his purposes were not shaken by it. Although one of the mildest of men, he was unyielding to efforts which were made to force him to acts which he considered erroneous in themselves or erroneous because untimely. His aim was to keep abreast with the public sentiment, with which no man was better acquainted, and not to go too fast to avoid the charge of going too slow. He issued his celebrated Emancipation Proclamation when he thought the people were prepared for it and when the military condition of the country seemed to justify it. It came at the right time; it breathed the right spirit, and it was hailed with almost universal satisfaction in all the loyal States. I never think of the manner in which Mr. LINCOLN performed the most difficult and responsible duties which ever devolved upon mortal man, of the enormous labors which he performed, of his faith in the right, his constancy, his hopefulness, his sagacity, and his patience under unmerited and bitter criticism, without feelings of admiration akin to reverence.

The sinking of the Lusitania, when more than 100 American lives were lost, was a provocation for war. We know that at that time the country would not have been united for war, great as the provocation was. There was provocation for war in later acts of German lawlessness. It was still very doubtful whether Congress or the people would have given united support to the President in declaring war.

But when all restraints were thrown aside, pledges and promises disregarded, and in the proclamation of unrestricted submarine warfare of Feb. 1 Germany defied the opinion of the world and in effect declared war against belligerents and neutrals alike, then the people were one in the conviction that it was impossible to maintain even the appearance of friendly relations with a Power lost to all considerations of law and humanity. The German Ambassador was sent home, our own recalled from Berlin, but still a little time was given for Germany to reconsider. There was no drawing back on her part. True to her proclamation of ruthlessness, she continued to murder Americans. Then came the revolution in Russia, which furnished Mr. WILSON with the splendid text for his address to Congress, gave him and the country the opportunity to join the Allies in the prosecution of a war for human liberty and rights, a war in which we shall continue to fight and which cannot end until the world is made safe for democracy. At that moment the President could be sure that the people had kept pace with him, that they would support him, and sanction "any action that he proposed." "All unwillingness was banished from the minds of all the "people," said Mr. CHOATE, "and he "is now our chosen leader for this "great contest."

It is no reflection upon the other distinguished Commissioners now visiting this country to say that the larger share of our homage is due to Field Marshal JOFFRE.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Then why not pay a part of it by giving him his correct and venerable title? He is not "Field Marshal JOFFRE." He is a Marshal of France, and he is the only man in the world entitled to wear that honor; but Europe is so full of Field Marshals that they are stepping on one another's feet.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Why "Odium" Attaches to a Draft.

An excellent answer was made in the House this week by Representative LENROOT of Wisconsin to Speaker CLARK and all the other people who for one reason or another, and in one form or another, so industriously iterate the contention that to volunteer for military service is worthy of the American patriot, while he is disgraced or humiliated if conscripted or drafted.

Of couse Mr. LENROOT did not deny that volunteering is an honorable act, but with perfect accuracy he declared that the antagonism to conscription and draft which unquestionably still exists in many American minds is due solely to the fact that hitherto that method of getting soldiers has been a measure of last resort, taken when every other has been exhausted. In other words, when all who would volunteer of their own accord, and when all who by the ridicule, supplication, or denunciation of their neighbors could be forced to enlist, had done so, then we have exercised the always recognized right to use official compulsion.

Naturally the men thus obtained deserved, in almost every instance, the popular judgment that was passed on them as shirkers of duty certainly, and as cowards probably. It was natural, too, that some of the contempt they earned was transformed into a seated dislike among people quite different, for entering the army by that particular road. As Mr. LENROOT pointed out, however, the dislike is not a reasoned or just one.

From all minds with an appreciation for facts it has already disappeared, and it would not long linger even as an empty prejudice or mistaken sentiment if a judiciously selective draft were the first instead of the last method of enlistment to be adopted. In that case the "conscript" would be on an equality of honor with all his fellow-citizens, nobody would dream of calling him a "slacker," and he would not have, as many a volunteer does now, the dismal feeling that his [illegible] have led him to serve his country ill instead of well. For any service less than one's best really is an ill service, and, just as it would be next to treason for the General on whose co-ordinating oversight the efficiency as well as the safety of a whole army depended to lead a regimental charge, so there are other men, and many of them, who are reprehensibly out of place on the firing line. And they are the men whom the volunteer system sends there!

Pension Law Planned by Experts.

Mayor MITCHEL's commendation and signature of the new Teachers' Pension bill sends it to the Governor with what amounts to a guarantee that it is the result of intelligent study of a complicated problem, made by experts, and that it is sound from the actuarial point of view, which is an important merit possessed by none of its predecessors in this State. There is an implication of criticism of some of its provisions in the Mayor's statement that "in my judgment the city's contributions to its cost are notably generous," but the people of the city, like himself, would prefer being notably generous, to being notably penurious or stingy, in caring for its public school teachers when disabled or retired after long service.

The error, if it be one, is on the right side, and the only demand or insistence on the part of the public created by it will be for a firm holding of the teachers to professional and civic standards commensurate with the privileges they enjoy and the generosity from which they benefit. There must be no doubt about the efficiency of any member of the teaching force; they must be made to realize that time spent in playing the rôle of lobbyists in Albany is time ill spent, and that refusals on the part of any of them to give a pledge of loyalty that no good citizen would hesitate to give, any more than does a President of the United States to swear, when he takes office, that he will support its Constitution, will not be tolerated.

The old pension plan was also "notably generous," but it was equally unsound in that the obligations it assumed could be met only by emergency contributions from the City Treasury, and, except for the probability that such contributions would be made, any actuary would have condemned it as headed straight toward bankruptcy. The new plan does not please all of the teachers, but none would—not even one that put the whole burden of pensions on the city, for though that is what some of them wanted, others felt that to do so would be unfair.

A Bad Bill Advanced One Stage.

Senator WICKS has been able to convince a majority of his fellow-statesmen in the upper branch of the State Legislature that they should vote for his Dog License bill, and it now goes to the Assembly with what is declared to be a good chance to pass there, too. But how strange were the arguments used by the Senator in defending his truly remarkable piece of law-making.

Good dogs, he said, remained constantly at home or near it, because they were "well bred," and only "mongrels," that had no right to live anyhow, ever wandered away and committed crimes! Evidently Senator WICKS knows as little about dogs as he does about the tendency of human beings violently to resent the maltreatment of their personal friends among the canine race. Many dogs of excellent breeding and commendable character not only like to tour wide stretches of country, but do it, and as for "mongrels," that is one of the dictionary's hardest words to define. Would the Senator apply the name to all bull terriers, and to all the other dogs that are the result of crossing, more or less widely, dissimilar varieties of the species? If he did, he would have to admit that many a mongrel wins prizes at the dog shows.

Should the Wicks bill become a law, it would lead to numberless neighborhood quarrels and make impossible the keeping of any dogs except the most nearly worthless dogs there are—the shivering little creatures that live on somebody's lap and have neither the brains nor the courage to face the world that lies beyond.

ART NOTES.

An exhibition of paintings by Mary Cassatt at the Durand-Ruel Galleries carries the record of her work back something like forty years. The pictures are not dated, but the "Femme à l'Eventail" surely belongs to the late seventies. "La Tasse de thé" and "Femme lisant dans un jardin" seem by internal evidence to be somewhat later in date, and "La Partie au bateau" belongs definitely to the year 1893 and was painted at the Antibes in the Winter of that year. It is a significant roomful of pictures. The medium is oil in most instances, but there are several pastels, and the latter not less than the former convey the idea of sound feeling, fresh vision, and the highest authority in workmanship.

The subjects in which young children play the leading part are peculiarly refreshing from their complete naturalness and the careful research with which the artist has entered into their illusive little anatomies and psychologies. They are whole children at one mentally, morally, and physically, and not fragments of slighted personality, as most children in pictures appear. There is, however, a certain pleasure in turning away from the field of the artist's most familiar triumphs to other subjects in which she shows herself equally a master. The woman reading in a garden is one of these. The long figure sinking a little in its chair, the chin burrowed in the soft neckerchief, as innocent of pose as the babies in the companioning canvases, breathes the spirit of serenity, bodily idleness, and mental activity, a perfect idyl of a Summer day in France.

Miss Cassatt's talent is great and her genius rare. She paints with her modern and personal method in the mood of the Greek classics. Her gestures are large, her rhythms ample, her forms are animated by health and vigor, her people have sweetness of temper and sanity of mind. It is an art to cherish.

The Selective Feature.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"Selective conscription" simply means that one or more of the proposed "classes" which would have been formed if the Chamberlain or War College bills had been in effect would have been called to the colors, and the 500,000 men best fitted to serve on the front line would have been drafted into the army. All others, including all those who really had conscientious scruples, would be detailed for home service. This is infinitely more democratic than the present volunteer system, and excludes those older men whose business connections would be seriously harmed, and throws the burden of the defense of the country upon the younger men before many of them have made any such permanent or strong connections.

I am of an age which would insure of my being drafted, if I had not already volunteered, as I have. G. B. M.

TROOPS TO FRANCE.

Olympia, Wash., April 18, 1917.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As the speediest and most effective way of striking the enemy and help in forcing a victory with peace, the United States should immediately organize a corps of 60,000 troops and dispatch them to France to serve on the battlefront there side by side with the tricolor.

Nine regular infantry regiments, two regular artillery regiments, eighteen National Guard regiments, with the proper complements of signal, medical, airplane and other attendants, would comprise a corps. Regiments should be filled to the maximum with recruits, who would offer themselves in crowds for the chance of serving in the war. The Americans now serving in the French and British armies should be recalled and put into the regiments of this corps. It ought to be organized in a month and be in France in six weeks.

The moral effect of such an expedition would be tremendous, discouraging the Germans and inspiriting the Allies. It would afford the finest possible school of instructions in real war. Picked officers and men after serving in the field a month or two could be brought home as instructors for the troops under training here and others detailed to take their place, so there would be a constant accession to our training camps of men who had distinguished themselves in the field. The new levies would through them receive the best training in actual war.

This course would make us an actual participant in the struggle, and if peace should come before we could send a large army abroad it will give this country a voice in the settlement which otherwise it could not have.

FEW BRITISH SLACKERS.

New York, April 25, 1917.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an Englishman who served and was severely wounded in the early days of the war and is still serving in a civil capacity, I feel obliged to answer Mr. Rose's tirade against the British slacker in the United States.

When I left England a year ago for this country I held the idea, very common there, that over here the genus "Slacker Britannicus" abounded. Since then I have met great numbers of people, including probably not less than 200 Englishmen of eligible age. Among this number I have met very few indeed whose presence here was not easily accounted for.

There are many Britishers here who have served in the war and do not go out of their way to advertise it; others are employed on productive war work in a civil capacity and for common sense reasons do not wish to advertise it; also there are many who have been rejected as physically unfit.

Mr. Rose evades Mr. Chislett's point about the men with wives and families being unable to join on account of the expense by asking who provides for the wives and families of the men now fighting. The answer is plain. The separation allowance that suffices for an English family would not keep one member of it here in America; and the expenses incidental to leaving for England or Canada on the chance of being accepted may present a very real difficulty. The test will come when our Government undertakes to care for the families here while the men serve, and to give free passages.

I do not suggest that there are no British slackers. No nation could make such a boast. But I am convinced that there are very few, and certainly not enough of these invertebrates to be a disgrace to the British nation. Let any American ask himself how many Britishers he knows who have made no attempt to enlist. Perhaps he will make the oft repeated charge against English actors here. If there are slackers among them let him remember that their profession brings them into such prominence that exaggeration is inevitable.

Altogether my expectations in regard to the British slacker have been pleasantly unfulfilled. He is only conspicuous by his rarity.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondents representing neutral countries close to Germany protest that grain and products exported from the United States are not re-exported into Germany. They do not deny, however, that other produce grown in such neutral countries is exported to Germany. Your Scandinavian correspondent admits that fish is exported from Scandinavia to Germany. It is common knowledge that Holland raises huge quantities of garden truck and cattle for export to Germany in return for German coal. The United States can prevent the further export of fish, garden truck, &c., into Germany by placing an embargo on grain until hunger compels such neutrals to cease the export of all food to Germany.

The Origin of "Artillery."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While the word "infantry" is simply a synonym for "footsoldiers" as the easiest and earliest mode of fighting, the term "artillery" is not so obscure as your enjoyable note in today's issue would indicate. According to Heyse, it was formerly and more correctly called "artollerie," from "atolleria," and referred originally to the heavier implements of war that had to be raised or carried.

THREE FLAGS AS ONE.

A strange, new sight the world has seen,
'A wonder that all nations thrilled!
Two flags that long estranged have been,
Their peoples' strifes forgotten, stilled,
To breezes flung now side by side

O'er mighty dome of old St. Paul's
The great Republic's banner flies!
Its glory-chant all hearts enthralls,
With England's anthem now it vies,
For kindred lands in growing might

And on the tall Victoria Tower
That looms o'er gray Westminster vast,
As Allies in a fateful hour
Two flags as one their shadows cast,
And everywhere beneath their folds

That heaves with broad Atlantic tide
Old Glory floats from topmost peak
For Freedom's Land remembers yet
Her debt to France and Lafayette.

In one great cause three flags float high,
For new world-freedom they advance;
Together twined 'neath Flanders' sky
They float as one for dauntless France!
A new world era has begun,

THE GERMAN SOCIALIST PEACE INTRIGUE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The first phase of the widespread Socialist intrigue for a German peace was ended with the failure of Scheidemann's efforts to gather the Russian and German Socialists together in Denmark or Sweden. The leader of the majority, or pro-Government faction, of the German Socialists now claims that his purpose was, and is, to secure a general, and not a separate, peace—"unless a general peace cannot be secured," he naïvely adds. But in either case he strove for an immediate peace, and received, as the answer of the Russian Council of Labor Deputies, the proposition that an immediate peace would be premature. So Scheidemann failed.

Ever since the Russian revolution the stock of the majority Socialists has been falling and that of the minority has been rising. The great Berlin munitions strike was a final blow to the prestige of the majority. It was natural that the Kaiser should at first intrust Scheidemann with his peace feelers, for the whole long experience of the war has shown Scheidemann to be absolutely trustworthy from the governmental standpoint—as when he led the popular movement for peace last Fall, as a preliminary to the popular campaign for redoubled military efforts, also led by Scheidemann, in the Winter. But the German Government is an organization of many resources. At the same time that it utilized the majority leader it was making use of the minority. This was all the more easily done since majority and minority have an identical peace program, "no annexations, no indemnities." The majority has held that it might prove necessary to do some more fighting to win this German peace, the minority has trusted rather to the powerful influence of the German Socialists over all other Socialist parties. At a time when Bethmann Hollweg has apparently decided on the "no annexations, no indemnities" policy, (which would leave the Entente to pay the larger part of the price of the war and allow Germany to get the only benefit, namely, the chance to absorb her present allies,) it is evident that the minority Socialists can be more useful than the majority. For the majority could, at the most, count upon the Socialists of only one or two of Germany's smaller neighbors. The minority, on the other hand, has the support of the "official" Socialist parties in Holland, Sweden, Norway—and probably also in Denmark and Switzerland, in spite of the majority's influence in those countries. Its program also dominates the official party in Italy, and the two Socialist parties—though not the Labor Party—in England. In France it has the support of a minority that controls the organization of Paris and in recent congresses has had the support of more than 45 per cent. of the whole party of the nation. The German minority has, furthermore, the support of approximately 98 per cent. of the American Socialist Party, as proved by the vote at the recent convention. The situation is similar in Buenos Aires and in Brazil, where the Federation of Labor threatens to strike against a declaration of war. And, finally, the Russian Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Deputies has been led to adopt the policy of "no annexations and no indemnities." It is in vain that the Socialist Minister, Kerenski, explains that this prohibits only punitive indemnities, and does not apply to Belgium, Serbia, and Poland, and that only forcible annexations are opposed. In answering Socialist Congressman London's telegram, Tscheidse, Socialist leader in the Duma, repeats the clear-cut phrase, "no annexations, no indemnities."

The second phase of the new German campaign began when the Kaiser furnished transportation across Germany to Lenin and a group of Russian exiles thoroughly permeated with the views of the German minority. The newspaper organ of this group in Berne, the Tagwacht, had at first refused to credit the revolution in Russia—so dangerous did it seem to their hope for an immediate, or German, peace. It was a purely bourgeois revolution. Then came a complete somersault. It was a real revolution after all. But it was a purely proletarian revolution. One thing it could not be—a revolution of bourgeois and proletariat alike. For this would mean, first, a temporary suspension of "the class struggle," and, second, a prolongation of the war against Germany.

The German minority has founded an "international" commission at Berne, and nearly all of the parties and groups above mentioned have given their support to its program—first devised at Zimmerwald. It is based on two propositions: (1) that, the war is so evil it is better that the world should be conquered by the worst of Governments than that the war should continue, and (2) that all Governments are approximately alike, as far as the common people are concerned.

At the time of the Zimmerwald conference (September, 1915,) Germany seemed to have conquered and the conference called for immediate peace "in spite of the military situation." But this was a mere generalizing phrase to hide from the world their obvious and only possible meaning, namely, "peace with a German victory." For it is clear that not a single delegate would have favored immediate peace "in spite of the military situation" if the Czar had been winning.

Next, these "internationalist" levelers go so far with their fictitious leveling that they refuse to give the slightest recognition to the actual leveling already accomplished. They are revolutionists, yet the revolution of Russia, like the French Revolution, was purely bourgeois, and all Governments are still essentially alike, unless the Russian masses seize their opportunity and declare peace with the Kaiser and war with the bourgeois elements of the present Russian Government.

We have been reassured that Lenin's mission, like Scheidemann's, has failed. But he has been in Russia only a few days. The German Government is desperate, and the minority Socialists can bring valuable influences to bear from a dozen different countries at once.

A monster congress of workmen, soldiers and peasants is to be called in Russia in a few days. Demonstrations are planned for May 1 in nearly every country of the Continent. The German minority has arranged an "international" congress at Stockholm for May 15 that will gather pro-German Socialists from nearly every country of Europe.

One acknowledged German virtue is to prepare for coming situations in advance. It seems a settled principle of the Entente nations, and now of the United States, to deny the existence of dangerous agitations until—after weeks, months or years of the most evident preparations—they actually break forth. Then it is too late. Of course persons who have followed the preparations remain undeceived. But the world has not time to untangle these carefully prepared agitations, and is easily swept off its feet, at least for a considerable period. And before there is time for last minute enlightenment, statesmen may have been moved to damaging concessions that do lasting and irreparable harm.

Let us arm ourselves against this new German propaganda before it has had time to accomplish its purpose—which is chiefly this, to prejudice (not to say to poison) the minds of the ignorant and inexperienced Russian masses before they have had time to learn the real situation.

In combating such a purpose nothing can be so effective as the overwhelming rejection by America of the peace formula of "no annexations and no indemnities"—unless with Kerenski's interpretation—"no forcible annexations, and no punitive indemnities."

REPRISALS ON FREIBURG.

Western Reserve University,
Cleveland, April 21, 1917.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Since the early days of the war the German press has persisted in its efforts to prejudice the neutral world against France and England on account of the rather frequent airplane attacks on the "open" city of Freiburg in Baden. It might, therefore, interest the readers of THE TIMES to know something definite about the real facts of the case. This is the more important now because of the last somewhat maudlin complaint and protest made by the German Government against the Entente attack a few days ago. The German authorities have frequently shown themselves to be past-masters of the art of incriminating accusation based on the concealment of truth. And they are so perfidiously innocent in this latest attempt to deceive the world, and particularly their own credulous and patiently submissive people, that no unsuspecting person would ever imagine on reading the official "protest" that scores of Zeppelins had in the first two years of the war attacked open cities and towns of England whenever they could, and killed or wounded hundreds of innocent non-combatants—men, women, and children.

Now, the city of Freiburg in Baden, which the present writer has known rather intimately for many years, cannot with truth be called an open city. It was not that even before the outbreak of the war, for it then contained the barracks of one regiment (No. 113) of infantry, one of artillery, (No. 76,) and an aviation battalion. It was, besides, one of the principal stations of the extensive and efficient strategic railway system of South Germany. All these implements of war were in existence, I know, in the Summer of 1914. It must also be borne in mind that Freiburg is only a few miles distant from Mülhausen and Neubreisach, two of the strongest forts in the empire, and it could therefore easily be utilized in a subsidiary way. And the ever-alert German Staff has surely not overlooked the strategic value of Freiburg in relation to the fighting in Alsace. The Schlossberg, which rises several hundred feet above the city on its eastern side, is admirably suited for powerful military fortifications. In fact, the ruins of mediaeval castles and the huge cliffs facing out over the city and the extensive plain westward toward the Rhine offer natural emplacements for guns of all sorts. For years there have been concealed chambers or artificial caverns in these cliffs which were, or could be, utilized for long-range guns. Indeed, the Schlossberg and the Schönberg (just to the south of the city) could easily be so well fortified that a comparatively small force of artillery could fight off any hostile attack from any direction. The Rhine is distinctly visible from the Schlossberg, some ten miles away, as are also the plains of Alsace and the Vosges Mountains.

Since the very beginning of the war, when the French invaded and captured portions of Alsace, including Mülhausen, which they held for some time, there was imminent danger that they might be able to cross the Rhine several miles above Alt and Neubreisach and then march down the valley on the other side, virtually unimpeded by any other strong fortifications than those in and around Freiburg. Is it therefore imaginable that the German Staff, which has ever been so alert in preparing for every possible eventuality, and which has, in fact, won most of its victories by anticipating the Entente Allies in such matters, has not fortified Freiburg to the uttermost against every possibility of attack, both from land and from the air? The continuous whine, therefore, of the German Government and press about the illegal and barbarous attacks by French and English aviators against the helpless, unprotected city of Freiburg, in the face of these facts, is ridiculous.

In conclusion, I may say that close family connections and a multitude of good friends in Freiburg, not to mention the remarkable beauty and interest of the city, would naturally make me wish that it might be spared, if possible, from destructive bombs and bombardments. But vigorous and harsh retaliation, such as the latest attack on Freiburg, seems to be the only argument that has any force in penetrating the otherwise impervious hearts and brains of German military leaders. The Entente Allies have exercised unexampled patience in refraining so long from paying the Germans in their own coin. They have been true gentlemen and sportsmen, as well as merciful human beings—and the Germans have made the most of this patience and consideration.

One sometimes wonders whether the series of horrible, if mainly futile, Zeppelin raids against England are not in themselves eloquent but unintentional tributes to the gentility, mercy, and humanity of the English and French war leaders. The German Staff has known from the outset that French and English aviators could easily and frequently have retaliated by attacking unprotected German towns, but still it believed them to be too noble and humane to resort to the mediaeval, barbarous, and murderous practices which the Germans adopted and could therefore follow with a measurable assurance of success.

A Chance for Discharged Patients.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Social Service of the Volunteer Hospital reports that more than 1,000 pieces of clothing have been given away by them since Jan. 1, and there are no funds or clothing left to fit out patients when they leave the hospital. This is one of the big problems of Social Service work—to discharge patients properly equipped, so that they shall have a fair chance in their fight for life. They cannot secure positions unless they are decently clothed.

Won't you help us to solve this problem? Clothing of every kind for every age or any money contributions will be most gratefully accepted. Contributions should be sent direct to the Social Service Volunteer Hospital, Water and Beekman Streets, New York City, or upon receipt of a postal card or telephone call (Beekman 41) the committee will send for your package.

WAR BENEFIT HELD AT MRS. V. ASTOR'S

Society Pays $3,000 to See a Pantomime in Aid of Destitute French Artists.

'LE MARIAGE D'HELOISE'

There was a large and brilliant assembly at the residence of Mrs. Vincent Astor, 840 Fifth Avenue, last night, the occasion being an entertainment given for the benefit of the Union des Arts, which was organized in Paris at the beginning of the war, to assist destitute artists. Mrs. Astor lent her house for the affair, the whole lower floor, including the picture gallery, being thrown open for the guests.

The library and reception room were thrown into one for the entertainment, a stage being erected at the Fifth Avenue side. The flags of France, and the United States were festooned over the sides of the proscenium arch, and when the curtain parted, a scenic garden and lake met the view.

Against this background, a pantomime and revue, in two acts, entitled "Le Mariage D'Heloise" was acted, with society amateurs in the cast and prominent professionals appearing in recitation and song.

The time of the pantomime was from 1830 to 1850, and the costumes were in accordance with the fashions of those days in France. A small orchestra played the music of that period.

The plot, which was slight, had to do with a young French maiden and her fiancé, beginning with a game of blind man's buff, the central figures being Heloise, interpreted by Miss Mary Cass Canfield, and her fiancé, impersonated by Oauket Thevenaz, who did a very clever dance of the period, and were finally initiated into the abandon of synchopated time by a faun. The second act showed the gathering of the relatives after the marriage. In this part appeared Yvette Guilbert, Mme. Gabrielle Gills, Mlle. Gabrielle Dorziat, who, with Henri C. Delvaille, staged the pantomime; Paul Capellani, and Ernest Perrin.

Others who took part included the Misses Harriet Post, Mary Alexander, Alice and Madeleine Liebert, daughter of the French Consul General for New York; Mme. Delvaille, Francis and Maurice Burke Roche, Felix Doubleday, Lawrence P. Butler, John McMullen, and Mr. Vildenstein.

About $3,000 was realized from the sale of tickets, which will be forwarded to the headquarters of the organization in Paris. Preceding the pantomime, Jacques Copeau talked for ten minutes or so, telling of the work of the organization.

Among those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Lord and Lady Aberdeen, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mrs. Edmund L. Baylies, Mrs. C. B. Alexander, Mrs. John E. Parsons, Mrs. Alvin Krech, Mrs. W. Osgood Field, Mrs. E. H. Gary, Miss Louise Iselin, Mrs. Whitney Warren, Mrs. James Byrne, Mrs. Charles Ditson, Mrs. Sherwood Aldrich, Mrs. John R. Drexel, Mr. and Mrs. McDougall Hawkes, Mrs. George F. Baker, Jr., Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. Walter Maynard, Mrs. Burke Roche, Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, Mrs. W. Payne Thompson, Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Miss Marjorie Curtis, Miss Leonie Burrill, Miss Louise Scott, Mr. and Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken, Mrs. James A. Burden, Mrs. Francis Burrall Hoffman, and Mrs. Thomas Vietor.

KENNEY-McBRIDE WEDDING.

The wedding of Frederick J. Kenney, of Hewlett, L. I., and Miss Julia McBride, a daughter of Thomas J. McBride, took place at 11 o'clock yesterday morning in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, which was decorated with masses of dogwood and palms. Mgr. Francis H. Wall of the Church of St. Charles Borromeo performed the ceremony.

The bride, who walked with her father, wore a robe of white tulle embroidered in pearls and silver, over satin; the satin train was embroidered in silver and the narrow point lace veil was held in cap fashion with orange blossoms in clusters over the ears. She carried gardenias and lilies of the valley, and wore the bridegroom's gift, a diamond bracelet.

The bride's sister, Miss Margaret McBride, was the maid of honor and her only attendant. She wore a silver embroidered pink tulle frock over pink satin, and her leghorn hat was trimmed with a silver lace bow. Her flowers were Ophelia roses.

Mr. Kenney had a college classmate, George Mulligan of Newark, N. J., as his best man, and the ushers were Alfred and Vincent Meehan, John Scanlan, and William McBride, a brother of the bride. A reception followed at the residence of the bride's parents, 164 West Seventy-seventh Street.

Mr. Kenney and his bride have gone South on their honeymoon, and on their return will live at 544 West 157th Street. Mr. Kenney is the chief chemist in the drug department of the Department of Charities. The bride's father is the head of the McBride Ticket Agency.

Engagements.

Dr. and Mrs. Delos Palmer have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eugenie Palmer, to Frank Bosworth Tiebout, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Tiebout of Brooklyn. The announcement was made at a luncheon held yesterday by the bride's parents at their home, 48 West Fiftieth Street. Mr. Tiebout is a graduate of Williams College, class of '12.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander James Cooper of Bennington, Vt., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mabel Ressigule Cooper, to John Nestell Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Leonard of this city. Mr. Leonard is a graduate of Williams College, class of '15.

The engagement is announced of Miss Myra P. Cheesman, daughter of Mrs. Georgiana P. Cheesman of 352 West Fifty-seventh Street, and the late Dr. Hobart Cheesman, to H. Keyes Eastman of Brooklyn, son of Mrs. Rebecca Crane Eastman and the late Rev. Lucius Root Eastman of Framingham, Mass.

Births.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Backus of 849 Lexington Avenue are being congratulated upon the birth of a son yesterday at their home. Mrs. Backus was Miss Vivian E. Hunter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Hunter, of this city.

MISS EDITH COOK A BRIDE.

The wedding of James Alexander Edwards, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Edwards, and Miss Edith E. Cook, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Cook, was celebrated in the Central Presbyterian Church, Madison Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett, the pastor, performing the ceremony. The chancel was banked with tall palms and masses of Spring flowers, with pink roses over the pulpit and hydrangeas at the sides. The gallery railings were covered with hemlock, laurel, and other foliage, intermingled with dogwood, and Easter lilies marked the nave pews.

The bride, who walked with her father, wore a gown of silver brocade, the bodice cut very low and square, tulle and lace filling in the décolletage, and a white silk net apron drapery bordered with point lace, open at the sides, fell to the hem of the skirt. The silver brocade train was completely covered by the veil of old point applique lace, the top of net held by a flaring ruche at the top of the head, with orange blossoms at the sides, leaving the head and shoulders in bold relief, quite unlike the usual veil effect. She carried orange blossoms and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Theodore P. Dixon, a sister of the bride, was her matron of honor in pink satin and copper colored tulle, with a straw hat trimmed in copper and mauve ostrich plumes. The bridesmaids were the Misses Maria Fahys Cook, Belle W. Lobenstine, Edith C. Marshall, and Julia Raymond of Chicago. Their gowns were of gold-colored satin with pointed trains. All of the attendants carried great sheaves of Spring flowers in all colors of red, yellow, purple, and pink, stock, snapdragons, daisies, and larkspur.

Mr. Edwards's brother, Allen F. Edwards of Detroit, was his best man, and the ushers were J. Fahys Cook and Harry Cook, brothers of the bride, Alanson G. Fox, John Grenville Bates, John B. Marsh, Nicholas Danforth, Corbin Black, and Theodore P. Dixon.

Mr. Edwards is a Columbia graduate of 1900 and is a member of Squadron A and the University and Morris County Golf Clubs.

LIEUT. J. S. TATE MARRIES.

West Point Graduate Weds Miss Alice Maud Sargent.

A military wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Church of the Heavenly Rest when Miss Alice Maud Sargent, daughter of Lieutenant Frederick Homer Sargent, Thirty-fifth Infantry, U. S. A., and Mrs. Sargent, became the bride of Lieutenant Joseph Scranton Tate, son of Colonel Daniel L. Tate, Fifth Cavalry, U. S. A. Chaplain Percy Silver of West Point officiated.

The wedding was advanced from June owing to Lieutenant Tate's early graduation from West Point. The bride's father, who is stationed at Manila, P. I., is on his way home. He gave his consent to the advance of the wedding by wireless.

Homer Sargent, Jr., gave his sister in marriage. She was gowned in white satin and rose point lace, with a veil of lace extending half way down her court train. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Elizabeth Channon was her only attendant, and was gowned in yellow with a matching hat and flowers.

Lieutenant W. F. Redfield, a classmate of the bridegroom, served as best man. The ushers were Lieutenants Harrison, Sherrill, Mullins, and Tully, also classmates of Lieutenant Tate's.

A dinner for the bridal party and immediate relatives was held at the Astor after the ceremony, the couple leaving later on a motor trip through the South. Lieutenant Tate is a native of Scranton, Penn., and his bride's home is at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

WEDS AT COUNTRY HOME.

Thomas Wister Whitall, a son of Mrs. Thomas Wister Whitall of Cambridge, Mass., and Miss Josephine L. RHODES'S BOUNTY CLOSED TO GERMANS

German Students, Who Stood High at the University, Likely to be Missed After War.

The disposition of the scholarships for Germans, established at Oxford by Cecil Rhodes, which has caused debate in England since the war destroyed Rhodes's hoped-for rapproachement among Great Britain, Germany, and the United States, which should guarantee permanent peace, has reached a partial settlement. The statement of the Rhodes trustees for the last year, copies of which have just reached this country, contain the announcement that by an act of Parliament, adopted on petition of the trustees, the German scholarship provision, which was made in a codicil to the will, and hence could be nullified without affecting the Rhodes bequest in its entirety, has ben canceled. "The scholarships thus set free," says the trustees, "will be distributed among communities within the British Empire not provided for under the will."

While the statement does not say so, it seems probable that this may mean India. Canada, Newfoundland, Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand, South Africa, Bermuda, and Jamaica are already provided for by the bequest, and the suggestion has been made in England since the war began that the loyalty of India to the Empire made such recognition most desirable.

The German scholarships were decided upon by Rhodes after he had formed his plan for bringing Americans and Colonials to Oxford. Rhodes was a great admirer of William II., and the Kaiser's decision to teach English in the schools of Germany inspired Rhodes to include Germans in his Oxford plan. The position of the German scholars was different from that of Colonials or Americans. There were only fifteen of them at any given time, as against nearly a hundred Americans and about eighty Colonials. They received only $1,250 a year, as against the $1,500 given to the others, on the theory that they would spend the twenty-eight weeks of the year which Oxford allots to vacations at home. Instead of leaving the choice to local authorities, as in the United States and in many of the colonies, they were appointed by the Kaiser or, in practice, by his Minister of Education.

The fifteen German Rhodes scholars and the thirty or forty other Germans who usually were at Oxford on their own means composed the ablest national group at the university, according to American Oxford men, and the Germans were among the most popular undergraduates. There was keen competition for the German scholarships among the best families of the Empire. To maintain his position suitably each German candidate was required to show a private income of $1,250 a year besides what he received from the Rhodes bequest. In one year not long before the war there was only one of the fifteen German Rhodes scholars who was not a nobleman.

Most of the Germans studied economics, and a number of them took high honors; but their principal interests were outside the academic field, and socially they were popular.

There is still lack of interest in the scholarships in America. The qualifying examinations held last October brought out only 120 candidates, although thirty-two scholarships were available. The examination is such that a man who has spent two years in a good preparatory school should be able to pas it without trouble, but of the 120 candidates only twenty-two passed the whole test.

BRIDE OF ELLERY S. JAMES.

Miss Louise R. Hoadley Weds in St. Bartholomew's Church.

The wedding of Ellery Sedgwick James, a son of Henry A. James and of the late Mrs. Laura Brevoort Sedgwick James, and Miss Louise Russell Hoadley, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Hoadley, and a granddaughter of Mrs. Frederic H. Betts, was solemnized at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Church by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks. Masses of white and mauve hydrangeas were placed each side of the chancel and Easter lilies on the altar.

The bride, whose father escorted her up the nave, wore a white chiffon gown on mediaeval lines, pearls formed straight lines down the sides, and around the body at the hip line, and the chiffon sleeves came to the hands, finished in pearls, which also outlined the rather high neck. The train, also of chiffon, was embroidered in pearls and her point lace veil, worn also by her grandmother, was held in cap fashion with a bandeau of pearls. Her flowers were lilies of the valley with orchids.

Miss Helen A. Hoadley, the maid of honor and sister of the bride, wore a blue chiffon frock with a silver cloth girdle brought twice around the body and looped at the front, and a lace crin hat to match, trimmed with tiny straw roses and tulle.

The other attendants were Mrs. Shepard Krech and the Misses Angeline Krech, Edith McKeever, Isabella Banks Taylor, Josephine de Gersdorff, and Dorothy James, a sister of the bridegroom. They were in peach pink chiffon frocks with silver girdles. All of the attendants carried masses of shaded lavender sweet peas.

Little Miss Edith Rosseter Betts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wyllys Rosseter Betts, was the flower girl, in pale blue chiffon over pink, and a blue bonnet.

Oliver B. Jennings was best man and the ushers included Frank Shepard, Jeremiah Evarts, Henry Taylor, Prescott Bush, Samuel Sloan, Duryee, Knight Wooley, Oliver B. Cunningham, and Sheldon Hoadley, a brother of the bride, all classmates at Yale of the bridegroom, who has not yet been graduated.

A small reception for the families and a few intimate friends was held at the Hoadley residence, 962 Lexington Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. James are going to live for the present in New Haven, as Mr. James has joined the Yale Officers Reserve.

Miss Tappen to Wed C. L. Safford.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Tappen of New York and Buenos Aires, S. A., announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura, to Charles L. Safford. Miss Tappen is a 'cellist of reputation, has studied under Willem Willeke of the Kneisel Quartet, and is a postgraduate of the Institute of Musical Art.

Mr. Safford is a graduate of Williams '93 and of Harvard '94, and is at present organist and choirmaster of St. George's Church, Stuyvesant Square. His clubs are the Players, Williams, and Harvard, and he is a sometime member of the Mendelssohn Glee Club. Mr. Safford is also conductor of the Police Chorus, organized last year at the request of Commissioner Woods.

DIE IN BROADWAY CELLAR.

Two Killed by Explosion in American Express Building.

Two men were scalded to death and another was seriously injured by the bursting of a steam pipe in the subbasement of the new American Express Building, 65 Broadway, shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The force of the explosion was felt as far as the tenth story of the building, and the detonation caused a crowd to gather outside. Police reserves were called from the Greenwich station to handle the situation. After an examination Coroner Timothy Healy said he believed the explosion was accidental.

The dead are Thomas Archibald, 50 years old, of 261 Burnside Avenue, the Bronx, a pipe fitter, and J. J. McMahon, 24 years old, of 1,090 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, his helper. Nicolo Matisch of 414 West Forty-second Street, a pipe coverer, was taken to the House of Relief in a critical condition. Isidor Brown of 310 Montauk Street, Brooklyn, and Harry Bonersich of 517 West Forty third Street, pipe coverers, who were the only other men in the room at the time of the explosion, were slightly burned by escaping steam.

McMahon was pinned down by a water heater, which was torn from its braces by the explosion, and more than an hour elapsed before his body could be recovered. It was finally necessary to penetrate a number of pipes by means of an acetylene burner in order to extricate the body.

The electric generating plant of the building was shut down as soon as the explosion took place in order to stop the escape of steam into the room. This stopped all the elevators in the building except two, and put out the lights. Partial service was resumed shortly afterward, but hundreds of persons employed in the building were forced to walk to the street when the offices closed at 5 o'clock.

SCULPTOR HEADS ACADEMY.

Herbert Adams Replaces J. Alden Weir, Who Declined to Serve Again.

Herbert Adams, the sculptor, yesterday became President of the National Academy of Design at its annual election of officers, J. Alden Weir, the retiring President, elected last year, refusing to serve again. The other officers who were re-elected were Vice President, Howard Russell Butler; Corresponding Secretary, Harry W. Watrous; Recording Secretary, C. C. Curran, and Treasurer, Francis C. Jones. Colin Campbell Cooper and E. Irving Couse were chosen as new members of the Council. New Academicians are Charles Rosen, De Witt Parshall and Ernest Lawson, painters; James E. Fraser and Paul Bartlett, sculptors, and Henry Bacon, architect.

Herbert Adams, the new President of the academy, was born in Vermont in 1858. After attending the Institute of Technology in Worcester, Mass., and the Normal Art School in Boston, he spent five years in the study of his art in Paris. There he made his first notable portrait bust, that of Miss Adeline V. Pond, who later became his wife. The delicacy of Mr. Adams's art has been shown to great advantage in his busts of women. In public work some of the sculptor's most important achievements are to be seen in the two bronze doors of the Vanderbilt Memorial in St. Bartholomew's Church in this city and the bronze doors representing "Writing," in the Library of Congress at Washington.

He did the colossal statue of Light in the electrical tower at the Buffalo Exhibition and the Victories lining the avenue in the approach to the Dewey Arch, erected to honor America's naval hero. Mr. Adams has done notably fine work in medallions and other work in relief. He has been very successful in polychromatic sculpture and later in the combination of marble and bronze and marble and gilded wood in his sculpture.

HONOR BISHOP McDONNELL.

Priests and the laity of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Long Island, including 100,000 children of the parochial schools, joined in honoring the Right Rev. Charles E. McDonnell yesterday on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his consecration as Bishop of Brooklyn. Bishop McDonnell commemorated the event at the St. James Pro-Cathedral, Jay Street, with a solemn pontifical mass in the presence of a notable gathering of church dignitaries and prominent laymen.

Following the religious services in the Pro-Cathedral, Bishop McDonnell was escorted to the auditorium of St. James R. C. School, where he received a gift of $125,000. The purse was made up of contributions from the priests of his diocese and the laity.

Assisting Bishop McDonnell in celebrating the pontifical mass were Mgr. John T. Woods, pastor of the Holy Cross Church, as deacon of the mass, and Mgr. Michael G. Flannery, pastor of St. Paul's Church. The Rev. Thomas Campbell, S. J., a life-long friend of Bishop McDonnell, preached the sermon. Father Campbell also preached the sermon on the occasion of Bishop McDonnell's twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Richardson-Wallace.

The marriage of Richardson Perry Richardson of Lowell, Mass., son of Mrs. Meta Jefferson Richardson, and Miss Margaret Douglass Wallace, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Wallace of Dobbs Ferry, took place at 8:30 last evening in Zion Episcopal Church, Dobbs Ferry, the Rev. Stanley Brown-Sermon performing the ceremony. Mrs. John Fellowes Gower was the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Meta Jefferson, A. Virginia Mason, Janet H. Wallace, and Dorothy Wood.

Lieutenant Kent Robottom, U. S. N., was the best man, and the ushers were Ensign Foster C. Bumpus, U. S. N.; John Fellowes Gower, Allan R. Williams, and Carlyle Holt. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will live in Lowell.

Miss Morgenthau Weds April 30.

The wedding of Miss Ruth B. Morgenthau, a daughter of Henry Morgenthau, formerly Ambassador to Turkey, and George W. Naumburg of 48 West Fifty-eighth Street will take place on Monday, April 30, at the home of the bride, 30 West Seventy-second Street, and the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise is to perform the ceremony. There will be only a dozen persons present, including the bride and bridegroom.

They took out their marriage license yesterday. Mr. Naumburg is a member of the banking firm of E. Naumburg & Co., 14 Wall Street. He gave his age as 40. He has been married before. Miss Morgenthau is 22.

Welfare Work Among Soldiers

The religious and social needs of men called to the colors must surely interest the Jewish community. For the first year's work among the soldiers at least $100,000 will be required to build living accommodations in training camps and mobilization points and for the general purposes of adding to the mental and material comforts of the enlisted men.

These men must not be neglected. They respond to the country's call. Let the philanthropic perform their part.

'MIDGET MELBA' DIES IN HOSPITAL

MADE A FORTUNE ON STAGE

Although Only 20, She Received $250,000 in Salaries and Royalties and Lost It by Mismanagement.

"Princess Victoria," the tiniest woman of the stage, known also as the "Midget Melba," because of her sweet voice and the fact that she was born in Melbourne, Australia, died yesterday at the Stern Hospital, 365 West End Avenue, in her twentieth year. Sylvia Willes was her real name, and she was the daughter of Christopher Lionel Willes, a nephew of Sir George O'Mahony Willes, but in Australia, where her stage career commenced, she was called "Little Sylvia." She weighed exactly 19¾ pounds and stood 25½ inches high, just big enough to permit her to have photographs taken for advertising purposes while standing in the palm of a man's hand.

Mrs. Sarah Willes, the "Princess's" mother, said last night at the Hotel Gerard that during her daughter's stage experience in this country, at home, and in South Africa, she amassed approximately $250,000 in salaries for performances and royalties from her picture postal cards, but this had been dissipated through mismanagement. Before the motion picture theatre became such an attraction, Mrs. Willes said, her daughter had made as much as $15,000 in one week.

Beyond her height and weight there was nothing of the freak about the tiny young woman. Her mentality was normal, and she was a versatile musician. Besides an ability to captivate audiences with her voice, she could play a full-sized piano, organ, xylophone, chimes, sleigh bells and tubaphone. She was extremely sensitive, however, and did not like what she described as the "prying eyes" of persons who would stare at her while off stage on tours in this country.

Mrs. Willes would never permit her daughter to appear with a circus. Several times Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey sent emissaries with attractive offerings, she said, and each year these would be renewed, but the little woman never appeared at a side show or in the ring. After a brief Australian tour the Princess's act was billed at town halls in South Africa, where she scored an immediate success. Shortly after she went to England, where a performance was given by Royal command for the entertainment of English children on the occasion of the Festival of the Empire.

In 1911 the "Princess" came to this country under the management of Charles Abrahams, who was killed two years later in a motor accident at Houston, Texas. A tour of the country was made successfully under Abrahams, but Mrs. Willes said that the act lost prestige when other managers took charge. Up to several weeks ago the "Princess" appeared in vaudeville here. Last week it was found she had acute peritonitis and she was removed to the hospital.

WAR ORPHANS 'FOR SALE.'

Pictures of Seven French Babies Win Year's Care from Women Here.

Seven little French war orphans are assured of proper care for a whole year because portraits of them touched the hearts of women who saw them in an album on exhibition at the New York Exchange for Women's Work, 334 Madison Avenue. There remain in the Album thirty-six babies still "for sale"—that is for whom provision can be made for one year at a cost of $25 to $60 each, and the exchange expects to dispose of every one of them during its present exhibition.

The little ones are under the care of the American Ouvroir Fund in Paris, headed by Mme. Mary King Waddington, and contributions for their support will be forwarded to the fund. Five-year-old Raymond Krill, one of the oldest of the children, so attracted a spinster who saw his picture that not only did she subscribe for his maintenance, but at once began preparing to go to Paris to visit her ward.

DR. EPHRAIM CUTTER DEAD.

Noted Surgeon Who Was a Pioneer in American Laryngology.

Dr. Ephraim Cutter, one of the best known surgeons in this country, died yesterday in his eighty-sixth year, from a stroke of paralysis, at his home in West Falmouth, Mass. Born in Woburn, Mass., Dr. Cutter was graduated from Yale in 1852, and four years later obtained his degree as M. D. from Harvard, studying at the institution under Oliver Wendell Holmes and J. P. Cooke.

During his active practice, first in Woburn, then in Boston, and since 1881 in this city, Dr. Cutter invented many surgical and gynecological instruments and procedures. In 1876, in conjunction with Dr. George B. Harriman of Boston, he employed the highest power lenses which have ever been used in microphotography. Though he contributed more than 800 articles to professional publications, Dr. Cutter found time to be a pioneer in American laryngology, qualified as an expert in food values, discovered the tuburculosis cattle test, and in 1871 proved that the galvanic currents penetrate the human body.

A member of the Committee of One Hundred, Massachusetts Soldiers' Fund, 1861, Dr. Cutter served as special military agent in the field throughout the war.

GIANTS' BATS ROUT MIGHTY ALEXANDER

KILDUFF PROVES A STAR

Drives in Two Runs in Third and Adds Two More with a Homer, Paving Way to Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—All pitchers look alike to the New York Giants. This afternoon Alexander the Great was treated to one of the most severe maulings of his major league career and was driven to the clubhouse in the eighth round. The Giants beat the Phillies by the score of 9 to 8.

In winning from the Quakers today Manager McGraw unearthed a star in the person of young Kilduff, who was subbing for Charley Herzog at second base. This young player as a club swinger was right on the job, and it was his home-run drive in the eighth that sent in the tying run and paved the way for the retirement of the star Quaker hurler. In addition, the youngster scored two other men in the third with a single to left field.

The Giants looked like real terrors with the club. It was their heavy swatting and the fine support they gave to their pitchers in the pinches that carried the day. Their pitching for seven innings was very deplorable, and the Phillies looked like sure winners. Then a cog slipped in the pitching wing of Alexander, and five hits in a row in the eighth overcame a three-run lead and gave the game to the New Yorkers.

The Giants collected twelve safe drives off Alexander, but were hardly able even to see the ball after Mayer went to the mound. The latter in the eighth allowed the McGraw clan only one hit, while in the ninth he fanned Robertson, Zimmerman, and Fletcher in a row.

Perritt started against the Phils, but lasted only a little over three rounds, when Middleton came into the game. After two bad rounds he settled down to real pitching and went along holding the slugging Phils in check until the eighth, when Manager McGraw pulled him out of the game to allow Lobert to hit for him. Then Sallee, the slim one, took up the burden and escaped without further damage, although Cravath opened the ninth with a double.

The Phils pried off the lid in the second, when Niehoff was hit, stole second, and came home on Killifer's single. A base on balls to Stock and Cravath's homer produced two more in the third. In the fourth a trio of doubles by Niehoff, Alexander, and Bancroft accounted for two runs, while in the fifth singles by Whitted, Killifer, and Alexander, an error by Zimmerman, and a long fly to Robertson gave the Phils three more.

In the third Burns started with a single to left, and, after Kauff walked, Robertson forced Burns at third on a bunt. Zimmerman walked, filling the sacks, and while Fletcher was being retired at first Kauff counted. A single to left by Kilduff sent over the other two. Burns's double and Kauff's single produced another in the fourth. This same pair registered another in the seventh, when Burns tripled to right centre and came home while Kauff was being tossed out at first.

The game was won in the eighth. Zim opened with a single and scored on Fletcher's double. Kilduff drove one into the left-field bleachers, and two more counted. Holke and McCarthy singled, and when Lobert hit into a double play Holke scored the winning tally.

PIRATES RALLY IN TENTH.

Get Busy with Bats and Down the Cardinals, 10 to 8.

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—Pittsburgh rallied in the tenth inning today and beat St. Louis in a lively batting contest, 10 to 8. Pittsburgh batted Meadows from the box in the first, getting four runs. St. Louis took the lead in the seventh when Gonzales, batting for McCauley, hit a home run, scoring Cruise, who had singled. Singles by Schulte and Fischer, with Long's error and an infield out, tied the score in the ninth. In the tenth, Carey doubled, Schulte was passed, Hinchman singled, scoring Carey, Schulte taking second and Baird singled, scoring both Schulte and Hinchman.

ROBINS AND BRAVES DRAW.

About 3,500 Brooklyn baseball enthusiasts went home disgruntled yesterday. Half of the number sat through twelve innings of chilly weather and got no greater satisfaction than to see the Robins and Boston Braves battle to a 6 to 6 tie. The shades were falling fast when Umpide Bill Quigley, concluding that a day's work had been done, turned to the faithful but moody populace at Ebbets Field and announced that the game had been called. Their only reward for the afternoon was seeing the Dodgers furnish an uphill fight, which brough them up on even terms with the Braves.

"Rube" Marquard, the elongated southpaw, who has been bothered considerably with a bad shoulder, started the game for the Robins, his first of the season. Dick Rudolph was on the mound for the Braves. The big southpaw, however, failed to restrain the Boston batsmen, and he was taken out of the conflict in the sixth session to allow Smythe to bat for him.

Before that time the Boston hitters had annexed eight hits and three bases on balls for a total of five runs. Rudolph, on the other hand, went along famously until the sixth frame. At that point, however, the Brooklyn batters turned on Dick with a fury that netted them four runs before the smoke of battle had cleared away, and brought them within striking distance of the Stallings Clan.

After Wheezer Dell, replacing Marquard, had retired the Braves without encountering serious trouble in the seventh session, the Brooklynites continued where they had left off in the preceding chapter, and, amid the howls and ravings of the numbed spectators, jumped into the lead with two runs.

This hard-earned advantage did not last long, however, for in the following inning Dell walked two batters, which, with a wild pitch and a successful double steal, gave the Braves the opportunity of tying the score without the formality of negotiating a hit. This ended Dell's period of twirling, and he was eliminated from the scene in favor of Sherrod Smith, who completed the game and enabled the Robins to tie with the team from the Hub.

In the midst of the Robins' batting bee in the seventh inning, Rudolph was removed from the mound and replaced by Art Nehf, who later was relieved when the going seemed to be getting too hot and replaced by Big Ed Reulbach, who twirled for the closing innings.

COUMBE CURBS WHITE SOX.

SCHANG PUTS CRIMP IN YANKEES' HOPES

Wallie Schang and his newly hatched mustache paid their first visit of the season to the Polo Grounds yesterday and stirred up considerable commotion in the ninth inning, when Wallie belted a home run into the upper tier of the grand stand, with two runners on the corners, propelling home the runs by which the Athletics beat the Yanks, 4 to 2. Up to that time, the Yankees had the game all but put away on the shelf by a count of 2 to 1. Those fans who were not frozen to their seats had risen and were on their way to the gate when Schang initiated his mighty crash. Some 5,000 smiles on the faces of Yankee fans instantly changed to expressions of pain and anguish.

Schang's mustache is mentioned because it is the only one that lives in baseball. It used to be fashionable for ball players to decorate the upper lip with moss in the days when they rode high wheels and wore celluloid collars, but facial scenery among ball players nowadays is regarded as somewhat of an affliction. At a short distance Schang's alfalfa isn't noticeable, but miscroscopic investigation proves that it is there without a doubt.

The Athletics have ceased to be the jokes of the league. It required about three seasons for Connie Mack to completely wreck the team he had, but he finally did a good job. From the highways and byways he has gathered an entirely new collection which promises to be something of a surprise. There is one face on the Athletics which is familiar. Ping Bodie owns it.

Bodie used to be with the Chicago White Sox, but he was dismissed because every time he got on the bases he blocked the right of way to all traffic. So he was sent back to the Pacific Coast last year to mellow a little longer in the wood. Bodie's on-the-level name is Francesco Piazzi. No ball player could stick to that title and live to tell it, so he changed it to Ping Bodie.

The Athletics also have a catcher with the name of Picinich, which should furnish the foundation of many a quip. Still another unhappy name on the White Elephants' roster is Thrasher. They made a mistake in naming him because he fanned twice yesterday.

Bill Sunday's choirmaster, Rodeheaver, shivered through the game yesterday, looking for vocal talent. He opined that some of the players ought to make good singers, as they appeared at times to have missed their vocation in becoming diamond performers.

Allan Russell held the Athletics safely until the tempestuous ninth. He struck out nine batsmen, fanning Thrasher, Bates, and Noyes in the fifth and thereby getting himself out of serious trouble. In the fourth he fanned Bodie and Amos Strunk, Mack's two heaviest hitters. Russell weakened at the end, while Noyes, the young Athletic pitcher from the coast, held the Yanks safe after the fifth inning. Good support aided Russell in some of the earlier innings, for in spite of his many strike outs the Athletics had a persistent habit of getting on the bases.

The Yanks became active in the fourth. Pipp singled to left and went to second on Baker's safe rap to centre. Magee's sacrifice sent them along a station. While Noyes was tossing Peck out at first Pipp scored. The Yankees kept up the good work in the fifth. Russell gave himself a pleasant surprise when he hit a two-bagger through third base and scored on Gilhooley's single to right centre. High sacrificed and Gilhooley boldly tried to go from first to third on the out, as Ty Cobb sometimes does, but was doubled up at third for his pains.

The Athletics got a run in the sixth. Witt, Mack's kid shortstop, peeled off a two-bagger to right centre, a high Texas Leaguer, which no one could quite reach. Grover skied to Gilhooley, and Bodie displayed his best attack of the day when he waited for a pass. Strunk grounded to Maisel who threw to Peck to force Bodie, but for once in his life Ping moved faster than any one expected and was safe. The bases were crowded, in fact overcrowded, as Bodie took up considerable room at second.

Thrasher poked a sacrifice fly to Gilhooley, Witt scoring. Bodie went to third after the catch and he and Strunk attempted a double steal. Ping got a few feet off third base where he was nailed flat-footed.

Then came the ninth. With one gone, McInnis made his fourth hit of the matinée, a single to centre, and Bates got a single in the neighborhood of first. Wallie Schang then plastered his home run high into the right field grand stand, sending McInnis and Bates home ahead of him, thereby changing a 2 to 1 victory for the Yanks into a 4 to 2 defeat.

HERZOG INJURES HIS SPINE.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—Charley Herzog, the star second baseman of the New York National League baseball team, fell in the Pennsylvania Station in New York today while en route with his team to this city and suffered serious injury. Herzog noticed a piece of chewing gum on the marble floor of the station and kicked at it. His feet slipped from under him and he fell heavily.

The player came to Philadelphia and was taken to a hotel, where a physician who made an examination said he had injured the lower part of his spine, but he could not say how seriously. Herzog will be out of the gabe for several days at least.

QUAKER NINE WINS EASILY.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25. — Penn toyed with Ursinus this afternoon and won by 8 to 2. The invaders had little chance to endanger the Red and Blue, being held scoreless in every inning except the third.

Walter Bernhardt, who last week held Holy Cross to four hits in eleven innings, was in superb form. He permitted only three hits, two of which came in the first frame. During the nine innings he struck out twelve batters.

Joe Yates and Jimmy Todd were the hitting heroes of the fracas, each being credited with home runs. Yates's four-base clout came in the first, with Todd and White loitering on the runways. Todd's circuit wallop was inserted in the second and produced two runs, Gilmore tallying on the hit as well.

Coach Thomas gave Howard Berry a day off to rest for the Pentathlon championship competition on Friday. Johnny White was moved from third to Berry's post at short, and Lew Morgan was sent to the hot corner. Ward Hinkson was acting Captain in Berry's absence.

LEHIGH BEATS SETON HALL.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., April 25.—Lehigh, after a bad start, pulled together strongly and walloped Seton Hall today, 10 to 6. McMahon, the star twirler for the visitors, who defeated Princeton this Spring, holding the Tigers to one hit, was slammed hard for a total of fourteen hits.

Lehigh's errors in the first inning were mainly responsible for Seton Hall's three runs, but in the second on three hits and an error Lehigh evened the score. Lehigh broke the tie in the fourth, when three passes and two singles put the Brown and White in the lead. After this Seton Hall was never dangerous.

AYERS MUCH TOO LIBERAL.

BOSTON, April 25.—Ayers of Washington went to pieces in the seventh inning today and passed four men in succession, forcing in the tying run. After that Lewis worked the squeeze play, scoring Hooper with the run which won for Boston, 5 to 4. Ayers gave another base on balls before the inning closed. Ruth forced in a run in the sixth, when he gave three passes. It was his fourth straight pitching victory. Each of his two singles drove in a Boston run.

MISS REGAN TAKES HORSE SHOW HONOR

Although the magnificent harness horses of James Cox Brady, shown under the stable name of Hamilton Farms, again dominated the ring on the second night of the New York Spring Horse Show at Durland's Academy, the riding honors of last night were clearly carried off by that finished little horselady, Miss Constance Sala Regan. Her victory on the black mare Brunette, in a special class in which the largest percentage of the points went for expert horsemanship, was the most popular of the night and, under the conditions of the class, was regarded as fairly earned, although such a great saddle mare as Mrs. Robert E. Tod's Sceptre was left out of the ribbons.

The little daughter of Thomas J. Regan sat her mare, which was little more than a pony—a galloway at best—as if she were part of the graceful animal. Fifty per cent. was granted for suitability of horse and rider, with another 25 per cent. for seat and hands. In the latter particular none of the older riders excelled the little Regan miss, who scored the most distinctive triumph of her limited show ring career. She was an exceedingly pround young lady as she made an extra round of the ring, while an attendant carried the massive cup, too large for her to hand e and give proper attention to her mount.

Besides Sceptre, another good saddler, and a winner on Tuesday, was left out of the ribbons. This was The K'Nut, a brilliant chestnut that did not match his rider, as some of the less beautiful horses did.

James Cox Brady's most notable success was in the spectacular class for park fours, in which four fine-looking teams entered the arena in answer to the bugle call and cut figure eights over the tan bark to the delight of the critical crowd. The Brady coach was driven by John Tierney, manager of the Hamilton Farms, and he showed the four handsome browns off to the best advantage.

It was learned that on the opening night the award for the heavyweight division had gone to Thomas K. Alford's roan mare, Beowulf, and not to the Cricklewood Farm's Villa, as incorrectly reported.

KEWESSA IS HOME FIRST.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 25.—Billy Oliver's Kewessa came back to tip-top form today, and, though well supported in the mutuels, caused a mild sensation, winning the handicap at six furlongs, which was the fourth event on the card, and stepping so fast that the time, 1:11 4-5, was only a fifth of a second slower than the track record made in 1913.

The success of the McGee gelding was the more notable because his victory resulted in the defeat of the three-year-old, Fruit Cake, for the first time this season on a Maryland track.

The summaries:

ANTI-BOXING BILL GETS DEATH BLOW

Slater Measure Slain in Senate Committee and Action on Successor Is Unlikely.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 25.—Governor Whitman's pet project to put an end to boxing exhibitions before paying audiences received a knockout blow in the Senate today. The Assembly has twice voted on the G. T. Davis bill to repeal the boxing law and abolish the State Athletis Commission, which at present is regulating the sport, and has twice rejected it.

The Senate Judiciary Committee today failed to report favorably the bill introduced by Senator George A. Slater, which was identical with the Davis bill, on the ground that with the Assembly action a matter of record it would be useless to put the Slater bill through the Senate, only to send it to certain death in the Assembly.

Senator Slater later in the day introduced a bill differing from his first bill and from the Davis bill. It fixed Nov. 15 as the date after which no new licenses for boxing exhibitions can be issued. The earlier bills merely provided for the immediate repeal of the bill.

An attempt was made to have the new Slater bill advanced to third reading at once, but this move was blocked by a protest from Senator Thomas H. Cullen, Democrat, of Kings, therefore it was sent to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which had already demonstrated its unfriendliness to the Governor's proposal to repeal the boxing law. Even should the bill be reported from this committee it would go into general orders, which, at this final stage of the session, is commonly alluded to as the "morgue."

THIBAUD WINS GOLF TROPHY

R. F. Thibaud of Wykagyl led the field at Lakewood yesterday in the play for the Shanley Memorial Trophy for senior golfers. A fine entry list for the event and clear, cool weather gave the seniors an exciting tournament day.

The winner had a gross score of 100, which, with a handicap of 26, produced the winning net score of 74. The low gross of the tournament was turned in by W. Fairbank, who come all the way from Denver to register an 88 in this competition. The entry list for the annual Spring tournament, which begins tomorrow, contains about ninety names, including that of Norman H. Maxwell of Aronimink, the young North and South amateur champion.

Valois Princess is an American-bred dog raised by Julius Fangmann of Jersey City, who took the reserve in the open bitches class with a litter sister of Valois Princess, Monte Carlo Babette. Among the champions that the four-months-old sensation defeated in her path to victory through four classes were Champion Haworth Mireille, Champion Haworth Patricia, and Champion Coquette de Bourbon.

GERMANS HIDING FOOD SUBSTITUTES

"A SECRET OF WAR OFFICE"

This Was Excuse Given by the Scientists When Asked to Produce the New Discoveries.

By OSCAR KING DAVIS.

Copyright in Canada.

"If it had not been for the discovery of a substitute," is a phrase heard so often in Berlin during the time I was there, that despite the smiles and pleasantries of my skeptical friends and acquaintances who are not tied by blood to Germany, I began to take some stock in the stories of substitutes found by the German scientists. Now that I look back on the experience I am still inclined to think that it is quite as easy to scoff at a claim of the truth as to believe in a claim that is unfounded. And so many scientific discoveries of astonishing character have been proved up in the last few years that it seems a good thing to do regarding these German claims just to watch and see what comes out at the end of the war, when the bars of "military matters" are dropped, and the world gets back to something like its old relationship of respect and the semblance of confidence in one another.

If I were a German poet I should begin to sing songs of wooden bread and wooden clothes and wooden feed for cattle, and all that sort of thing. I suspect the Germans of making rubber shoe jam, and it would not be surprising to find them claiming to be able to make wooden coffee. I have no doubt that coffee made out of wood by some of the German chemists would be just exactly as nutritious and palatable as some of the stuff called coffee I have drunk in the United States and in other countries far removed from the Kaiser's sway.

It will always be a matter of regret to me, about my trip to Germany, that one particular promise, which was made on several different occasions, was never kept. It was a promise to give me a loaf, or a piece, of wooden bread. The officer who made and repeated the promise used to laugh about it and declare that no doubt I was eating wooden bread every day at my hotel. That only served to increase the desire to have actually in my possession a piece of bread that was avowedly made of wood, for purposes of comparison with that served in hotels and restaurants. It did not serve, however, to convince me in the least that the bread I got at the hotel was made even in the smallest part out of wood, for the hotel bread, as was that obtained at other hotels and restaurants, was mighty good. It would be good bread in New York or any other American city, and it was just as cheap. We've got to fight and beat those people, and there is no use in trying to kid ourselves into the belief that it is an easy job.

Never Saw Actual Substitutes.

Well, I never managed to get hold of any bread that was avowedly made out of wood, nor did I ever see any clothing that was described as made out of paper made from wood, nor could I ever get permission to visit the experimental farm, not far from Berlin, where it was represented to me the German substitute fodder committee of the War Office was successfully feeding stock on fodder made from wood. But I had some queer and interesting talks about these things, and I shall give the substance of some of them here for what they may be worth. And what they will be worth will be just what the reader happens to think about them.

Beginning with the bread, for instance, the very clever young officer who promised some of it to me said:

"You see it was merely a scientific problem, after all, and we have solved it. Our scientists have known for a long time that wood contains approximately the same chemical qualities that wheat, for instance, contains. The trouble was that their chemical combination was different. As a result of this combination, wood was not responsive to the animal digestive apparatus, while wheat was. Consequently we lived on wheat and let the wood go to waste, so far as food was concerned.

"Now, as I say, it was simply a scientific problem to discover the method of treating wood so that it should become responsive to the animal digestive process. That we have done. It sounds ridiculous, I'll admit. But then, it is only a few years since so many wonderful scientific achievements also sounded ridiculous. The world has advanced to the point where it is no longer safe to jeer at any claim of scientific discovery just because it is new and strange or sounds ridiculous."

Naturally, I wanted a good many more details of this important discovery, and especially of the process by which the undigestible wood is converted into the readily digestible food, but my officer acquaintance straightway declared that all those things were "military matters," and that no answers to my questions could be supplied. I kept at him religiously for that piece of wooden bread, but he always had an excuse. I am bound to say that his excuses were usually very plausible. He was surely extremely busy and had a great many things on his shoulders, all of them considerably more important than getting me samples of wooden bread. Still, he had volunteered the promise, and I did want to see that wooden bread—if there was any such thing.

Seeing Is Believing.

So, also, I desired very much to see that experiment farm, if there was any such farm. I am not oversanguine about the things told me by Germans in Berlin and elsewhere about their country. I try not to be overskeptical, also, but there are so many cases in Germany—and in other belligerent countries as well—where seeing is believing, that I desire always to preserve a decent reserve, and not to seem to write with too much confidence.

But the man who told me first about that experiment farm is a very distinguished scientist of Berlin. He was Professor of Chemistry in the University of Berlin, and is undoubtedly known to many Americans who have studied under him. Past question, his word on chemical matters was authoritative before the outbreak of the war brought such a readjustment of values in this regard. When the war began, and the great scientific and economic development was called for, this chemist gave up his university work and went into the war service in the "Futterersatz," or substitute fodder committee, of the War Office. It is his office that has chiefly to do with the development of fodder for cattle and swine from wood. It was chemical experts in his office who discovered the method of treatment of wood so as to make it responsive to the animal digestive process—if such method has really been discovered.

He sat in his library one evening and described to me, in considerable detail, the organization by which this substitute fodder is distributed throughout Germany to farmers and producers of livestock and swine. Whenever I sought to lure him away from the discussion of that organization and into talk about the process by which the substitute itself is obtained, he receded into his official self and replied that that was a "military matter," which it would not be proper or permissible for him to discuss. He himself thought, of course, that a scientific discovery of such importance should be made known, but the officials of the War Office were of different mind, and, of course, their opinion controlled. It would be interesting, for instance, to take me out to the experiment farm, where cattle were being fed every day on this product, and were kept under scientific observation, so that proper scientific record of the results obtained could be preserved.

"Doctor," said I, "do you mean to tell me that you can put fat on the frame of a steer with that mixture made from wood?"

"I mean to tell you exactly that," he replied confidently. And he speaks just as good English as I do, so that possibility of misunderstanding was eliminated.

"Well," I said, "I should like very much to visit that farm and see those experiments."

Germans Talk of Discovery.

Being a military matter, however, does not keep this discovery from being talked about among the Germans. It is referred to constantly, both in private conversation and in public. I did not find many men who professed knowledge of details, but several did, although not one of them would talk to me about them. Many persons talked with the uncertainty of small knowledge and large belief, however, and there was great enthusiasm about the discovery. Moreover, it was referred to frequently in official ways. A statement prepared for me in the office of Dr. Batocki, President of the War Food Office, contains the very phrase with which this letter opens.

From all this I came to the conclusion that no matter how much they may be exaggerating the use of substances obtained from wood for the making of bread, there is surely something going on in the use of wood for the production of substitute fodders. The organization for its distribution ramifies throughout the entire country, and the stuff is actually shipped to farmers in widely separated parts of Germany. Whether the wood pulp does anything more than give bulk and body to a chemical concoction that makes old chopped-up straw palatable to stock which otherwise would not touch it, I have no means of knowing. One of the questions I want answered very promptly after the war is this one of the use of wood for food. And it no doubt will be answered, one way or the other.

On the use of wood for clothing I came across a very curious and interesting bit of information that was so unofficial as to be really worthy of consideration. Everybody knows, of course, that paper is made from wood pulp. Tucked away in the financial news paragraphs of one of the Berlin papers one day I came across a three-line item to the effect that a certain paper-spinning concern had so many orders that it could not undertake any new business for three months. What was it spinning paper for? To make cloth? I don't know. I couldn't find out. But that was in line with the German claims.

OPEN GILLENDER WILL FIGHT

Witnesses Say Wealthy Spinster Was Eccentric.

The contest over the will of Miss Jessie Gillender, who died on Feb. 26, 1916, and left an estate of nearly $1,000,000, the residue of which was left to the Paulist Fathers for charitable purposes, went to trial before Surrogate Cohalan and a jury yesterday. Miss Gillender cut off relatives, including George Hyatt Robinson, a nephew, and Alice Hawkins Barcella, a niece. They allege that Miss Gillender had been of unsound mind for years.

Those who seek to uphold the will are the Paulist Fathers, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, which got $50,000, and the Children's Aid Society and Johns Hopkins University, which received $100,000 each. H. V. Barclay of 644 Madison Avenue, testified that he had known Miss Gillender and her father, the late Arthur Gillender, for seventeen years, and that while her father was on his deathbed Miss Gillender insisted that he wasn't ill, but was merely weak from old age. He said she always believed she was poor, and that she told him she lived abroad much of the time because it cost her less than to live in this country.

E. J. Fletcher, who met Miss Gillender in a steamer coming from Manila several years before her death, testified that she told him she had a large ranch in Alberta, but that she never went there because the Canadian mounted police persecuted her. He said she asked him to go to Alberta and take charge of the ranch, and when he investigated he found that she had no ranch there.

GIRL ASKS $15,000 A YEAR.

Miss Lorena Carroll, daughter of Joseph D. Carroll, wealthy horse dealer who died in 1912, applied in the Surrogates' Court yesterday for an increase in her income from $2,678 to $15,178 a year. She inherited the bulk of her father's estate in trust. Miss Carroll is 16 years old and lives with her mother at 590 West End Avenue.

In explaining her application, Miss Carroll said she contributed $2,000 a year toward the rent of the residence of her mother and herself, and it cost her $2,000 a year for ribbons, collars, laces, manicuring, hairdressing, and storage of wearing apparel. Her share of the household expenses was $3,500 and the maintenance of two automobiles cost her $5,000. For her education, with private tuition in French and music, $1,500 a year was paid, she said, and other expenses brought her requirements up to the total named.

Cleveland Quits Research Board.

Dr. Frederick A. Cleveland has resigned as Director of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, it was announced yesterday by R. Fulton Cutting, Chairman of the Trustees of the Bureau. E. P. Goodrich will continue in charge. Mr. Cleveland has taken a place in Boston with a corporation, but it was said he would continue to give to the bureau his counsel on technical and scientific matters.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

NO. 24416.—IN THE UNITED STATES District Court for the Southern District of New York.—In Bankruptcy.—In the matter of MOE HAUSEN and HARRY HAUSEN and the firm of HAUSEN BROS., alleged Bankrupts.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Moe Hausen and Harry Hausen, individually and as members of the firm of Hausen Bros., and a meeting of creditors will be held at the office of Stanley W. Dexter, Referee in Bankruptcy, No. 71 Broadway, City of New York, on the 7th day of May, 1917, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, to consider an offer of composition, at which meeting the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, examine the alleged bankrupts, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.
Dated April 24th, 1917.
STANLEY W. DEXTER,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

Distributing Investment Risk

It is seldom that you can find diversification of risk in one security.

The securities of certain Public Utility holding companies meet this requirement.

For this reason the Preferred Stock of the Commonwealth Power Railway & Light Company is worthy of consideration.

Sentiment as expressed through the movement of prices on the Stock Exchange underwent a violent change yesterday, prices of the most active industrial issues moving up with very little resistance on the largest amount of business done since April 5.

The rally was initiated at the opening, but did not get under full headway until early afternoon, and prices in most cases closed at the highest point for the day. There were two outstanding factors to account for the suddenly renewed interest which the outside public as well as professional traders showed in the issues which have been rather in disfavor in recent weeks. The first was, of course, the pleasant surprise caused by Directors of the United States Steel Corporation in declaring an extra dividend of 3 per cent., where only 1¾ per cent. was expected. The other was the dissemination of a report that most of the copper which will be bought by the United States and the Allies for future war needs will cost in the neighborhood of 25 cents a pound. When arrangements were made through the Council of National Defense under which the big copper producers agreed to supply 45,000,000 pounds for this Government's use at 16⅔ cents per pound the United States was not in the war, and there was no thought in the minds of the copper men that they were fixing a price which might be claimed by Great Britain and France. It is obvious that the companies cannot maintain three selling prices, one to the United States, another to the foreign governments and a third, and highest, to private consumers, but from the moment that this country declared war the copper men have maintained that they were not obligated to supply more than the amount discussed in the arrangements at the arbitrary price agreed upon, and they resented the implication that they should make a similar reduction on all subsequent purchases. The statement yesterday that the bulk of copper purchases will be made at perhaps 8 cents a pound higher gave the copper issues sudden impetus.

Yesterday's rise was made much easier by the presence in the market of a very considerable short interest. The selling of steel on the expectation that the corporation would shortly have to accept much lower prices for United States Government needs has reached large proportions and the price was run up 5⅛ points yesterday largely by the aid of short coverings. However, gains of 1 to 13 points marked almost the entire list. Many people are realizing for the first time what it will mean to industry to expend the proceeds of the proposed loans in this country in the next year or so. The Iron Age reports that fresh foreign buying is expected to be handled soon by Great Britain and will amount to large totals. All of the Allies have been purchasing as little as possible in this market since the failure of the plan to sell British Treasury notes here increased the difficulty of making payments. The weekly weather bulletin published yesterday was encouraging and did its part in shaping the sentiment along favorable lines. The average advance of twenty-five leading industrials was no less than 2.8 points yesterday. Call money was easier on the discovery that payment for the $250,000,000 of Treasury certificates had been arranged especially with a view to causing no disturbance in the market.

DEFEND STOCK BONUS.

Du Pont Officials Deny Charges in Mrs. Parot's Suit.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 25.—Officers and Directors of the du Pont Powder Company filed an answer in the United States District Court today in the suit instituted on April 4 by Mrs. Eleanor B. du Pont Perot of Philadelphia, in which she attacked the company's stock bonus system.

A general denial is made to the charges of fraud and conspiracy. It is asserted in the answer that the bonus system, as administered by the company since 1904, has been of incalculable value in obtaining faithful and efficient services from employes, several thousand of whom have become partners in the corporation's activities through the operations of the system.

LONDON, April 25.—Money was in increased demand and harder today. Discount rates were steady.

As the time for the announcement of [illegible] rower, and today, apart from a slight hardening in home rails, British issues were inclined to droop. The fact that Exchequer bonds of small denominations are available at postoffices contributed to the dullness. Mining shares moved irregularly, but Russian bonds and colonial [illegible] maintained their strength, [illegible]

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Shorts Hasten to Cover.

The shorts took a hurried glance at quotations at the end of the first hour of business yesterday, and concluded that the gains then recorded were not propitious from their point of view. Thereupon they bought stocks and contributed largely, according to Exchange gossip, to the really vigorous upturn. The Steel Corporation's extraordinary statement and important dividend action helped a great deal in starting the buying movement, but outside of this influence the Street was assisted by mental considerations to look more brightly upon business than on other days of the last fortnight. The impression gained ground that the Government's plans for raising war funds were being rapidly worked out to the point where certainty instead of uncertainty as to the effect on industry would be discernible.

Points of the Steel Statement.

The Steel Corporation's statement of earnings by months encouraged study of the transportation situation. March, with its $43,630,422, was about $7,600,000 higher than January, and more than $10,000,000 better than February. It was said in steel circles yesterday that lack of cars in January reduced the operations of the finishing mills to 75 per cent. of capacity from the neighborhood of 85 per cent. in December, and in February a further decline to 65 per cent. occurred. The month's return was also affected by the fewer days than in the other two. In March the railroads were able to move more cars with the result that steel shipments increased and mill operations were expanded to about 80 per cent. of capacity.

Income on Government Contracts.

In the current quarter Government orders at lower than current prices may have some effect on the Steel Corporation's income. This will not necessarily be the fact, however, as the mills are working up contracts for domestic and foreign consumers which were signed from four to eight months ago when quotations were relatively low as compared with those now mentioned. At the same time, however, the corporation's costs are higher than six months ago, due to two wage increases as one factor, which intensifies the effect of low prices when additional business at such prices is pressed upon the mills.

New York City Bonds Higher.

A notable feature of yesterday's bond market was the advance of 2 points in New York City 4½s. Offerings appeared to be scarce, and, on only a small volume of business, quotations went up to 107½, compared with 105½ on Tuesday. These are the New York City bonds which mature in 1957.

British Treasury Bills.

Cable dispatches from London yesterday reported a new arrangement for the disposition of Treasury bills. It contemplates a combination of the fixed-rate system with the system of accepting tenders. Blocks of bills will be offered on Fridays for payment on the following Tuesdays. Beginning next Saturday, daily applications will be received at rates to be fixed by the Bank of England. These rates will be slightly below the average discount of the preceding allotment by tender, the privilege being granted, however, only to banking and discount houses. The lowest acceptable application will be for £25,000. Tomorrow's offering will be for £20,000,000.

Whispering in Uncle Sam's Ear.

In a democracy which has not yet put a seal on the freedom of speech it is every citizen's privilege to advise the Administration on its duties in respect to the many and intricate problems of Government that are constantly arising. Likewise, it is the Administration's unquestioned privilege to listen to all of the advice that comes to it, solicited or otherwise, and then disregard it. Some of the advice that is being tendered Secretary McAdoo on the matter of borrowing $50 for every man, woman, and child in the country is merely contributing to the cost of white paper. A man who establishes in the first paragraph his right to direct an operation in billions writes to say that he has a plan under which the whole amount authorized can be sold in twenty-four hours. The same mail carries a warning from an equally responsible authority that at the outside not more than $1,000,000,000 of 3½s can possibly be sold. It must all be very helpful to a man who has no precedent to go by, and must trust to his own and others' judgment as to what can be accomplished.

A Matter of Mathematics.

A well-known banker who established a reputation as a sound economist before he became a financier takes issue with those who argue on one hand that the cost of the war should be paid by this generation, and, on the other, that this means provision of half the first year's expenses by taxation.

"Suppose," he says, "that we all agree that the entire cost of the war should be met by this generation. Let us also suppose that before we get through money is going to cost more, so that the average interest rate which the United States will pay on its war loans will be 5 per cent. The first point to consider is the probable amount of money which will be spent in the first year. With the men who are to be sent abroad not yet enlisted, costs will not mount rapidly for months yet, but let us allow $2,500,000 for the first year. Instead of the billion and three-quarters which Congress seems to think should be provided by taxation I should say that $500,000,000 ought to be so raised, the other $2,000,000,000 by bonds. Interest on the bonds would call for $100,000,000, leaving $400,000,000 out of taxes for expenditure. In the second year war costs perhaps $3,500,000,000, and instead of paying 20 per cent. through taxes we should raise 30 per cent. In this way, continuing the taxes after the close of the war, business could be kept at capacity and the war debt repaid out of taxes within five or six years. There is no need to hand the debt on to posterity, nor yet to cut into working capital to pay as we go."

Trading Is Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, April 25.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 61 francs 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London 27 francs 18 centimes. [illegible]

COTTON IRREGULAR

Steadiness of Spot Situation and Progress of New Crop Divide Trade's Attention.

The cotton market yesterday was irregular, with the attention of the trade divided between the steadiness of the spot situation as reflected in the small May notices and the reported favorable progress of the new crop. July contracts fluctuated between 19.50 and 19.72, closing at 19.58, with the general list closing steady at a net advance of 3 to 17 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 10 points, and there was a flurry of coverings by May shorts which sent the price up to 19.90 right after the call, or 28 points net higher. The notices issued were estimated at less than 500 bales. This was evidently a disappointment to some scattering shorts who had hoped for a better buying basis, and the May premium over July widened to about 28 points. Later deliveries sold about 16 to 25 points net higher before the end of the morning, but after the demand for near-month shorts subsided prices turned easier under realizing and local pressure. Selling was encouraged by the favorable weekly weather report and reports of rains in Texas. New crop months sold 4 to 5 points under Tuesday's close, while the old crop lost all but 3 to 4 points of the early advance. The market then steadied, however, on a renewal of bull support and covering with the close several points up from the lowest.

No change was reported in marine war risks or the ocean freight situation, and comparatively little news seemed to be reaching here as to the Southern spot markets.

Following are yesterday's quotations:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
June	..	..	19.68 Bid	19.55

January	18.69	18.55	18.61@18.63	18.58
March	..	..	18.75 Bid	18.72

The local market for spot cotton was quiet and 20 points higher at 20.05c for middling upland. Southern spot markets were as follows: Galveston, 19.25c; New Orleans, 19.19c; Savannah, 19⅝c; Augusta, 19.75c; Memphis, 19.75c; Houston, 19.10c.

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton a fair business doing; sales, 8,000 bales; speculation and export, 500; American, 7,000. Imports none. Midupland, 12.70d. Futures opened steady, 13 to 15 points higher. Closed barely steady at net advance of 4 to 10 points. May-June, 12.15d; July-August, 12.07d; October-November, 11.57d; January-February, 11.45d; March-April, 11.42d.

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Port receipts	6,283	9,414	16,437
Exports	16,703	17,116	17,982

Exports for the day were 16,703 bales, making 4,588,653 bales so far this season.

NEW REORGANIZATION PLAN.

Adopted by Committees of United Railroads of San Francisco.

The amended plan of reorganization of the United Railroads of San Francisco has been adopted by both the New York and the San Francisco committees. Nearly 80 per cent. of the bonds have already been deposited, according to an announcement made yesterday. The total capitalization is reduced from $84,630,100 to $47,011,100. The main features of the reorganization plan provide:

1. For the cash requirement of $5,200,000 to take care of underlying bonds overdue and to mature April 1, 1918.
2. For the exchange of the present 4 per cent. bonds for new securities, consisting of bonds, first preferred stock, and common stock.
3. For the retirement of outstanding notes, preferred stock, and common stock by an issue of new second preferred and common stock.
4. For salable securities to take care of the company's future capital requirements.

It is proposed to obtain the necessary cash for working capital by the use of income accumulated pending the reorganization and the sale of non-operative property, these two items amounting to $2,200,000, and the sale of $3,000,000 of Market Street (San Francisco) Railway 5 per cent. bonds. This will leave the Market Street Railway bonds as the only underlying security, and reduce the amount of that bond issue to slightly more than $10,000,000.

For existing junior issues of the United Railroads, amounting to $45,873,600, the new plan provides for new issues of second preferred and common shares totaling $12,244,000. Holders of the old junior issues also will be required to buy $3,000,000 of Market Street Railway 5 per cent. bonds, payment to be made at par.

The total interest-bearing debt of the company under the terms of the reorganization is reduced by $12,959,000.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

William P. Bonbright & Co., Inc., announce that funds have been received from the French banks participating in the $15,000,000 French export credit of March 10, 1916, for the payment of the first $5,000,000 installment under the credit due May 1.

The Equitable Trust Company and Edmund Seymour & Co. are offering for public subscription at 102 and interest, to yield net 5.45 per cent., $2,000,000 Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, Inc., five-year 6 per cent. convertible gold notes. They are redeemable in whole or in part on 60 days' notice on any interest date after June 1, 1919, at 102½ and interest. They are also convertible into 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock at par on any interest date on or prior to June 1, 1919.

Dr. David B. Steinman, formerly special assistant to Gustav Lindenthal, the bridge engineer, has joined the firm of Waddell & Son as associate engineer.

The American Steel Export Company announces the appointment of Charles S. Vought as assistant general manager of sales.

S. W. Straus & Co. announce a bond issue of $800,000, secured by the Hotel Richmond of Chicago. The property is said to be valued at $1,350,000, and the bonds, which net 6 per cent. interest, mature serially in from two to ten years.

Directors of the B. F. Goodrich Company, at their regularly quarterly meeting, held yesterday in Akron, Ohio, declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, payable August 15 to stockholders of record at the close of business August 3.

For the six months ended Dec. 31, 1916, the Northern Pacific Railway Company yesterday reported a net revenue of $21,821,409, an increase of $1,476,246, and a net income of $15,950,224, an increase of $1,918,187. Total operating income of $18,572,802 increased $1,058,992, and gross income of $22,032,096 increased $1,279,478.

GOVERNMENT TO PAY MORE FOR COPPER

FAVORED BY DEFENSE BOARD

The impression is gaining ground in copper producing quarters that future Government purchases for army and navy needs will be made at prices practically equal to current market quotations when contracts are signed. In important marketing quarters it was intimated yesterday that instead of 16 2-3 cents, the price of the 45,000,000 pounds recently bought, additional metal taken this year would be at a level between 25 and 27 cents a pound. It was said that Government officials and the Council for National Defense had realized that efforts to carry the special price movement to further lengths would be likely to discourage production at a time when the nation's imperative need is for production to be maintained at the highest rate.

Copper producers and members of the Defense Council, it is learned, have gone over the mining and refining situation from many angles, and a practical decision to recommend to Government authorities the purchase of metal at "going" prices hereafter was reached a few days ago. The producers pointed out that, inasmuch as the wages of most of the miners are based on the price received by the companies for their copper, a sharp reduction of quotations would necessarily result in a lowering of wages and probable labor troubles. It was also brought to the attention of the committee that Great Britain last year bought copper in Australia and Tasmania at prices from 2 to 4 cents a pound higher than the British Munition Board paid at the same time for metal secured in this country. The deduction from this fact was that the English economists were aware of the fact that good prices paid in the colonies would stimulate output, a development which was greatly desired.

The copper men do not expect that serious efforts will be made to have lower than market prices quoted the Allied Governments when they begin to cover their requirements for the second half of the year. The producers say they believe the foreign purchases will be made as last year, direct by British and French agents, and that the United States Government will take no steps to act as buyer for all of the Allies.

The question of supplies is causing considerable concern among the copper men, according to a leading seller, because of the belief that the Government's program will require far more than 45,000,000 pounds this year. It is estimated that if the contemplated plan for putting the army and navy on a war basis is rushed, copper to the total of 300,000,000 pounds will be bought before the end of 1917. So great a drain upon production from a single source, coupled with the expected demands of England, France, Russia and Italy, and the normal commercial requirements of this country and Europe would tax existing refinery capacity to the utmost.

Prices in the wheat market continued to soar during yesterday's session, and the highest prices of the season, and consequently the highest since the days of the civil war, were recorded. The May position at Chicago, which on April 4 crossed the $2 mark, sold at $2.52, making an almost perpendicular advance of 52 cents a bushel in twenty-one days. Cash wheat was very strong in all positions, and St. Louis reported the cash market there as quoted at $3. In the local cash market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at $2.86, free on board, New York; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $2.64½, and No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $2.78½, free on board, New York, opening of navigation. Rye market strong; No. 2 Western, $2.10, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

CORN.

The corn market was very strong in sympathy with wheat, and on the pronounced strength in the cash position. New high records were established, and at the close of the day quotations were 3⅝c to 4⅛c net higher. Reports from the country said that farmers were more willing to sell, but that there was a scarcity of cars with which to move the corn to market. Weather conditions were fairly satisfactory and preparations for the new crop are progressing rapidly. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $1.70, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

Oats shared the general advance in other grains, making new high records and closing with net gains of 1⅞ to 3⅜c. Cash markets were firm, with offers moderate. The local cash market was firm, but nominal. Standard quoted at 79½ to 80c; No. 2 white, 80c; No. 3 white, 79 to 79½c; No. 4 white, 78 to 78½c; fancy clipped white, 80 to 88c; ordinary clipped white, 79 to 80c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was moderately active, and prices were firmer, in sympathy with the strength in grain. The cash trade was said to be of quite large proportions, and this offset a rather more liberal hog movement. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 29,000; estimated for Thursday, 21,000. Kansas City received 10,000 and Omaha 9,800.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cotton seed oil market shared the general advance in other commodities and at the close of the day was 10 to 19 points net higher. Profit taking sales with more or less selling for Southern account checked the upward movement, however, and final quotations were slightly below the high of the day. Total sales aggregated 23,000 barrels. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The futures market opened steady, unchanged to an advance of 12 points, with sales on the call 1,400 tons. The advance was soon lost, due to the circulation of May notices and to liquidation in that position, which depressed prices, trading being rather nervous and unsettled throughout the day. The market closed irregular, 3 points net lower to 4 points net higher, with sales of 23,150 tons. Range of prices:

The market for refined sugar was generally unchanged, although the American advanced the price of cut crushed, cubes, XXXX powdered, powdered and coarse granulated. Fine granulated was unchanged at 7.50, but there was very little business, as refiners were too busy on old orders to accept new business. Raw sugar was quiet at the close, with no business reported. Refiners were not actively in the market for the nearby positions, but it was thought they might be interested in May shipment at 5¼ cents, cost and freight, if available. They have ample supplies on hand and to arrive and appear to be interested in May shipment only. Straight April shipment Cubas were offered at 5⅞ cents, cost and freight, with bids of 5¼ cents, cost and freight, solicited. Spot quotations were more or less nominal, as follows: Centrifugal, 6.97 cents; molasses, 6.20 cents; cost and freight, 5¼ cents.

COFFEE.

The coffee market showed rather a steadier tone yesterday. There was further May liquidation in preparation for notices, but it was partly in the way of switching and the market showed the effects of scattered covering, while there was also some trade buying on reports of a firmer feeling in Brazil. The close showed a net advance of 1 to 6 points. Sales, including exchanges, amounted to 180,000 bags. The local spot market was dull and nominally unchanged on the basis of 10c for Rio 7s and 10⅜c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,026 packages. There was another decline of 1c, and an unsettled market. Buyers are holding off until values reach bottom. The transactions in creamery extras were mainly at 41c, but that class of stock can now be bought easily at the price, while undergrades range from 40½c downward. Renovated about 1c lower. Ladles entirely neglected, and prices were cut 2c without finding an outlet. Packing stock also lower. Creamery, higher scoring than extras, per lb., 41½@42c; extras, 92 score, 41c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 39½@40½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 38@39c; thirds, 36@37c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 42½@43c; extras, 41½@42c; firsts, 40@41c; seconds, 38½@39½c; creamery, held, extras, 40½@41c; firsts, 39½@40c; seconds, 38@39c; thirds, 36@37c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 40½@41c; good to prime, 38½@40c; common to fair, 34@38c; renovated, extras, 37@37½c; firsts, 35@36c; lower grades, 32@34c; imitation creamery, firsts, 34@35c; ladles, current make, firsts, 31½@32½c; seconds, 31c; lower grades, 30@30½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 31c; No. 2, 30@30½c; lower grades, 28@29½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 42,000 cases. The arrivals are larger than generally expected, trade is dull, and there is a lack of sufficient speculative support to maintain values. A liberal quantity of stock has accumulated in first hands. Storage accumulations are being added to quite rapidly, and a good many of the trade are losing faith in the market at recent extreme values. Country prices are still relatively above the rates ruling here, but the dullness of the trade is causing increasing pressure to sell and prices are decidedly lower, closing unsettled and uncertain. A good many of the storage packings and high grade current packed eggs arriving here are not offered at the decline, and the market closed with values uncertain and quotations somewhat nominal. Nearby white eggs are also lower, with a very dull trade, and many lots are going to storage for lack of buyers at any acceptable price. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 35½c; storage packed, firsts, 34@35c; fresh gathered, firsts, 32@33c; seconds and lower grades, 30@31½c; dirties, No. 1, 30@31c; No. 2 and poorer, 29@29½c; checks, good to choice, dry, 29½@30c; undergrades, 28@29c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 38½c; ordinary to good, 34½@38c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 34@38c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 33½@34½c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, 35@38½c; gathered brown and mixed colors, ungraded, 33@34c. Duck eggs, Baltimore, 40@41c; Western and prime Southern, 36@39c; ordinary, Southern and Far Southern, 33@35c. Goose eggs, 60@75c.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

More than 70,000 shares of United States Steel common were dealt in on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Its advance was the outstanding feature of the market. There was an overnight jump in its price at the opening, the first sale of Steel being at 112½, against a closing quotation on Tuesday of 111½. Under persistent buying it rose in the late afternoon to 116½, closing at 116⅝. The leadership of such a prominent stock as Steel exerted a favorable sympathetic influence upon the entire market.

THE COLORADO MIDLAND RAILWAY COMPANY

To Holders of Certificates of Deposit issued under or subject to the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, dated March 15, 1917, for First Mortgage Four Per Cent. Fifty-Year Gold Bonds of The Colorado Midland Railway Company:

The amount of bonds deposited and of payments received under the above mentioned Plan and Agreement of Reorganization not being sufficient to enable the Committee to carry the same into effect, the Committee has determined to abandon said Plan and Agreement, and hereby gives notice of such abandonment.

Holders of certificates of deposit for said bonds, upon the surrender to the Depositary which issued the same of their respective certificates in negotiable form, and upon payment of an amount equal to seven-tenths of one per cent. of the principal amount of bonds represented by their respective certificates of deposit, as their ratable proportion of the expenses of the Committee, will be entitled, subject to the provisions of Article Seventh of said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, to withdraw and to receive the bonds represented by the certificates of deposit so surrendered. The amount so payable does not include any charge for the Committee's compensation. Upon such withdrawal holders of certificates of deposit who may have paid any installment of the amounts payable as provided in said Plan and Agreement on account of the purchase price of new stock will be entitled to the repayment of the amount so paid by them, but without interest thereon.

Application will be made on behalf of the Committee to the United States District Court for the District of Colorado, where the suit for the foreclosure of the First Mortgage of the Railway Company is pending, for an adjournment of the sale of the property of the Railway Company under the foreclosure decree, but the Committee does not expect that said application will be granted, as it is advised that the Court has previously declined to grant any adjournment of the sale, which has been advertised to be held on April 21, 1917.

CONVERSION

The notes are convertible into 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock of the Company at par on any interest date on or prior to June 1, 1919. This Preferred Stock is redeemable in whole or in part at 115, and to provide funds for this redemption not less than 3% of the net earnings of the Company will be set aside each year beginning June 1, 1919.

BUSINESS

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company has the largest retail grocery business in the United States, and at the present time operates over 3,100 stores distributed through twenty-nine States. The Company handles groceries of almost every variety on an absolutely cash basis, thus eliminating any loss from bad accounts. By its perfected method of distribution and economical operation of a very thorough system, it is able to sell to the consumer at the very lowest possible prices.

The present Company started in business in 1858, since which time it has shown steady and continuous growth, and has been operated under the present name for the last forty-eight years.

COMPARATIVE SALES

1914	$31,299,124

EARNINGS

The net earnings of the business for the fiscal year ended February 28, 1917, after charging off $396,480.88 for depreciation, aggregated $2,661,973.29, and, based on the operations of the last three months of the fiscal year, ending February 28, 1917, the current year's net earnings should approximate $3,500,000.

ASSETS

The net assets, representing the equity behind this issue, excluding any valuation for good will, aggregate $13,778,565.00, of which $3,428,732.01 are fixed. $10,349,833.58 represent cash and quick assets, equivalent to over twice the note issue.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

While the Company has sufficient capital to carry on successfully its present operations, it is constantly occupying new fields, opening new stores, and utilizing its great and effective organization to its fullest capacity. The proceeds of the sale of these $2,000,000 notes are to be used for development and expansion of the business.

All legal matters pertaining to this issue have been passed upon by Messrs. Murray, Prentice & Howland for the Bankers, and Messrs. Griggs, Baldwin & Baldwin for the Company; and the accounts have been examined by Messrs. Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Company, Chartered Accountants.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—JOSEPH J. O'DONOHUE et al., plaintiffs, v. THE BROOKLYN & NEW YORK FERRY COMPANY, BROOKLYN FERRY COMPANY OF NEW YORK, NEW YORK TERMINAL COMPANY, et als., defendants. TO THE HOLDERS OF KNICKERBOCKER TRUST COMPANY, COLUMBIA-KNICKERBOCKER TRUST COMPANY, AND OR COLUMBIA TRUST COMPANY CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT ORIGINALLY FOR FIRST CONSOLIDATED FIVE PER CENT. FIFTY-YEAR GOLD BONDS OF BROOKLYN FERRY COMPANY OF NEW YORK.

You are hereby notified that the suit brought by the Trustees under the First Mortgage of the Brooklyn & New York Ferry Company to foreclose said Mortgage is pending before the undersigned, as Referee, to hear and determine at his office, No. 165 Broadway, New York City; that the hearings are in progress; and that the foreclosure sale therein will be advertised and held in the near future. The said First Mortgage is claimed to be a prior lien upon all of the properties now owned by New York Terminal Company and in which you have an interest through the Certificates of Deposit aforesaid.

In the said foreclosure suit Columbia Trust Company has offered proof of large amounts due to it for services, expenses and disbursements and counsel fees and disbursements, for all of which amounts it claims a lien prior to your interest; and it seeks to protect said lien in every way as advised, including possibly the purchase of the properties at said foreclosure sale individually and free from any trust in your behalf or otherwise.

Full opportunity will be given to you to appear in said action and to protect your interests upon exhibition of your Certificates of Deposit. The next hearing is now set for the First day of May, 1917, at 2 o'clock P. M., at the said office of the undersigned.

(Notice of Changes in Plan of Re-Organization)

To the holders of certificates of deposit issued under the bondholders' deposit agreement dated August 1, 1916, between holders of the above described bonds and Frank B. Anderson, William H. Crocker, Herbert Fleishhacker, I. W. Hellman, Jr., and John D. McKee, Committee, and Union Trust Company of San Francisco and also

To the holders of certificates of deposit issued under the concurrent agreement for the deposit of bonds dated January 1st, 1917, between holders of said bonds, said committee and said trust company, and The Equitable Trust Company of New York.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the provisions of the bondholders' deposit agreement and concurrent agreement above mentioned, the undersigned, as the Committee under each of said agreements, have changed the plan of reorganization dated September 22nd, 1916, and have filed with the Union Trust Company of San Francisco, Guaranty Trust Company of New York and The Equitable Trust Company of New York, depositaries, a statement of such changes and copies of the same may be obtained from any one of said depositaries.

Each holder of a certificate of deposit issued by any of said depositaries or their agents, shall be deemed to have assented to and authorized the said changes and to be bound in all respects thereby, unless within thirty days after the 26th day of April, 1917, he shall withdraw his bonds upon surrender of his certificate of deposit properly endorsed to the depositary who may have issued the same, and upon payment of the sum of $5.00 per bond, which the undersigned committee has fixed as a fair contribution for the disbursements, expenses and liabilities of the Committee. Depositors so withdrawing shall cease to have any rights under said agreements or either of them.

By the terms of the amended plan, bondholders will receive 66⅔ per cent. of their holdings in new 6 per cent. bonds, 8⅓ per cent. in new First Preferred Stock, and 33 per cent. in new Common Stock.

The amended plan, after long negotiations, has met with the approval of the Hammond Committee and the approval of the holders of the Junior Securities, and is strongly recommended for prompt adoption by all bondholders.

Further deposits of bonds under the amended plan may be made without penalty on or before MAY 26TH, 1917, after which date deposits will not be accepted, except upon such terms as the Committee may prescribe.

Certificates which are listed on New York Stock Exchange will hereafter be issued for deposited bonds either by Union Trust Company of San Francisco, or The Equitable Trust Company of New York, and any holder of a certificate of deposit representing bonds heretofore deposited with either of said Trust Companies or with the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, who may desire to have the same exchanged for such listed certificates, may do so by surrendering his present deposit certificate duly endorsed in transferable form, to either the Union Trust Company of San Francisco or The Equitable Trust Company of New York, and receive listed certificates in lieu thereof.

Four Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, due 1927

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit of Union Trust Company of New York, Girard Trust Company, Mercantile Trust & Deposit Company of Baltimore and Brown, Shipley & Co., issued under the Bondholders' Agreement dated January 6, 1917, betwen holders of the above described bonds and John Henry Hammond, Donald G. Geddes, B. Howell Griswold, Jr., A. H. S. Post and Edward B. Smith, Committee.

Referring to the above-mentioned Bondholders' Agreement, the undersigned Committee HEREBY GIVES NOTICE that it has approved and adopted an amended Plan of Reorganization, dated April 26th, 1917, of UNITED RAILROADS OF SAN FRANCISCO and has filed copies of such amended Plan with the Depositary and Sub-Depositaries of the Committee.

Each holder of a Certificate of Deposit issued under said Bondholders' Agreement shall be conclusively deemed to have assented to such amended Plan, unless within twenty days after the 26th day of April, 1917, he shall have filed with the Union Trust Company of New York, Depositary, written notice of dissent therefrom, specifying the date or dates and the number or numbers of the Certificate or Certificates of Deposit held by him.

In case such amended Plan becomes operative and effective, dissenting certificate-holders may withdraw their dissenting bonds upon surrender of their Certificates of Deposit, endorsed in blank, and upon payment of their proportion of the compensation and expenses of the Committee (not exceeding 1% of the face amount of their bonds).

Under the amended Plan bondholders will receive 66⅔% of the face of their holdings in new 6% Bonds, 8⅓% in a new First Preferred 6% Stock and 33% in new Common Stock.

Copies of such amended Plan may be obtained from the Depositary or the Sub-Depositaries, or from the Secretary of the Committee.

The expenses and compensation of the Committee will be provided for under such amended Plan without cost to assenting Certificate-Holders in case the same is consummated.

Deposits of bonds under the Protective Agreement abovementioned will be received by the Depositary or Sub-Depositaries without penalty up to and including MAY 26TH, 1917, after which date such deposits may be received only upon such terms and conditions as the Committee may prescribe.

Holders of Certificates of Deposit representing Bond Certificates, issued pursuant to the provisions of United Railroads of San Francisco Bondholders' Deposit Agreement, bearing date August 1, 1916, representing Four Per Cent. Bonds deposited thereunder and therein called Deposit Certificates, are hereby required forthwith to surrender the same, in transferable form, to the Depositary or Sub-Depositaries by whom they were issued, against the delivery of the said Bond Certificates represented thereby, without cost or charge to such holders. The attention of such holders is called to the fact that upon withdrawal their Bond Certificates may be exchanged for new Union Trust Company of San Francisco or new Equitable Trust Company Certificates, which are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and also that under the terms of said Deposit Agreement they will be deemed to have assented to such amended Plan, unless within thirty days after April 26th, 1917 they withdraw from said Agreement, as therein provided.

The amended Plan of Reorganization has been adopted after careful investigation and long negotiations and the undersigned strongly recommend its acceptance by all bondholders and certificate-holders.

ITALIANS POUR GOLD INTO WAR FUND

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 25.—A great propoganda is going on here aiming to collect gold necessary to carry on the war. Rich and poor alike offer all kinds of jewelry. Together with these objects many patriotic letters are received. Among others noticeable is that from the Secretary of one of the Cabinet Ministers, who sent a pair of gold cuff links with the German imperial eagle designed in relief on them, and wrote:

"On the yacht Hohenzollern, where I was sent by my department, I received these from the Kaiser for services rendered. I now offer them to the State. May this drop of German gold descend in the river of riches which the Italian nation has set flowing to transform into arms against the barbarians."

Although Italy is concentrating all her energies and strength for the expected offensive at the front, she still has time to think out improvements for internal affairs, such as the idea to start an aerial post service to enable quick postal communications between Italy and her colonial possessions, especially Tripoli, which for some time past has been almost entirely cut off from the mother country.

At first this service will be carried on by airplanes, but later, when the service is more diffused and complex, by dirigibles. In the early stages the aerial post will be bi-weekly or tri-weekly, and only after much experience will there be a daily service. This plan already had been much discussed in other countries, but came to nothing owing to the outbreak of the war.

CRITICISES BRITISH FINANCE

Sir Alfred Booth Advocates Taxation in Place of Loans.

LONDON, April 25.—British war financing was criticised severely today by Sir Alfred Booth, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Cunard Steamship Company, at the annual meeting of the corporation.

"We have gone wrong from the very start," said Sir Alfred. "The methods of financing which we adopted might have been comparatively harmless for a short war, but in this long war they hang like a millstone around our necks and will surely hamper our powers of recovery after the conclusion of peace. We have borrowed where we should have taxed, and now when we have begun to tax we are taxing production and leaving consumption to run riot.

"The excess profit tax exhibits both these vices to a special degree. Moreover, this tax has the grave disadvantage that it does nothing toward solving after-war problems, for after the war there will be no war profit to tax and its place will have to be taken by new direct or indirect taxation at the worst possible time for trade to adjust itself to new burdens.

"The gravity of the food problem is due as much to financial follies as to German submarines. The paralyzing shackles of Government control of shipping, if continued long enough, will throttle our economic life."

RAILWAYS MUST BE REBUILT

ST. JOHN, N. B., April 25.—Russia made the mistake of patterning her railway transportation system after that of Europe rather than America, and after the war the new democracy will have to build several hundred thousand miles of new railway "in order to achieve the destiny in store for her," George Bury, Vice President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said today upon his arrival here from Russia.

Mr. Bury has returned from a visit abroad, taken in connection with transportation problems at the request of the Russian and British Governments. During the recent revolution in Russia he was in that country prior to the abdication of Emperor Nicholas. He traveled from Lapland to the Caucasus, he said, and made transportation recommendations which were accepted first by the old Government and later by the new régime.

"Traffic in Russia moves vast distances in great bulk," Mr. Bury said. "If that great country is to achieve the destiny in store for her, she will have to come to the large train and large car system. Had Russia been equipped with a railway, say, such as we have in Canada, she would have played a much greater part in this war."

Mr. Bury said the trade of Russia after the war would go to those nations which studied Russia's needs as well as Russian character, just as the Germans did before the war.

STEEL TRADE READY TO SUPPLY NATION

TALK OF A MILLION TONS

Intimation Heard That Government Will Be Asked to Get Concessions for Allies.

Preparations for the manufacture of Government steel are rapidly rounding into final form, and it is expected that today the various companies will be informed of the amounts they are to supply the army and navy at special prices. That the Federal purchases will be heavy during the remainder of the year is indicated by figures which are being discussed in trade circles. The Iron Age says:

"Steel manufacturers will meet on Thursday to arrange for distributing throughout the industry very considerable Government orders for vessel, navy yard, and ordnance steel which were largely put in the hands of the United States Steel Corporation.

"The Government is expected to place early contracts for fully 800,000 tons of plates, shapes, and bars, and the amount it will want this year exceeds the first estimates, being now put at 1,000,000 tons. Already Government business taken at Pittsburgh amounts to 100,000 tons of plates.

"Intimations that the Government will be asked by the Allies to aid them in securing special concessions on steel and copper are cropping up more frequently. The British Government's copper contract expires in sixty days, and the question of the still unused amount of the 200,000 gross tons bought for the first half is cutting an undue figure in the current market. All indications today are strongly against the extension of such low prices as our Government has secured on steel and copper to any of the European Governments.

"The belief is that fresh foreign buying, facilitated by the big Government loan now authorized, will come soon under the direction of Great Britain, probably even for the railroad material desired by Russia. France, with a new credit, will also be in the market. As an example, that country wants 21,000 tons more of nineteen-pound rails to lay 700 miles of portable track. A 4,000-ton order for the same purpose was recently placed at Cleveland."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"As the nation is settling down to the grim business of making war, the iron and steel industry is fitting more surely into the position of great dependence which it must fill in the conflict. Government purchases and needs for military necessities are more clearly defined. A Federal plan to build steel merchant ships in addition to the 1,000 woodcraft will call for a large steel tonnage and perhaps some readjustments in the present naval construction program. The indirect war needs are no less insistent than the direct Government requirements. Some of the leading mills are specifically recognizing the Government's precedence in the market by inserting a clause in all quotations, contracts and promises of delivery to the effect that all deliveries are subject to acts and demands of national emergency."

PLEA FOR PROHIBITION.

BOSTON, April 25.—A plea for wartime prohibition as a means of conserving vital forces was made today by Bishop William Lawrence in an address before the annual convention of the Massachusetts diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

"The really great work before this nation," he said, "is the conservation and concentration of all the forces, spiritual, moral, and material, and the consecration of these to the defense by arms of our liberties, and that the world may be made 'safe for democracy.' Hence I affirm that without a change in the letter of the law, it is the duty of every patriot to abstain from the use of liquors, and thus to conserve his strength and lead others to conserve their strength and money for the country."

- Detached Coupons due July 1, 1912, January 1, 1913, July 1, 1913, and January 1, 1914, pertaining to Refunding Mortgage Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds.

Holders of Subscription Warrants issued by Central Trust Company of New York as Depositary under said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization.

It is expected that the bonds in coupon form, bearing the coupon of January 1, 1917, and stock (trust certificates) of Pere Marquette Railway Company, the New Company organized under the laws of Michigan to carry out the said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, will be ready for delivery on and after APRIL 12, 1917. New coupon bonds of the denomination of $1,000 will be delivered in permanent form, and coupon bonds of smaller denominations and voting trust certificates will be delivered in temporary form exchangeable without charge for definitive securities when prepared.

Holders of certificates of deposit for bonds, coupons and notes above mentioned to obtain the new securities to which they are respectively entitled must surrender their certificates of deposit to the Depositary which issued the same. Certificates of deposit so surrendered, unless in bearer form, must be accompanied by properly executed transfers thereof in blank; signatures to transfers must be guaranteed. If bonds are desired in denominations other than $1,000 written notice must be accordingly given at the time of surrender of certificates of deposit. COUPON BONDS WHEN ISSUED IN THE DENOMINATION OF $1,000 ARE NOT EXCHANGEABLE FOR BONDS OF A SMALLER DENOMINATION.

In accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid Plan and Agreement of Reorganization the Reorganization Managers have determined to cause to be paid to depositors surrendering certificates of deposit calling for new Preferred Stock (trust certificates) an amount in cash equal to 2½% of the par amount of such stock (trust certificates) delivered against such surrendered certificates of deposit.

Holders of Subscription Warrants are hereby required to make payment of the balance of the purchase price of the stock (trust certificates) specified in their Subscription Warrants, namely: an amount equal to $80 for each share of the Prior Preference Stock (trust certificates) therein specified, on APRIL 27, 1917, or at the option of the holders of Subscription Warrants on any earlier date. Such payments must be made in current New York funds to CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Depositary, at its office, 54 Wall Street, New York City, and Subscription Warrants, properly endorsed for transfer, must be surrendered at the time of such payment. Deliveries of stock (trust certificates) will be made against such payment and surrender. Stock (trust certificates) will be delivered in the names borne by the respective Subscription Warrants surrendered, unless different names are specified in the transfers thereof in which case new stock (trust certificates) will be delivered in the names so specified: signatures to such transfers must be guaranteed. FAILURE TO MAKE SUCH PAYMENT ON APRIL 27, 1917, OR BEFORE THAT DATE, WILL FORFEIT ALL RIGHTS OF SUCH DEFAULTING HOLDERS OF SUBSCRIPTION WARRANTS OF PURCHASE UNDER THE SAID PLAN AND AGREEMENT OF REORGANIZATION AND UNDER SAID SUBSCRIPTION WARRANTS, AND SAID SUBSCRIPTION WARRANTS WILL THEREUPON FORTHWITH BECOME VOID.

For all fractional interests in bonds and stock (trust certificates) bearer scrip certificates will be delivered.

Holders of undeposited bonds of any of the issues above mentioned may until JULY 1, 1917, make deposits under said Plan and Agreement of Reorganization upon payment of a penalty of 1% of the principal amount thereof, but will not thereby obtain any rights of purchase from the Purchase Syndicate in said Plan and Agreement mentioned, such rights having been heretofore fully availed of.

Dated, New York, April 12, 1917.

ENGRAVING STRIKE MAY BE CONTEMPT

Union's Terms Held to Violate Terms of the State's Law Against Restraint of Trade.

Thirty-five members of the New York Photo Engravers' Union No. 1, who quit work at the plant of the Powers Company, at 154 Nassau Street, on Tuesday night after the heads of the engraving company had obtained a temporary injunction restraining the union from calling a strike, would be served in contempt proceedings, lawyers for the Powers Company said yesterday. Both the union leaders and the heads of the engraving company are ready to fight to a finish legal actions growing out of the relations between the union and the Powers Company.

Ex-Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney was retained yesterday as counsel for the union, and after a conference with the union leaders he got a copy of the complaint in the $500,000 damage suit in which conspiracy to enforce demands not relating to wages, working hours, and working conditions is alleged. He has twenty days in which to answer the allegations of the engraving company. On Monday he will appear before the Supreme Court to oppose making the injunction permanent. He said last night that the union had taken no action toward getting the engravers to quit work, and that as individuals they had the right to quit if they wished.

The question of wages and hours did not come up in the union demands, according to the papers filed by the engraving company in the Supreme Court. John M. Powers, general manager of the Powers Company, made an affidavit to the effect that representatives of the union had told him that members of the organization would work only for members of the Photo Engravers Board of Trade. He alleged further that to agree to the union demands would be to violate the Donnelly anti-trust law. The Board of Trade is being investigated by the District Attorney under the Donnelly law. A. J. Powers, head of the concern, submitted a letter from District Attorney Swann in which the District Attorney advised him to be careful about entering "any such combination."

Eight members of the Photo Engravers' Board of Trade were indicted last June by the Grand Jury on a charge of forming a combination in restraint of trade. It was charged that they agreed to raise their prices from 20 to 200 per cent. after entering into a stipulation with the Photo Engravers' Union No. 1, by which the members of the union were only to work for them. The New York Trade Press Association brought the matter to District Attorney Swann's attention.

In August Mr. Swann told the indicted men that, while there was no question in his mind but what they had violated the law, nevertheless he believed that they had not intended to do so. At that time he suggested that they might avoid prosecution by restoring competition. The defendants have not been brought to trial thus far this term.

A German locking gauntlet of the sixteenth century decorated with etched and gilded ornaments brought the highest price at the Samuel H. Austin sale at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon, going to H. W. Harding for $1,000. This was from the Zschille collection. An Italian "Main Gauche," with engraved ricasso and plain guard and counter-guard, from the Faulder collection, went to the same buyer for $85.

A German wheel-lock gun of the seventeenth century, stock inlaid with ivory, went to L. J. O'Reilly for $170, and a German hunting knife of the early eighteenth century, with engraved blade, elaborate silver hilt and silver mounted scabbord, went to the same buyer for $100. A seventeenth century Italian dagger, with stiletto blade, went to R. G. Packard for $55, and a pair of Scotch pistols, the metal stocks set with cairngorms, went to Henry Symons for $67.

Adamson Starts Move Here and Asks Other Cities to Join.

Fire Commissioner Adamson announced yesterday that he had revoked all permits for the sale of fireworks in New York City, and had asked every city in the United States with a population of more than 10,000 to take similar action. While New York City has had "safe and sane" Fourth of July celebrations for several years, some firms have been permitted to sell fireworks. In recent years these permits have been granted upon condition that no fireworks be sold for use in New York City, but it has been impossible to enforce the condition strictly.

In a letter to Mayors Commissioner Adamson wrote:

"It is highly desirable that steps be taken by every city in America to prevent the sale and display of fireworks during the continuance of the war. With this end in view, I have revoked the permits of all companies which sell fireworks at retail in this city, and it is my purpose to prevent altogether the sale of fireworks here until the close of the war. The reasons for this action are that persons with evil intent might readily make use of fireworks on occasions like the Fourth of July to start fires or explosions, and that the materials and labor which are used in the manufacture of fireworks should be diverted to other and more useful purposes."

SAFETY MEDALS AWARDED.

The annual awards of the American Museum of Safety for efforts to safeguard factory employes and the employes and patrons of public utility corporations were made yesterday afternoon at an informal luncheon at Delmonico's. Mrs. E. H. Harriman presented medals to representatives of the Alabama Great Southern Railway, the Illinois division of the Illinois Central and the general manager of the Long Island Railroad for efficiency in maintaining safety records.

Other companies to receive medals were the Pullman Company, Scientific American award for invention; the Commonwealth Steel Company, Travelers Insurance gold medal for protection of employes; the Julius King Optical Company, Louis Livingston Seaman medal for promotion of factory hygiene; and the Connecticut Company, three medals of the Anthony N. Brady Memorial for the street railway company best caring for its employes and patrons. Among those present were James Speyer, Joseph H. Choate, Arthur Williams, Thomas E. Murry, J. W. Lieb, H. H. Westinghouse, Lewis B. Gawtry, Professor Frederick R. Hutton, Miss Edith Wetmore, Dr. Allan D. Risteen and John H. Paterson.

WAR AID BY METAL TRADES.

National Association Gives Pledge, but Opposes Eight-Hour Day.

The National Metal Trades Association, at its nineteenth annual convention at the Hotel Astor yesterday, adopted resolutions pledging support to the President and assistance in mobilizing the country's resources. The association, as usual, met behind closed doors.

In his annual address, President W. H. Van Dervoort pointed out that there had been 200 strikes in the metal trades in the last year, practically all due to the eight-hour day. A great majority of the members seemed to feel that Governmental contracts should not carry the eight-hour clause. In 69 per cent. of the shops represented men want 54 or more hours a week; in 28 per cent. from 48 to 54 hours, and in 3 per cent. 48 hours.

BROKER WHO FLED GIVES UP.

Ernest R. Wooley, a former well-known curb broker, who has been a fugitive from justice since 1911, when he was indicted on a charge of grand larceny, voluntarily surrendered in the District Attorney's office yesterday. He was arraigned before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions and released in $1,000 bail for trial.

Wooley, who was President of the Nevada-Utah Mines and Smelter Company, was charged with having obtained 10,000 shares of the stock under false pretenses. He told court attendants that he had been living in Salt Lake City since his indictment and had been prosperous.

To Teach English to Foreigners.

The Neighbors' League of Yonkers, which teaches English to foreigners, met yesterday afternoon in the Broadway Tabernacle, Fifty-sixth Street and Broadway, and decided to extend its work to this city. A committee was appointed to perfect organization and consider a headquarters and will make its report at the next meeting, to be held May 9.

Sir Ernest Shackleton Will Lecture.

Lieutenant Sir Ernest Shackleton will arrive in this city on Friday on his return from his antarctic explorations and will leave within a few days for England to rejoin the British Navy. He will be entertained on Friday night by the Half Moon Club, and on Sunday night will lecture at Carnegie Hall under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History and the National Geographical Society.

New Sport Coating.

A new cloth brought out by a local concern acting as agent for an English piece goods house resembles a fine knit corduroy. It is a woven fabric, however. This material is featured in sport shades and priced at $3.25 a yard. According to the sales manager of the firm the same goods originally sold in Paris, and the first order taken was for 5,000 yards. It may be used to equal advantage by the garment manufacturers and the clothiers.

Tendency to Wider Ribbons.

Although business as a rule is quiet in the ribbon trade, the orders coming in show a tendency toward wider goods. While the business passed a short time was mainly on 2½-inch goods, ribbons between 3½ and 5½ inches are now being taken. Grosgrains still hold the centre of the floor. The usual Summer business on pink, blue and white satin materials is coming in. The manufacturers are working upon Fall lines.

Business on Summer Cloths.

Manufacturers and sellers of Summer fabrics for men's wear have no fault to find with the initial business they are booking for next Spring and Summer. Orders so far taken are in excess of any that have so far been placed at this time. Mohairs are doing extremely well, especially in the case of the finer weaves selling around $1.30 a yard. One of the reasons given for the unusually active trade in Summer goods of this description is that the clothiers are substituting such cloths for woolens, which they believe will not be obtainable later on owing to operations of the Government in the piece goods market.

Male Puppets Show Styles.

Feminine puppets for displaying styles have not got everything their own way, for when it comes to showing off a silk "topper" or a natty scarf they fall flatter than if some one had pushed them over. Because of this a local display fixture concern is offering a line of strictly made puppets, made of papier-mache and hand painted in oils in the most stylish facial expressions of the day. Some of them sport monocles, while others go in for "Charlie Chaplins" of varying sizes. In rarer cases a French beard is worn. They are designed especially for showing off hats, caps, collars, ties, mufflers, and other things that go to make men well dressed from the shoulders up.

New Prices Coming Out Slowly.

Not for many seasons have leading factors in the floor coverings field been so uncertain about what they are going to ask for their Fall offerings. Usually all of the big houses come into the open within forty-eight hours after the season is officially begun. The Fall, 1917, season saw its third day yesterday, however, and still several houses had not given out quotations. In one or two cases they were promised for today, but in as many more it was said that they would not be given out before Monday next, which is the day on which the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Company will make prices Yesterday the Firth Carpet Company priced its lines, however, the new figures showing advances of 75 cents to $1.50 on 9 by 12 rugs, or about 5 to 6 per cent.

They Are Not Hard Hit.

Orders that are coming to jewelry manufacturers in the Maiden Lane district, especially those who make the more expensive pieces, indicate that this industry is not being hit as hard by the cry for war-time economy as some of the others are. Even in instances where there has been something of a falling off, the decline is laid more to the present high cost of foodstuffs than to uncertainty as to what the future may bring. Leading silversmiths say that while there has been some decline in both wholesale and retail sales in the last week or so, business is still ahead of last year. Conservatism among retail jewelers, they say, appears to be more general in the West and South than in the East. Local business continues very good, all things considered.

Window Demonstrations a Help.

Window demonstrations of merchandise of various kinds do more to increase the business of a store than is generally supposed, according to the manager of one of a chain of local drug stores. Especially valuable are those in which the use of a kind of phonograph arrangement allows the demonstrator to tell his story to the onlookers in words instead of by signs. The sound of the demonstrator's voice not only draws larger crowds, but seems to stimulate a desire to buy more than printed cards do. While most of the resulting sales are of the article demonstrated, it very often happens that, once inside, a customer will buy something else in addition. The chief danger of this kind of selling lies in demonstrating some article that is unsatisfactory and which will give the store a bad name.

Say the Papers Should Help.

More than one out-of-town buyer of carpets and rugs who is now in this market making Fall selections has told of a falling off in retail business in his city as a result of the splurge being made about the need of strict economy in war times. They blame the press of the country to a large extent for the slump, and say that the newspapers ought now to do something to counteract the effects of the initial statements, especially in view of Mr. Coffin's recent optimistic remarks. Many women, it is said, have been frightened into neglecting the purchase of almost everything but the necessities of life, while others are going in for gardening or similar money-saving pursuits to such an extent that they have little time left for shopping. Jobbers also have been hit by the slump, buyers say.

Little Business in Gray Goods.

Though there was a little more inquiry for gray goods in the local market yesterday than on Tuesday, reports from various sellers indicate that sales were far from large. Both printcloths and sheetings were included in the goods disposed of, but in neither case did individual sales appear large enough to be worthy of comment. Buyers showed a little more interest in contract goods than has been the case lately, but even this failed to produce sizeable business. Spot and nearby printcloth prices were firm, but this was due much more to the fact that goods for these deliveries are scarce than to a demand for them. Nominally they closed as follows:

HELPS JAMAICA SUGAR MEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 25.—The Government has decided upon an extensive scheme for the development of the sugar industry, in which Government credit will be pledged to raise capital to establish central refineries in Jamaica. The profits of the venture are to be shared by the Government and the cane farmers.

Jamaica believes that imperial preference will be the empire's future policy.

CARPET AND RUG SALE.

The auction sale of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company yesterday, following the announcement made on Tuesday that all catalogued lots of goods not already made up would be withdrawn, settled down to the usual routine. The company's announcement was followed yesterday by the statement that the Smith concern would today start a 50 per cent. curtailment of the output of its Yonkers mills.

Large and small rugs figured in the proceedings yesterday, the larger sizes in many instances selling at actually better prices than the smaller floor pieces, due, it was said, to the heavier quantities of the smaller rugs put under the hammer. Carpets figured in yesterday's sale for the first time and brought what were considered excellent prices, these averaging only 2 or 3 cents below the Fall list card just gotten out. The sales of rugs for the day averaged between 10 and 15 per cent. below list prices.

	High.	Low.

The day's transactions covered 13,000 rolls and pieces, the estimated auction value of which aggregated $620,000. This morning at 9 o'clock the auction will start off with Lot No. 1,264, covering Palisade velvet carpeting.

FEDERAL ORDERS FOR WOOL

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 25.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"Great activity was displayed in the wool market during the last week, especially in scoured and South American wool. Big orders have been given by the Government, and an advance in price has been made. All fine wools have been strong.

"The cotton situation is the basis for some anxiety. Consumption has been large. More cotton is needed at the mills, and there will be such a small carryover that more or less serious conditions are feared.

"The woolen goods market is still unsettled. Government orders are being placed. The market is in very strong condition. Prices are likely to be higher and goods purchased now are expected to be profitable."

URGES NEW STOCK ISSUE.

Receivership the Alternate for New Haven, Hadley Declares.

HARTFORD, April 25.—President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale this afternoon, when he was asked by theChairman of theLegislative Committeeon Railroads what was the alternative if the General Assembly failed to pass a bill authorizing the New Haven Railroad to issue $50,000,000 in preferred stock, replied that it was a receivership. President Hadley was appearing with other Directors of the company in behalf of the bill.

President Hadley advised the committee that the preferred stock would enable the road to give better service and increase its borrowing capacity. He was supported by Edward Milligan, Francis T. Maxwell, and Eli Whitney, other Directors.

Vice President E. G. Buckland, in an analysis of the company's financial condition, said that its debts were approximately $257,000,000, of which $45,000,000 was represented by short term notes, recently renewed. There was no possibility, he declared, of the system's net earnings meeting the notes when they were due.

Would Pay Old New York War Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Representative Siegel of New York today introduced a bill to authorize and direct the Secretary of War to repay to New York City the money it spent in obtaining, keeping, and equipping volunteer troops during the civil war.

Joins State Industrial Commission.

Edward R. Rayher, for the last two years managing clerk in the New York office of State Controller Travis, and in charge of transfer tax matters, resigned yesterday to accept appointment as assistant counsel to the State Industrial Commission. Mr. Rayher is a son-in-law of the late Colonel Abraham Gruber.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

GRAMM COMPANY, INC.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Gramm Company, distributors of automobile trucks, 1,451 Broadway, by the Sebastian Wagon Company, a creditor, for $1,760. It was alleged that the company transferred a portion of its property to creditors to prefer them and consented in writing to an order of adjudication without further notice.

HARRIS & NATHAN, INC.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Harris & Nathan, Inc., jobbers in millinery, 12 West Thirty-fifth Street, by these creditors: Herman Dienstag, $963; Brownston Bros. & Co., $151, and Max Silverstein, $32. Liabilities are stated to be $20,000 and assets, $10,000. Judge Mayer appointed Henry Mayer receiver.

BERNARD WEINTRAUB.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Bernard Weinstraub, jobber in jewelry, 467 Broadway, by these creditors: Wolcott Manufacturing Co., $136; Standard Button Co., $169, and Baer & Wilde Co., $254. Judge Mayer appointed Morris B. Arnold receiver. Liabilities are $5,000 and assets considerably less. His wife told creditors that he was suffering from rheumatism, had gone to Hot Springs, Ark., and would not return until May 1 next.

MAX MEHLSACK, manager, formerly a liquor dealer, 57 Second Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $6,161 and no assets. The largest creditor is the Enterprise Brewery, with a claim for $5,436.

GEORGE LANDSBERG, salesman, 1,295 Fulton Avenue, Bronx, formerly in business as the Cornell Leather Goods Co., has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,275 and assets of $110 in uncollectible accounts.

OBE METZER of 556 Beck Street has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $6,622 and no assets. He formerly had a general store at Centerville, Sullivan County, N. Y.

FEIN & KOVLER.—Judge Mayer has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy filed April 16 against Fein & Kovler, manufacturers of children's clothing at 467 Broadway, on a settlement with creditors at 25 cents on the dollar, cash.

W F. PLASS & BRO., INC., general contractors, 145 West Eighteenth Street, have made an assignment to Harry W. Lichtenstein. The company was incorporated Dec. 12, 1914, with authorized capital stock of $100,000, and M. P. Plass is President. It had a contract with Brooklyn State Hospital last year.

MODERN FURNITURE COMPANY.—Two petitions have been filed against the Modern Furniture Company by these creditors: Anna Moftez, $316; Elk Furniture Company, $72.20; Reliable Table Company, $81; Simmons Company, $50; Louis Kahnweiler and John Pirgons, $500.

A. DADDAD & BROTHER.—Albert Haddad and Raef Haddad, composing the copartnership of A. Haddad & Brother, of 438 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, have filed a petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities, $3,804.83; assets, $1,628.55.

SILVERMAN BROTHERS. — Louis and Benjamin Silverman, individually and as copartners, of 1,912 Douglass Street, Brooklyn, have filed a petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities, $4,573.43; assets, $3,310.90.

BAR BANK NOTE BUILDING.

The American Bank Note Company's attempt to get permission to erect a thirty-five-story skyscraper on the site of the present old and vacant building at 78-86 Trinity Place, on the ground that Trinity Cemetery, on which the property fronts, is a public square and that therefore the zoning rule limiting buildings to two and a half times the width of the street did not apply, has been rejected by Rudolph P. Miller, Chairman of the Board of Appeals, to whom the question was taken after Superintendent of Buildings Alfred Ludwig had refused to accept the plans.

Trinity Place is eighty feet wide, so the maximum height of building permitted by the zoning rules would be 200 feet. The plans filed in the office of the Superintendent of Buildings by I. N. Phelps Stokes and A. S. Ridley, counsel for the American Bank Note Company, provided for a main structure of twenty-eight stories, 374 feet high, with a seven-story tower reaching 101 feet higher.

Mr. Miller, in ruling on the appeal, held that, as Trinity Cemetery belonged to a private corporation, it might be used at any time for any other purpose. While admitting that it probably never would be used except as a cemetery and that therefore limitation involved a certain hardship, he said that a decision that the cemetery was a public place would establish a precedent for regarding any plot of private property as public which probably would not change in character.

An appeal for the Social Service Bureau of Bellevue Hospital has been issued by J. S. Ferguson. Clothing is needed for men, women, and children, and all persons are urged to contribute their castoff garments. A post card to Miss Mary Wadley, Twenty-sixth Street and First Avenue, will send a wagon to collect the bundles.

OIL MEN PROMISE GASOLINE FOR NAVY

DIVERSE INTERESTS UNITE

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Secretary Daniels announced today that complete co-operation between the Government and the petroleum producing and refining interests of the country, with a view to supplying the navy's needs at reasonable cost, was reached at a conference today in the office of Rear Admiral Samuel McGowan, Paymaster General of the navy.

To help the nation in its war against the German Government all the interests which have at times been in conflict in the petroleum industry have joined in the agreement with the Government.

As an evidence of their desire to place themselves completely at the disposal of the Government, the various interests represented appointed, as a committee to act for them, the same committee which was appointed by the Council of National Defense to act as advisers for the Government. This committee, which is established as a subcommittee of the Committee on Raw Materials of the Council of National Defense, is made up as follows: Chairman, A. C. Bedford, President Standard Oil Company, (New Jersey); E. C. Lufkin, President the Texas Company; George S. Davison, President Gulf Refining Company; E. L. Doheny, President Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd.; John H. Markham, Jr., oil producer; John W. Van Dyke, President Atlantic Refining Company, and E. W. Sinclair, President Sinclair Oil and Refining Company.

On behalf of the petroleum committee Mr. Bedford said that the preliminary negotiations with the Navy Department had convinced the members of the committee that the department was handling its business problems with efficiency and fairness, and that if what had been done already was an augury of what might be expected in the future, the country need have no fear of the nation's effectiveness in the war.

As a result of the co-operative arrangement the Navy Department is assured of a continuous supply of gasoline for its enlarged operations, an efficient distribution and storage system, prompt and uninterrupted deliveries, and fair prices. Large and small companies, without regard to commercial trade conflicts, were represented in the following group which conferred with officers of the staff of the Paymaster General of the Navy:

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Indications that another tall apartment house on Riverside Drive in the Eighty-sixth Street center is contemplated are shown by the recent sale of the three dwellings at 144, 145 and 146 Riverside Drive, between Eighty-sixth and Eighty-seventh Streets. The house at 144 was sold by George M. Browne and others, and the one at 145 was sold by the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum, which took it over in foreclosure proceedings in 1914. Each of them has a frontage of 32 feet by 100 deep. The house at 146, fronting 23 feet, was sold by the County Holding Company, which acquired it last year. The three properties have a combined frontage of 87 feet. The plot adjoins a 25-foot house on the corner of Eighty-seventh Street owned by Edward S. Clark.

West Side Apartment Purchased for Investment.

The Mercantile Holding Company has purchased for investment from Florence Drucker the six-story elevator apartment, 206 to 210 West Ninety-ninth Street. The structure occupies a plot 62.6 by 100.11, and was held at about $150,000. Sharp & Co. and Kick & Sharrott negotiated the transaction.

Buys $75,000 Dwelling for Occupancy.

An investing client of Pease & Elliman has purchased for occupancy from Annie F. Leverich 10 East Seventy-fifth Street, a five-story American basement dwelling on a lot 19.5 by 100. The property was held at $75,000.

Broadway Lease Near Times Square Reported.

The lease on a long term of the property at the southwest corner of Broadway and Forty-seventh Street is reported to have been closed for improvement. The property includes the old five-story building on the immediate corner and the adjoining structures at 212 to 218 West Forty-seventh Street, opposite the Strand Theatre. The frontage is 48.2 on Broadway by 123.11 on Forty-seventh Street. The Mathushek Piano Company holds a lease on the corner building until May 1, 1918. The property is owned by Ella A. Gray.

Tenement Investors.

Ellen E. McQuade purchased from the City Equity Company for investment 1360 and 1367 Avenue A, two five-story tenements, occupying a front 51.2 by 100, on the southwest corner of Seventy-third Street.

The estate of Catherine Dierkes sold to Samuel Kilpatrick, 240 West Twentieth Street, a five-story tenement on lot 25 by 100.

Recent Buyers.

The Allied Investors Realty Company is the buyer of the six-story flat on the northeast corner of Lenox Avenue and Cathedral Parkway.

Bronx Sales.

Cahn & Pittman sold for Ida A. Smith the two-story private dwelling, being on the northwest corner of Ryer Avenue and 180th Street, on a lot 25 by 100.

McLernon Bros. sold for Selma Eisenhardt the two-family house 2,132 Harrison Avenue, on plot 34 by 84, with garage in the rear, located near 181st Street, in the University Heights section, to William Evans. The same brokers resold the property for Mr. Evans to Carl Wessle for investment.

Brooklyn.

Buys Former Alvord Properties.

Wallace J. Hardgrove of the Queensboro Corporation has sold for the Dean Alvord Securities Company thirty-four and one-half lots on Queens Boulevard, between Heiser and Gosman Streets, Long Island City. The purchaser is the Gosman Realty Company, an investing syndicate. These comprise the last of the Alvord Securities properties.

Long Island.

Cocks & Willets sold to a New York client the Thomas L. Watt farm consisting of forty acres at Glen Head, L. I. The property is well improved and will be occupied by the owner.

A. M. Le Bihan sold a plot, 100 by 100, at the southeast corner of Clermont Avenue and Clinton Avenue, Springfield, to F. Fox of Brooklyn.

New Jersey.

The Frank Hughes-Taylor Company sold for Henry D. Northrop to George B. Soule the residence at 236 North Mountain Avenue, Upper Montclair. It was held at $9,000.

Charles L. Preston has sold to Fannie Morris fourteen lots on the north and south sides of East Thirty-ninth Street adjoining the bay at Bayonne.

Westchester County.

Fish & Marvin have sold for Frank Whitcomb to Mrs. Thomas Fenessy three lots adjoining her present residence at Bronxville.

Commercial Leases.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., have leased for Louis Stern to the Madison Carpet Company the third, fourth, and fifth floors of the building 3-5 West Eighteenth Street, having a gross floor area of about 15,000 square feet, for a term of years, at an aggregate rental of $30,000.

The Herald Square Haberdashers, Saul Mintz, President, leased from the Robart Realty Company, for a long term of years, the store at 954 Broadway. Morris Rose and Lewis L. Rosenthal were the brokers.

Daniel Birdsall & Co., Inc., leased the store at 801 Greenwich Street, to J. Yellen, the store at 114-116 Spring Street to Feldman & Bleier, the building at 507 Greenwich Street to Charles Burkelman, and the store at 76 Greene Street to F. E. Hatch Company.

Jacob J. Tabolt has leased the store at 250 Bowery to the High Grade Merchandise Company, and the store at 143 Bleecker Street to Vincent Verratti.

Sidney L. Warsawer leased for William A. Alcock for a long term of years the store and loft building at 236 West Thirtieth Street, to F. Ray Comstock and William Elliott. When alterations have been completed it will be used as a studio.

Realty Notes.

A meeting of the West Side Taxpayers Association has been called for this evening at 267 West Thirty-fourth Street.

The lease was recorded yesterday from William R. H. Martin, who died a short time ago, to Rogers, Peet & Co. of the first floor, basement, and northwest part of the second floor of the Marbridge Building at Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street, for nine years and eleven months from June, 1908, at $100,000 a year. The lease, therefore, expires on May 1, 1918.

At a special meeting of the Dyckman Taxpayers Association resolutions were unanimously adopted urging each member to authorize the use of his vacant property for farm gardens under the jurisdiction of Park Commissioner Cabot Ward.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE assessment rolls of real estate and personal property in The City of New York for the year 1917 have been delivered to the Receiver of Taxes and that all taxes on said assessment rolls shall be due and payable at his office in the respective boroughs of said city as follows:

All taxes upon personal property and one-half of all taxes upon real estate shall be due and payable on the FIRST DAY OF MAY, 1917, and the remaining and final one-half of taxes on real estate shall be due and payable on the FIRST DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1917.

All taxes shall be and become liens on the real estate affected thereby and shall be construed as and deemed to be charges thereon on the respective days when they become due and payable as hereinbefore provided and not earlier and shall remain such liens until paid.

The second half of the tax on real estate which is due as hereinbefore provided on the first day of November following the payment of the first half may be paid on the first day of May or at any time thereafter providing the first half shall have been paid or shall be paid at the same time, and on such payments of the second half as may be made in such manner prior to November first a discount shall be allowed from the date of payment to November first at the rate of four per centum per annum.

Borough of Manhattan, Room 200, Municipal Building.
Borough of The Bronx, 177th st. and Arthur ave.
Borough of Brooklyn, 236 Duffield st.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The disturbance that covered the great central valleys Tuesday night is now central over the Great Lakes, and a secondary disturbance is over Tennessee. These disturbances have been attended by rains and snows in the lake region and the Upper Mississippi Valley and showers in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the South Atlantic States. Another disturbance is forming over the Western plateau region.

Temperatures are considerably lower over the Plains States, the Central Mississippi Valley, and the South Atlantic States, while in other regions changes were unimportant.

Indications are that there will be general rains Thursday throughout the Atlantic States and rains and snows in the lake region, followed by generally fair weather in these districts Friday. In the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the East Gulf States the weather will be fair Thursday and Friday.

Temperature will be lower Thursday in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the East Gulf States, and it will change little elsewhere east of the Mississippi River during the next forty-eight hours.

Winds for Thursday and Friday along the North Atlantic Coast will be strong south, overcast, showery weather; Middle Atlantic Coast, fresh and strong south, shifting to west, showers; South Atlantic Coast, moderate variable, local showers.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND FRIDAY.

Northern New England—Increasing cloudiness, followed by rain, Thursday; Friday, clearing.

3 A. M.	47	42	4 P. M.	43	49
6 A. M.	44	39	6 P. M.	45	45
9 A. M.	45	44	9 P. M.	45	43
12 M.	52	51	11 P. M.	44	42

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 46; for the corresponding date last year it was 47; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 52.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 42; at 8 P. M. it was 43. Maximum temperature, 54 degrees at 1:35 P. M.; minimum, 39 degrees at 6:45 A. M. Humidity, 47 per cent. at 8 A. M., 59 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.17 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.15 inches.

The Civil Service.

City.

The non-competitive test for tabulating machine operator (Powers) in the Finance Department, pending the promulgation of the eligible list for that position, has been passed by Anna Callahan and Frances McGinty with a rating of 70 each.

Applications will be received until 4 P. M. on April 27 for accountant fourth grade. The subjects and weights of the examination are: Experience, 3; technical, 7. A qualifying physical examination will be given. Candidates must be at least 24 years of age on or before the closing date for the receipt of applications.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for apprentice draftsman, for men only. Present and future vacancies in the Ordnance Bureau, War Department, Washington, D. C., at the entrance salary of $480 a year, and in positions requiring similar qualifications, will be filled from this examination. The duties consist in the making of prints, photographs, and tracings, and the performance of other routine duties of an elementary character, incident to the work of a drafting room. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, education, and training. Applicants must have a complete common-school education, with not less than two years of subsequent training in drafting in classes, offices, or correspondence schools; or not less than three years of high school education, which has included not less than one year of mechanical drafting. They must have reached their sixteenth but not their twenty-first birthday on the date of making oath to the application. Until further notice, owing to the lack of eligibles, the number of appointments to be made and the urgent needs of the service, applications will be received at any time, and the papers will be rated immediately upon their receipt in order that appointments may be made with the least possible delay. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

Education Notes.

The Association of City College Teachers, 1915, will hold a business meeting tomorrow at 8 P. M., in P. S. 62, Essex and Hester Streets, Manhattan.

District Superintendent Lyon has been released from his assignment to the office of the Associate City Superintendent in charge of high schools and assigned to the office of City Superintendent. District Superintendent Perry has been assigned to act on superior merit cases.

The Board of Education yesterday disapproved Senate Bill No. 1650, directing the Board of Estimate to select a site for a high school between Ninety-sixth and 125th Street and Lenox Avenue and the East River, and providing for the erection of such high school at a cost of not less than $1,000,000.

It also disapproved Assembly Bill 1734, amending the education law by providing that in all schools under State control or supported by the State instruction must be given in moral hygiene.

The Board of Education has authorized the granting of diplomas to such members of the graduating classes of the day vocational schools as up to the time of their enlistment in the army or navy have maintained a standing which indicates their eligibility for graduation in June.

The final exhibition of the work done during the season 1916-1917 at the New York Evening School of Industrial Art will be on view in the Municipal Art Galleries, Washington Irving High School Building, from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M. from May 1 to 10, inclusive. A comprehensive idea of the character of instruction at the school may be gained not only by the work on exhibition, but also by the practical work being done by students. Classes will be at work every evening from 7:45 to 9 P. M. The costume design exhibit will occupy the upper gallery. In the lower gallery will be the work of the following classes: Book illustration, jewelry design, mural decoration, plastic design, poster design, stained glass design, and textile design.

The Professional Elementary Teachers' Association will hold a meeting at 8 P. M. on May 1. It has asked for a hearing upon the city pension bill for teachers before Governor Whitman for Saturday, or, if the matter may be deferred that long, until the following Saturday in May.

Permission has been granted to the Park Department, Brooklyn, to conduct recreational work on the Bushwick High School athletic field on Sundays and such other days during the Summer vacation as it may be willing to operate such field.

Isaiah S. Abrahams, William H. Kroger, and Henry C. Osborne were appointed yesterday as teachers for vocational classes in elementary schools.

ANTHRACITE MINERS WIN WAGE INCREASE

Pay Put Up from 11 to 35 Per Cent. Without Any Threat of a Strike by the Union.

CALLED A TRIBUTE TO UNION

Leaders of Mine Workers Declare Settlement Proves the Value of Collective Bargaining.

The 173,000 anthracite coal miners won a wage increase of approximately $30,000,000 under an agreement with the operators which was signed last night at 143 Liberty Street after a conference lasting five days. On Tuesday of last week the 250,000 bituminous coal miners in the central district obtained a wage increase of 20 per cent., approximating $35,000,000.

The increase obtained by the anthracite miners was on a sliding scale, ranging from 11 per cent. in some classes to a maximum of 35 per cent. The agreement signed was for eleven months, at the expiration of which the United Mine Workers of America reserve the right to ask for new concessions.

The increases granted are a permanent addition to the present wage rates (not a bonus), to remain in effect until April 1, 1918, expiring on the same date as the bituminous contract, when all contract provisions, including wage rates and conditions, will be reopened or continued, as the cost of living or industrial conditions warrant.

The following, classified below, to receive 36 cents per day increase: Engineers (all classes), firemen (all classes), carpenters and carpenters' helpers, blacksmiths and blacksmiths' helpers, teamsters and teamsters' patchers, timber yardmen and drivers, car runners, loaders, slate bankmen, car hitchers, spraggers and shed men, dumpers, electricians, trackmen, oilers (all classes), charge men (all classes), machinists and helpers, masons and helpers, watchmen, drillers, jackmen, stablemen, water boys, shovelmen, company laborers, timbermen, roadmen, drivers, top and bottom men, car pushers, runners, couplers, and helpers, door tenders, locomotive runners and helpers, stripping miners, stripping laborers.

Contract miners, contract miners' laborers, consideration miners to receive 10 per cent. advance on gross earnings, which is equivalent to 11 per cent., due to the increase being applied to gross cost of mining supplies.

The following are to receive an increase of 30 cents per day: Breaker boys and aged men, slate pickers, water boys, jig runners, spiral workers.

In percentages the increase amounts approximately to a 20 per cent. increase labor cost, ranging from 11 to 35 per cent., based upon an effort to bring the low paid man up.

In a statement he issued last night, John P. White, International President of the United Mine Workers of America, said:

"The signing of the anthracite agreement tonight, following the bituminous settlement, insures industrial peace in the basic industry of the nation, all of which has been accomplished without threat, suspension of work, strikes, or interference from any outside source, other than the recognized councils for wage adjustments provided for in the joint wage agreement. What better recommendation can the opponents of trade unionism see'. to convert them to the same policy of collective bargaining than is typified by the agreements reached by the anthracite and bituminous coal industries during our present crisis. Like the bituminous settlement last week the outcome of anthracite negotiations most forcibly emphasizes the wisdom of collective bargaining in time of peace or war."

Say French Use Rheims Cathedral.

COPENHAGEN, April 25, (via London.)—German war correspondents on the western front are again excusing the bombardment of Rheims Cathedral on the ground that the venerable structure is being used for military purposes by the French. Dispatches from German headquarters assert that artillery observers are posted on both the cathedral towers, who direct the operations of batteries stationed near the edifice. The correspondents protest that the French will be responsible for further damage to the cathedral.

8,000 TO APPLY HERE FOR OFFICERS' CORPS

Between 1,300 and 1,400 men applied yesterday to attend the Officers' Training Camp which will be organized at Plattsburg on May 8. At 8 o'clock last night 1,200 had filed applications, and the number still in line was between 200 and 300. It was announced that the recruiting offices on the eleventh floor at 19 West Forty-fourth Street would remain open until midnight to give all applicants a chance to file.

The physical examinations were made yesterday at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Tenth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, and the medical force examined more than 800 men, a record for such work since the campaign for recruits was begun several days ago.

At the present rate there will be on file Saturday night about 8,000 applications from New York City alone. In addition several thousand have been filed on Long Island and in other parts of the territory from which the 2,500 men to be trained at Plattsburg will be selected. Applications will be received up to within a few days of the opening of the camp, and every man who qualifies will have an even chance of being selected for the first three months' training.

PENNSYLVANIA LEADS IN ARMY RECRUITING

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Pennsylvania took first place in the regular army recruiting yesterday, the day's total being 238 men accepted. Illinois with 221 was second, after having maintained the lead ever since the War Department began issuing daily bulletins. 32,108 recruits obtained since April 1.

All stations reported a total of 1,995 men accepted during yesterday, making

Samuel K. Jacobs Tenders Use of The Oaks to U. S. Government.

The Oaks, a $750,000 estate at Bayside, L. I., owned by Samuel K. Jacobs of the firm of Walter Emmerich & Co., manufacturers of silk ribbons, has been offered gratis to the Government for whatever purposes it may use it during the war. The estate consists of 188 acres of wooded and parked land, surrounded by the Oakland Golf Club links. Mr. Jacobs in his letter to the Secretary of War said:

"This offer is prompted by the though that, owing to its proximity to the heart of Manhattan—it can be reached by trolley, Long Island Railroad, or motor car within thirty minutes—your department could possibly use it for some of its many activities, such as recruiting, hospital base, practice field work for recruits, or drill grounds. At all events, it is at the disposal of the Government."

PUSHES ROOSEVELT BILL.

ALBANY, April 25. — Assemblyman Perry Armstrong of New York urged the Assembly Rules Committee today to make a favorable report on his bill authorizing the Governor to appoint Colonel Theodore Roosevelt a Major General in the National Guard of the State. At present Section 71 of the Military Law prevents Governor Whitman from making the Colonel a Major General. The section is as follows:

> A Major General at the time of his appointment must be an officer in active service in the National Guard of this State of the grade of Brigadier General or Field Officer, and for seven successive years immediately preceding his appointment must have been in active service in said National Guard and a commissioned officer.

Governor Whitman said today that he expected to confer with Colonel Roosevelt in a few days on the subject of his accepting a commission in the guard.

LAW WILL PROTECT RECRUITING POSTERS

Those Who Deface Them Will Be Prosecuted by District Attorney.

NEED MORE NAVY RECRUITS

From April 30 to May 5 Women Will Work Especially to Enlist Workers "Below Decks."

District Attorney Swann announced yesterday that he would make special efforts to bring about the conviction of all persons found destroying or defacing recruiting posters According to the prosecutor the mutilation of these posters constitutes a misdemeanor under Section 1425 of the Penal Code, which prohibits malicious injury to property. The offender, if found guilty of such violation, becomes liable to a fine or imprisonment, or both.

The mutilation of posters has become so extensive in various parts of the city that the Mayor's Recruiting Committee had to invoke the aid of the authorities. A new method of abuse came to light yesterday in the form of paper slips, two by four inches, which were found pasted to the number of many thousands over navy and army recruiting posters throughout the city. On these posters were printed the words: "No conscription. * * * Thou Shalt Not Kill."

Lieut. Commander Taylor, in charge of naval recruiting in New York City, said yesterday that New York City was fifty per cent behind its allotted quota of naval recruits. By June 15 the navy expects from New York 1,000 additional seamen, 200 machinists and firemen, and forty hospital corpsmen. Boilermakers, coppersmiths, and shipfitters are needed immediately.

A meeting of the Recruiting Committee was held yesterday in conjunction with several women recruiting committees, and it was decided to declare a "Navy Recruiting Week" from April 30 to May 5, during which every effort will be made, especially along the waterfronts, to obtain the enlistment of stokers, firemen, steamfitters, machinists, and others whose trades make them fit for the kind of work that is done below deck. During "Navy Recruiting Week" women recruiting workers will be assigned to ferryboats, street cars, Fifth Avenue buses, subways, and the entrances of factories.

Recruiting for the army, navy, and marines yesterday showed a falling off from the records established in the three previous days. Not more than eighty-one men were enlisted in the army from the New York district. By 6 P. M. the navy had a total of fifty men from Manhattan and Brooklyn. The United States Marine Corps had a total of sixteen enlistments, among them being Wilbur Harold Grifenhagen, the 18-year-old son of former Sheriff Max S. Grifenhagen. The boy will go to Philadelphia, where he will take an examination for a Lieutenancy, having had training at the New York Military Academy.

M. E. LEWIS IS ELECTED.

Legislature Chooses Him as the New Attorney General.

ALBANY, April 25.—The Legislature in joint session today elected Merton E. Lewis of Rochester as Attorney General of the State to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Egburt E. Woodbury of Jamestown. The vote was 173 to 2, the two Socialists of the Assembly casting their ballot for Morris Hillquit of New York.

Mr. Lewis's term will expire on Dec. 31, 1918. He was First Deputy Attorney General and was acting head of the law department of the State during Mr. Woodbury's illness. Mr. Lewis has long been identified with Republican politics in New York.

ARREST AMERICAN IN CHINA.

PEKING, April 25.—Gilbert Reid, an American, editor of the Peking Post, which has been daily printing German propaganda, was arrested today by an American Consular officer and taken to Tien-Tsin. He is charged with having slandered President Wilson.

Six hundred Americans attended a mass meeting at the American Legation today. Colonel Neville, commandant of the American guard, presided, and Professor Robert McNutt McElroy of Princeton University and Paul S. Reinsch, the American Minister, delivered addresses. Resolutions were adopted assuring President Wilson of the loyal support of Americans in China. A volunteer company aggregating 100 members has been organized.

We Are Proving That War Prices Are Not High

$725 F.O.B. FACTORY May 1st

On May first, this same Briscoe Model B4-24 will be $725.00 at the factory

THE BRISCOE MOTOR CORPORATION has been one of the last of the automobile companies to raise its price, but there was no other choice. You would much prefer to pay a small increase in price and know that the Briscoe standards of "The Best is None Too Good" are being vigorously maintained, than to feel the quality has been lessened.

A larger motor, additional equipment and finer finish make a car value, we feel, never equalled before. Ten big factories and experience dating from the beginning of the industry enable Mr. Briscoe to give so much for so little.

Pleasing design, fine upholstery, unusual leg-room, easy-to-understand controls and accessibility of every working part make this a car which fills your every desire.
